Army To Call 47,000 More Reserves Soon

Quota For Second Army Area Boosted To 23,509

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Army raised its manpower sights today with an announcement that 47,000 additional male enlisted reservists will be called to active duty by November 10.

This summons is in addition to earlier calls for 62,000 enlisted men and 8,432 reserve officers of captain's rank and below.

All but 4,000 of the reservists included in the new call will be selected proportionately from the six continental Army areas. The 4,000 will be drawn from the country as a while and will include men with less than one year of previous active duty. They will be in camp by November 10.

In Camp By Oct. 25

Enlisted reservists to be called from the Army areas are scheduled to be in training camps by October 25. The Army said that except for some specialists in the technical and administrative services, the age limits for this group will be 19 to 25, inclusive.

All men included in the call will be ordered to active duty with or without their consent from both the volunteer and the inactive reserve.

The priority of the individual calls to active duty, the Army stated, will be determined by the number of defendents of the reservists and the requirement for his individual military skill.

The Army has already called to active duty an undisclosed number of organized reserve units.

In Addition To Draftees

The call for reservists is in addition to the flow of recruits which will be brought into the Army by the draft. The Selective Service has been given the job of producing 100,000 men by the end of October. Approximately half of these recruits will be inducted in September and the remainder in October.

Selective Service Director Louis B. Hershey said recently that he had no reason to expect that the draft call in November would be less than 50,000.

The new quotas of enlisted reservists for the Army areas include:

Second Army quota increased from 13,012 announced Aug. 1 to 23,509. This includes Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware and Kentucky.

Red China Asks UN To Order U.S. Out Of Formosa

Move Is Believed Inspired By USSR

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 24 (AP)—Red China formally demanded today that the United Nations order withdrawal of all American forces from the Chinese Nationalist-held island of Formosa. The Chinese communists also said they were determined to "liberate" Formosa from the "tentacles of the United States aggressors."

The United States has no armed forces on Formosa, but the U. S. Seventh Fleet is patrolling the Formosan strait on orders from President Truman to prevent threatened red attacks.

The Red Chinese move was seen by U. N. diplomats as a Soviet-inspired step to inject the Formosan issue into the complicated Korean debate and take the heat off Russia and Communist North Korea.

The demand was contained in a cable sent by Chou En-Lai, foreign minister of the Peiping regime, to both Secretary-General Trygve Lie and to Russia's Jakob A. Malik, president for August of the Security Council.

Malik is expected to open tomorrow's council meeting (at 2 p. m., EST) by reading the Chinese communist message and perhaps launching charges of aggression against the United States in behalf of the Peiping government.

Malik already has before the council a resolution demanding withdrawal of all U. N. and other foreign troops from Korea.

Chou's cable to Lie and Malik said "the United States Seventh Fleet moved into the Straits of Taiwan (Formosa), followed by the arrival in Taiwan of contingents of the United States Air Force."

U. S. Air Force officials in Washington said today there are no American air units on Formosa. These officials said American planes have made training flights to the island but that none is based there or is on Formosa now. A dispatch from Tokyo Aug. 5 said six American jets had flown to the island from Japan.

GI Allowances Bill Approved 361-0 By House

Provides $45 To $85 Monthly Payments

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — The House, by the vote of 361 to 0, today passed legislation setting up government-paid family allowances of $45 to $85 a month for all enlisted men in the armed forces.

The Senate passed a somewhat similar bill Tuesday. Differences in the two versions will now be adjusted in conference.

Both measures would make payment as retroactive, starting Aug. 1 under the House bill and July 1 under the Senate version.

The government would pay the allowances out of the treasury—over and above the enlisted man's pay — but most GIs would have to chip in part of their own pay to help support their families. This would be deducted from the GIs' pay and sent directly to the families.

The House bill provides that the wife of a private, private first class, or corporal, with no children, would receive $45 from the government and $40 from her husband, a total of $85. In World War II a private's wife received a total of $50—$22 from her husband and $28 from the government.

The measure provides $70 a month government payments in the cases of all enlisted men regardless of grade, having two dependents — a wife and one child, for example.

For three or more dependents, the amount of the government payment goes to $85. That is the tops.

The bill says that only men in the three lower grades must take $40 a month out of their own pay to support their dependents.

For men in the higher grades—sergeants in the Army and comparable grades in the other services—the government would give an allowance of $70 for one or two dependents, $85 for more than two. No paycheck deduction is required for men in the upper grades. The idea is that they get more pay and are men of more mature responsibility who will make their own arrangements to help support families.

Truman Order To Seize Rails Expected Soon

Has No Alternative, Top Official Asserts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—A prominent administration official said tonight he expects President Truman to order seizure of the nation's strike-threatened railroads within 48 hours.

Two big rail unions—the trainmen and the conductors—have instructed their 300,000 members to quit work Monday at 6 a. m. when that hour is reached in each locality.

The unions have said they would continue to operate the railroads in the event of government seizure.

The administration official, asking that his name not be used, told a reporter the unions' sudden call for a nationwide walkout left Mr. Truman with little choice but to act fast.

President Has Little Choice

The official said the emergency created by the Korean war and mounting defense program leaves the President with no alternative but to keep the trains running.

"I don't believe the President can do anything else but seize," the official said. "The only question is when."

He went on to say the President probably will act by Saturday at least—in order to avoid slowdown and layoff preparations by the railroads in advance of the Monday strike deadline. These advance strike preparations might aggravate an existing boxcar shortage, he added.

The situation is to be discussed at a Cabinet meeting tomorrow. It is possible a decision on what step to take will be made then.

Should the strike go into effect, it was estimated by officials of the Association of American Railroads that some 1,700,000 railroad workers in all categories, both operating and clerical, probably would be laid off.

Truman Hints At Bad Faith

President Truman himself hinted at his news conference earlier today that he felt the two railroad unions had acted in bad faith because of their prior no-strike pledge to him.

Clearly perturbed, Mr. Truman told newsmen the unions' call for a coast-to-coast walkout on 131 lines came without warning and less than an hour after both sides in the dispute had assured him there would be no such strike.

He emphasized it was sudden and unexpected and made it plain that after weeks of White House efforts to avert a strike, he felt he had been dealt with unfairly.

Reds Prepare For Big Push Toward Pusan

British Commandos Raid Isle On West

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 25 (AP)—Red Koreans reopened fighting north of Taegu with a heavy attack Thursday night and moved a division forward in the southern sector, about 40 road miles from the port city of Pusan.

Eighth Army headquarters reported 14 North Korean tanks and an estimated 2,000 troops made a "small penetration" in an area held by the Sixth South Korean Division deployed eastward of the Taegu corridor.

In a stab on the other side of Korea from the battlefront, British commandos Thursday night landed on an island near the red-held west coast port of Inchon and destroyed a supply dump and radio station. This daring raid was disclosed Friday by a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Huth said one and a half communist regiments — possibly 4,000 men—hit hard at the South Korean Sixth Division in the north sector. At the same time, two red companies were repulsed in a flank attack on the U. S. 27th (Wolfhound) regiment.

Lull Is Broken

The 27th is defending a straight stretch of road through a mountain corridor about 15 miles north of Taegu with South Koreans in the heights on its flanks. The new attacks resumed fighting which had subsided on Thursday after the Reds had failed in similar stabs on four previous days.

Huth's dispatch did not say what was the effect or outcome of the reds' heavy attack against the South Korean Sixth.

The 27th, while repulsing the left flank attack, also was under heavy mortar and artillery fire on the right flank.

In the southern sector, where one of two red divisions was reported moving toward U. S. 25th Division positions west of Masan, American fighters and bombers swarmed to the attack Friday. Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton said the planes, opening the third month of the war, hit at heavy troop concentrations.

Intelligence officers told Swinton a red attack on Masan appeared imminent.

Small Scale Attack Repulsed

Early Friday, the reds made a small scale attack against negro infantrymen of the 24th Regiment of the U. S. 25th Division. It was repulsed.

It is opposite the 24th Regiment the reds in the south sector have concentrated their strength.

The red southern thrust began Thursday night.

Chinese Nationalists Report Reds In Tibet

TAIPEI, Aug. 25 (Friday)—(INS)—Chinese Nationalist authorities said today that Chinese communist forces have invaded Tibet and apparently are meeting little or no opposition.

The invading troops, according to Nationalist officials, are under command of Liu Po-Cheng, one-eyed veteran Chinese Red general of many campaigns.

Nationalist authorities said Red troops actually began marching into Tibet from the northwest several weeks ago after Liu announced his determination to "liberate" the so-called "Forbidden Land."

Shirley Mae Leaves Home

SOMERSET, Mass., Aug. 24 (INS)—Shirley Mae France "disowned" her family and today moved into the home of her swimming coach and his wife four and a half miles away in Swansea.

The attractive 18-year-old school girl who twice was pulled from the water in unsuccessful attempts to swim the English Channel, had this to say tonight about her action:

"It's my own business, but actually it comes down to a personality conflict between my father and myself. We were not speaking in England.

"Mr. Boudakian is my best friend. He and his wife have asked me to live with them. I definitely will not return home. I want to go back to school and prepare for a career in physical education."

Doctor Averages $1,125 Day Examining Draftees' X-Rays

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — Disclosure that some doctors are getting large sums — as high as $1,125 a day — for x-raying draftees surprised Capitol Hill tonight and a congressional inquiry was announced.

"We'll look into it," said Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

"Of course," he added to a reporter, "the government will get a lot of that back in income taxes."

At Milwaukee Army officials confirmed that a Milwaukee physician has averaged $1,125 a day so far this month, excluding Sundays, examing x-rays of men processed through the induction center there.

The physician is Dr. Irving Cowan, who is paid $5 each for checking the x-rays.

"We've had more than 4,500 x-rays taken here since the first of the month," said Capt. Thomas Appleby, Jr., public relations officer at the induction center.

"You can figure it out for yourself."

It figures to over $22,500.

The x-rays are taken at the center on a machine owned by Dr. Cowan. Two technicians get $1.50 an hour each for operating it. Dr. Cowan examines and interprets the prints at his office.

Dr. Cowan said he had bid for the work through the Surgeon General's office.

Conferees Okay $33,850,000,000 Money Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — A vast $33,850,000,000 bill to run many branches of the government for a year was approved late today by a Senate-House conference committee.

The committee slashed $200,000,000 from Marshall Plan funds in the bill. It approved the Senate's loan for Spain but trimmed it from $100,000,000 to $62,500,000.

The bill's total represents a cut of probably a third of a billion dollars under the amount voted by the Senate. The figures are subject to final committee check.

The measure needs both Senate and House approval. It comes up in the House tomorrow.

Both Senate and House had voted stiff economy amendments to be applied to the sums they approved. The committee threw out both formulas, however, and reached a compromise of its own.

The committee economy provision calls for the Budget Bureau to make cuts totalling $550,000,000 without impairing national defense.

The committee's bill, by estimate of its staff, came to $34,400,000,000, subject to the $550,000,000 reduction, leaving a balance of $33,850,000,000. Committee experts emphasized that the figures were "rough".

In the House, meanwhile, a $16,771,084,497 emergency appropriation bill was voted out by its Appropriation Committee.

The vast bulk of it goes for military costs added to the year's spending budget by the world emergency growing out of the Korean campaign. (The bill includes such items as 5,333 more warplanes, 200,000 midget radios to receive our propaganda abroad, four billion more to arm anti-red Europe.)

The bill is expected to be passed by the House tomorrow. It then goes to the Senate.

The two bills total more than $50,500,000,000.

Harry Bridges Is Ordered Freed By Court Of Appeals

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24 (AP)—Harry Bridges, jailed Aug. 5 on the government's contention that he was a menace to national security, was ordered freed by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today.

Steps immediately were taken toward restoring the Australian-born CIO longshore union leader to liberty under $25,000 bail.

This was the amount of bail Bridges had furnished while he awaited decision on his appeal from a Federal Court conviction and sentence of five years imprisonment on perjury and conspiracy charges.

However, Bridges did not immediately get his freedom. Federal District Judge Michael J. Roche declined to sign papers after court hours ordering Bridges released. He told the longshore leader's attorneys he was not familiar with the appeals court's decision. He instructed the attorneys to present the papers at 10 a. m. tomorrow in his court.

In a two-to-one opinion, Circuit Judges William Healy and William Orr held "there is no showing that Bridges has in the present position committed any recognizable crime, or that he has himself counseled or advocated sabotage or sought to foment strikes or the establishment of picket lines on the waterfront." They termed the government's effort to jail him "novel and startling."

Judge Clifton Mathews dissented. He held Federal District Judge George B. Harris' order revoking Bridges' bail and jailing him as "amply warranted."

"It is our purpose neither to minimize on the one hand nor to exaggerate on the other the possible implications of Bridges' utterances as disclosed in the government showing," the majority opinion said.

The government, through Special Prosecutor F. Joseph Donohue, had successfully asked that Bridges' $25,000 bail be revoked on the grounds he was a menace to the country during the Korean war.

Fine Fishing Spot Jinx For Farmer

TULARE, Calif., Aug. 24. (AP)—Charles Weaver says Cloud Canyon is a fine fishing spot, plenty of trout and bass, but he took it off his list today. Says it's jinxed.

First time Weaver, 34-year-old farmer, went fishing in Cloud Canyon was in 1945. When he returned his World War II draft orders were awaiting him.

Second time he went there was a few days ago. When he returned he found an official envelope awaiting him. It contained his recall to active Army duty.

McCloy Warns Of Red Threat

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 24 (AP)—U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy warned tonight that Soviet Russia appears to be building in East Germany an advance base from which a communist move against Allied Western Germany and Western Europe can be launched.

McCloy asserted that Soviet-occupied East Germany was being systematically alienated from Western Germany and integrated into the Soviet Union's East European satellite orbit.

The American High Commisioner made these observations in his quarterly report on occupation affairs.

They were made public at a time when the Western Powers were concerned with the question of rearming Western Germany to help defend itself against possible communist aggression from the east.

McCloy called the remilitarization program in the Russian occupation zone "one of the most sinister developments since the end of the war."

The strength of this army has grown to at least 50,000 men "and considerable information about training in heavier weapons has seeped through to the West," McCloy asserted.

Errol And Patrice Now Plan To Wed In France

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP)—Actress Patrice Wymore, 21, plans to fly to France next month to marry Film Star Errol Flynn, it was disclosed today.

A Warner Brothers spokesman said the ceremony would be in either Paris or Nice, but that the exact date has not been set. Flynn is in France making a movie.

The couple previously had said they would be married in Miss Wymore's home town, Salina, Kan., after he returned here in October.

No Talk Of Slash As Senate Takes Up Tax Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — A much heavier increase in the American tax load was demanded inside and outside of Congress today as the Senate took up a bill to raise $4,508,000,000 in new revenue.

There was no talk of cutting the measure, which represents a hurried-up effort to help pay for a large new anti-communist war machine.

In fact, the Senate was reminded more tax legislation will be along in a few months. Backers of the bill ran up against strong efforts to put up into it at once a levy on excess profits. The vote may be close on this point.

But Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, brought the measure before the Senate with the assertion that it is "the maximum action that can be taken at this time."

To go further now, such as including an excess profits levy on corporations, and plugging more tax loopholes, would delay action for months, he said.

George expained that this is an "interim" tax bill requested by President Truman, and not designed to meet fully the cost problems created by the military emergency.

George assured the Senate there is more tax legislation in the mill. He predicted Congress would act on a "second installment" of about $7,000,000,000 which may include a four to six billion excess profits tax.

The committee, he noted, has ordered its staff to prepare corporate excess profits tax proposals (effective Jan. 1, 1951), and to study the possibilities of (1) extending such a tax to war-swollen incomes of individuals; and (2) the practicability of enacting a national manufacturers or retail sales tax, or a transaction tax.

Truman Is Voted Priority Powers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee on anti-inflation legislation voted tonight to give President Truman — instead of Secretary of Commerce Sawyer — full authority to allocate scare defense materials.

The decision was a major first-round victory for administration forces in their battle to give Mr. Truman a free hand in the operation of economic controls.

At a news conference earlier in the day, the President had expressed displeasure at a Senate proposal to bypass him and give the control powers directly to Sawyer. At the same time, however, Mr. Truman denied, as absolutely untrue, reports that Sawyer had lobbied for the powers.

The Senate-House committee is ironing out differences between separate home front mobilization bills passed by the two branches of Congress.

Conferees Okay $33,850,000,000 Money Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — A vast $33,850,000,000 bill to run many branches of the government for a year was approved late today by a Senate-House conference committee.

The committee slashed $200,000,000 from Marshall Plan funds in the bill. It approved the Senate's loan for Spain but trimmed it from $100,000,000 to $62,500,000.

The bill's total represents a cut of probably a third of a billion dollars under the amount voted by the Senate. The figures are subject to final committee check.

The measure needs both Senate and House approval. It comes up in the House tomorrow.

Both Senate and House had voted stiff economy amendments to be applied to the sums they approved. The committee threw out both formulas, however, and reached a compromise of its own.

The committee economy provision calls for the Budget Bureau to make cuts totalling $550,000,000 without impairing national defense.

The committee's bill, by estimate of its staff, came to $34,400,000,000, subject to the $550,000,000 reduction, leaving a balance of $33,850,000,000. Committee experts emphasized that the figures were "rough".

In the House, meanwhile, a $16,771,084,497 emergency appropriation bill was voted out by its Appropriation Committee.

The vast bulk of it goes for military costs added to the year's spending budget by the world emergency growing out of the Korean campaign. (The bill includes such items as 5,333 more warplanes, 200,000 midget radios to receive our propaganda abroad, four billion more to arm anti-red Europe.)

The bill is expected to be passed by the House tomorrow. It then goes to the Senate.

The two bills total more than $50,500,000,000.

Harry Bridges Is Ordered Freed By Court Of Appeals

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24 (AP)—Harry Bridges, jailed Aug. 5 on the government's contention that he was a menace to national security, was ordered freed by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today.

Steps immediately were taken toward restoring the Australian-born CIO longshore union leader to liberty under $25,000 bail.

This was the amount of bail Bridges had furnished while he awaited decision on his appeal from a Federal Court conviction and sentence of five years imprisonment on perjury and conspiracy charges.

However, Bridges did not immediately get his freedom. Federal District Judge Michael J. Roche declined to sign papers after court hours ordering Bridges released. He told the longshore leader's attorneys he was not familiar with the appeals court's decision. He instructed the attorneys to present the papers at 10 a. m. tomorrow in his court.

In a two-to-one opinion, Circuit Judges William Healy and William Orr held "there is no showing that Bridges has in the present position committed any recognizable crime, or that he has himself counseled or advocated sabotage or sought to foment strikes or the establishment of picket lines on the waterfront." They termed the government's effort to jail him "novel and startling."

Judge Clifton Mathews dissented. He held Federal District Judge George B. Harris' order revoking Bridges' bail and jailing him as "amply warranted."

"It is our purpose neither to minimize on the one hand nor to exaggerate on the other the possible implications of Bridges' utterances as disclosed in the government showing," the majority opinion said.

The government, through Special Prosecutor F. Joseph Donohue, had successfully asked that Bridges' $25,000 bail be revoked on the grounds he was a menace to the country during the Korean war.

Fine Fishing Spot Jinx For Farmer

TULARE, Calif., Aug. 24. (AP)—Charles Weaver says Cloud Canyon is a fine fishing spot, plenty of trout and bass, but he took it off his list today. Says it's jinxed.

First time Weaver, 34-year-old farmer, went fishing in Cloud Canyon was in 1945. When he returned his World War II draft orders were awaiting him.

Second time he went there was a few days ago. When he returned he found an official envelope awaiting him. It contained his recall to active Army duty.

McCloy Warns Of Red Threat

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 24 (AP)—U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy warned tonight that Soviet Russia appears to be building in East Germany an advance base from which a communist move against Allied Western Germany and Western Europe can be launched.

McCloy asserted that Soviet-occupied East Germany was being systematically alienated from Western Germany and integrated into the Soviet Union's East European satellite orbit.

The American High Commisioner made these observations in his quarterly report on occupation affairs.

They were made public at a time when the Western Powers were concerned with the question of rearming Western Germany to help defend itself against possible communist aggression from the east.

McCloy called the remilitarization program in the Russian occupation zone "one of the most sinister developments since the end of the war."

The strength of this army has grown to at least 50,000 men "and considerable information about training in heavier weapons has seeped through to the West," McCloy asserted.

A Warner Brothers spokesman said the ceremony would be in either Paris or Nice, but that the exact date has not been set. Flynn is in France making a movie.

The couple previously had said they would be married in Miss Wymore's home town, Salina, Kan., after he returned here in October.

No Talk Of Slash As Senate Takes Up Tax Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — A much heavier increase in the American tax load was demanded inside and outside of Congress today as the Senate took up a bill to raise $4,508,000,000 in new revenue.

There was no talk of cutting the measure, which represents a hurried-up effort to help pay for a large new anti-communist war machine.

In fact, the Senate was reminded more tax legislation will be along in a few months. Backers of the bill ran up against strong efforts to put up into it at once a levy on excess profits. The vote may be close on this point.

But Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, brought the measure before the Senate with the assertion that it is "the maximum action that can be taken at this time."

To go further now, such as including an excess profits levy on corporations, and plugging more tax loopholes, would delay action for months, he said.

George expained that this is an "interim" tax bill requested by President Truman, and not designed to meet fully the cost problems created by the military emergency.

George assured the Senate there is more tax legislation in the mill. He predicted Congress would act on a "second installment" of about $7,000,000,000 which may include a four to six billion excess profits tax.

The committee, he noted, has ordered its staff to prepare corporate excess profits tax proposals (effective Jan. 1, 1951), and to study the possibilities of (1) extending such a tax to war-swollen incomes of individuals; and (2) the practicability of enacting a national manufacturers or retail sales tax, or a transaction tax.

Reds Prepare For Big Push Toward Pusan

British Commandos Raid Isle On West

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 25 (AP)—Red Koreans reopened fighting north of Taegu with a heavy attack Thursday night and moved a division forward in the southern sector, about 40 road miles from the port city of Pusan.

Eighth Army headquarters reported 14 North Korean tanks and an estimated 2,000 troops made a "small penetration" in an area held by the Sixth South Korean Division deployed eastward of the Taegu corridor.

In a stab on the other side of Korea from the battlefront, British commandos Thursday night landed on an island near the red-held west coast port of Inchon and destroyed a supply dump and radio station.

This daring raid was disclosed Friday by a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Huth said one and a half communist regiments — possibly 4,000 men—hit hard at the South Korean Sixth Division in the north sector. At the same time, two red companies were repulsed in a flank attack on the U. S. 27th (Wolfhound) regiment.

Lull Is Broken

The 27th is defending a straight stretch of road through a mountain corridor about 15 miles north of Taegu with South Koreans in the heights on its flanks. The new attacks resumed fighting which had subsided on Thursday after the Reds had failed in similar stabs on four previous days.

Huth's dispatch did not say what was the effect or outcome of the reds' heavy attack against the South Korean Sixth.

The 27th, while repulsing the left flank attack, also was under heavy mortar and artillery fire on the right flank.

In the southern sector, where one of two red divisions was reported moving toward U. S. 25th Division positions west of Masan, American fighters and bombers swarmed to the attack Friday. Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton said the planes, opening the third month of the war, hit at heavy troop concentrations.

Intelligence officers told Swinton a red attack on Masan appeared imminent.

Small Scale Attack Repulsed

Early Friday, the reds made a small scale attack against negro infantrymen of the 24th Regiment of the U. S. 25th Division. It was repulsed.

It is opposite the 24th Regiment the reds in the south sector have concentrated their strength.

The red southern thrust began Thursday night.

Chinese Nationalists Report Reds In Tibet

TAIPEI, Aug. 25 (Friday)—(INS)—Chinese Nationalist authorities said today that Chinese communist forces have invaded Tibet and apparently are meeting little or no opposition.

The invading troops, according to Nationalist officials, are under command of Liu Po-Cheng, one-eyed veteran Chinese Red general of many campaigns.

Nationalist authorities said Red troops actually began marching into Tibet from the northwest several weeks ago after Liu announced his determination to "liberate" the so-called "Forbidden Land."

Truman Is Voted Priority Powers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee on anti-inflation legislation voted tonight to give President Truman — instead of Secretary of Commerce Sawyer — full authority to allocate scare defense materials.

The decision was a major first-round victory for administration forces in their battle to give Mr. Truman a free hand in the operation of economic controls.

At a news conference earlier in the day, the President had expressed displeasure at a Senate proposal to bypass him and give the control powers directly to Sawyer. At the same time, however, Mr. Truman denied, as absolutely untrue, reports that Sawyer had lobbied for the powers.

The Senate-House committee is ironing out differences between separate home front mobilization bills passed by the two branches of Congress.

Shirley Mae Leaves Home

SOMERSET, Mass., Aug. 24 (INS)—Shirley Mae France "disowned" her family and today moved into the home of her swimming coach and his wife four and a half miles away in Swansea.

The attractive 18-year-old school girl who twice was pulled from the water in unsuccessful attempts to swim the English Channel, had this to say tonight about her action:

"It's my own business, but actually it comes down to a personality conflict between my father and myself. We were not speaking in England.

"Mr. Boudakian is my best friend. He and his wife have asked me to live with them. I definitely will not return home. I want to go back to school and prepare for a career in physical education."

Doctor Averages $1,125 Day Examining Draftees' X-Rays

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — Disclosure that some doctors are getting large sums — as high as $1,125 a day — for x-raying draftees surprised Capitol Hill tonight and a congressional inquiry was announced.

"We'll look into it," said Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

"Of course," he added to a reporter, "the government will get a lot of that back in income taxes."

At Milwaukee Army officials confirmed that a Milwaukee physician has averaged $1,125 a day so far this month, excluding Sundays, examing x-rays of men processed through the induction center there.

The physician is Dr. Irving Cowan, who is paid $5 each for checking the x-rays.

"We've had more than 4,500 x-rays taken here since the first of the month," said Capt. Thomas Appleby, Jr., public relations officer at the induction center.

"You can figure it out for yourself."

It figures to over $22,500.

The x-rays are taken at the center on a machine owned by Dr. Cowan. Two technicians get $1.50 an hour each for operating it. Dr. Cowan examines and interprets the prints at his office.

Dr. Cowan said he had bid for the work through the Surgeon General's office.

Fugitive Mayor Of Dearborn Sets Up Government In Exile

SASKATOON, Saskatchewan —(INS)—Exiled Mayor Orville Hubbard of Dearborn, Mich., has arrived in Saskatoon to set up his second headquarters for his fugitive city government.

Hubbard, a U. S. delegate to the convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities meeting in Saskatoon, said he has established "base headquarters" for his temporary government-in-exile in a Windsor, Ont., hotel suite.

The mayor, who has held office for the past nine years, is fleeing what he terms a "strictly political court writ" that will send him to jail if he returns to the Motor City of Dearborn.

Hubbard said he will run his government from Canada or anywhere else until he feels "justice is done."

A Dearborn attorney recently won a $7,500 attachment against the mayor on libel charges stemming from election campaigning last year.

Mayor Hubbard refused to pay up, charging "politics."

The attorney swore out a "body" writ" against Hubbard under Michigan law when he failed to attach any of the mayor's property.

Hubbard claimed:

"I'm about as execution proof as a fellow can get."

Because failure to pay under the "body" writ results in imprisonment in Michigan, Hubbard left Wayne County and Dearborn. But he did not abandon his responsibilities to the 95,000 residents of the Motor City.

Hubbard disappeared from Dearborn several weeks ago. He remained in the east and then moved to Windsor last Saturday to establish his "government in exile."'

He charged:

"The judgement is strictly a political move against our government. We're not going to be beaten on this thing."

In Windsor, the mayor conferred with his aldermen on city business, drew up plans for Dearborn's annual fair and said:

"The council is very cooperative."

Hubbard plans to operate the city business from his Saskatoon hotel room until the end of August. He told newsmen:

"I've got to have a little fun out of this."

The mayor even had stationery printed. The letter head reads:

"Temporary office of the mayor of Dearborn in exile. City of Windsor, Province of Ontario."

Hubbardd said that if no relief is in sight by Labor Day he will return to the U. S. but not to Wayne County. He continued:

"I'm arranging to have a large tent, a sort of mayor's field office erected at Camp Dearborn, a large recreation area in the next county. If they swear out a writ for that county, I'll just move my tent 1,000 yards to the next county. They'll have to have writs for 83 counties in Michigan before they're through!"

And if that happens, Mayor Hubbard has an answer:

"I'll move right back into city hall and let the sheriff come and get me. But don't forget my position under the present setup in Michigan has me sitting right on top of the mayor's appropriation."

"Sloggerville" Is Where The Fighting Soldiers Live

By DON WHITEHEAD

WITH THE 27th INFANTRY REGIMENT IN KOREA, (AP)—The road from Taegu crosses the Naktong River and then winds across a deep valley until it reaches "Sloggerville."

That's the name given by correspondents to the area along the frontlines.

That's where the fighting soldiers live—up in Sloggerville—where the slogging infantry is battling to save the city of Taegu from the reds.

Death rides with the whisper of a bullet in Sloggerville, or the grump of a mortar or the vicious whack of artillery. But the infantrymen accept the dangers with a cool reserve of courage that ceases to be astonishing. And in the drumfire of the guns there is a never-ending battle of wits with the enemy.

At one point in the road a path runs across a rice paddy and into a rocky ravine where Lt. Col. Gilbert Check has a temporary command post for his First Battalion. This is one of the nerve centers for Sloggerville—the mayors office, the city hall and the telephone exchange.

Capt. Don R. Hickman of Salt Lake City, Utah, roused himself from a midday nap on a blanket spread on the rocks. He rubbed his eyes and squatted by a telephone just as three mortar shells whistled in and burst on the bank above the narrow ravine.

At that moment, a telephone rang and a private reported to Hickman that Charlie Company was getting enemy fire into the C. P. from a group of reds who had slipped into the American lines.

Hickman picked up the phone and called regiment. "The North Koreans have broken in behind the lines of Charlie Company," he said. "Also, their motars have started to zero on our C. P."

Hickman and his little group had little sleep for three straight nights as the enemy attacked with tanks and infantry.

"It was funny," a soldier said, "how you get used to going without sleep. I never thought I could do it. But you do if you have to."

The incoming calls came fast and then there was the vicious whizzing of bullets just over our heads. The reports from the companies said the enemy not only had Charlie Company pinned down but that the North Koreans had pushed on to the ridge above the C. P.

Charlie Company's commander, Capt. Alfred S. Burnett, Knoxville, Tenn., was unable to get to the phone. He was in a foxhole and had to shout messages to his telephone operator in another hole who relayed them to the battalion command post.

Hickman alerted a company to get some counter mortar fire on the enemy up on the ridges.

"They are on the ridge where the South Koreans are supposed to be," he said, "and they are headed toward our C. P."

The officers and men hugged the stony sides of the ridge for protection from the bullets zipping down the draw. Finally Lt. Hames Betts, Flourtown, Pa., casually stood up.

"I can't put up with this," he said, "I've got to go to work." He was battalion communications officer and it was his job to see that all telephone and radio communications were open.

"It's a hell of a job sometimes," he explained "trying to keep our lines open when they are cut by artillery fire at night. Then our equipment is scarce and is beginning to wear out."

A lanky lieutenant walked down the draw to the C. P.

"Where's that stuff coming from?" Hickman said as the bullets ripped through the weeds.

"It's coming from that highest peak up there," the lieutenant said, pointing to the peak where the South Koreans had been earlier in the day.

Hickman ordered an officer to go out and reorganize the South Korean troops and get them back onto the high ridge.

"This is serious and we've got to get them back up there," he said.

From the ravine, Hickman seemingly could visualize the entire battlefield, the positions of the enemy and the positions of the companies in the First Battalion. With his colonel away it was his job to handle operations.

Gradually the First Battalion worked out of a bad spot with firepower that drove the enemy back. Charlie Company drove back the reds who had infiltrated. And the reds were pushed back from the ridge-top from which they had poured down on the battalion C. P.

Life went on as usual in Sloggerville—the place where the war is being decided by the men who do the fighting.

CIA's New Boss Knows The Russians

It is difficult to think of any American better fitted to head the nation's Central Intelligence Agency at this critical moment in history than Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who has just been appointed to the job.

General Smith is a tough soldier and a tireless worker with a razor sharp mind. In three years in Moscow, as U. S. ambassador, he got to know the Russians well and he is probably as familiar with the workings of Premier Stalin's mind as any other American.

A man of broad experience and few illusions, he seems exceptionally well equipped to head an agency whose principal job is to safeguard the United States against surprise attack.

It is extremely unfortunate, however, that the CIA has had so many different heads during the three short years since it was set up by Congress. No agency can be expected to function at its best with such frequent changes in its top command. The FBI, by contrast, has had the same directing head for the past 25 years.

If the CIA is ever to achieve the effectiveness of the FBI—and it is certainly no less important to national security—it must be given a chance to function without constant interruptions. No matter how good a man is, he can't accomplish much if he is booted out as soon as he becomes familiar with the working of the agency he heads.

Biography of Thomas Jefferson will be in 50 volumes. Many present-day politicians could learn something about the facts of government from any one of them.

Blind Voting

Reports from Washington say that some congressmen are concerned about growth of the practice of bringing bills or amendments up for consideration in the House without printed copies available for members to read in advance, and sometimes without even full reading of them on the floor. Everyone has heard the familiar admonition to individuals: "Never sign anything without reading it." That is good advice; it might be good for Congress, too.

Examples have been cited in news stories to show that the House actually has voted on measures neither printed nor read aloud. Members sometimes discover later that they didn't realize what they were voting for, and change their votes. Sometimes they don't discover it in time to change.

The House rules of course provide means for preventing this. The objection of any member can require that a measure be read in full before action is taken. But every member knows that the calendar is loaded with bills which can never be considered because there isn't enough time. Thus the member is always under pressure to help speed the pace, and is reductant to be the one who holds things up by requiring the reading or explanation of a measure.

It is plain that this situation ought not to exist. But how can it be prevented? Congress always gets in a terrific jam as the end of a session nears. Much has been said of the need for reform of the executive branch of the government, because it has grown too big with too little plan. The same might be said of the legislative branch. It, too, needs a thorough overhauling.

Unfavorable weather has cut the Arkansas spinach crop 40 per cent, and Junior wants to know if that is unfavorable.

Undeveloped Markets

A West African deputy to the Consultative Assembly of the Council of Europe, speaking at a recent meeting of the Assembly, dangled before that body the prospective market for European goods which would be found in Africa if the standard of living of the African native were raised. Africa has a population of more than 175 million persons, most of whom live by primitive standards. What a market would be created for all manner of goods and materials if some magic could lift the average African family to a modern house, with furniture and bathroom and gadgets, to possession of an automobile of sorts and a wardrobe scaled to Western living. The picture is almost beyond imagination. If such a thing could come to pass, needless to say there would be a market for America as well as for Europe.

There is a potential market of almost comparable size, and perhaps of something nearer to possibility, in the Western Hemisphere. There are more than a hundred million persons in South America and perhaps fifty million in North America south of the United States border. There are numerous highly developed cities and areas in these regions, yet there also are substantial segments of the population living in primitive style.

In both Africa and South America there are many natural resources from which could be drawn the wealth to pay for something like a modern standard of living. How can the cycle be set in motion, how can a primitive people be set on the path of modern living? That is one of the most fascinating and potentially profitable questions of the present age, and one of the most baffling.

It now seems amazing that only recently the populace was all excited over Ingrid Bergman, et al.

Bubble Gum Follies

The first "world championship" bubble gum blowing contest has been held at Riverview Beach, N. J.

Alas, the times and the customs! That it has come to this—the glorification of this insidious habit of youngsters chewing a wadful of gum and blowing the residuum into a large balloon that eventually bursts amid guffaws.

In this particular contest, finalists from three states competed for the dubious honors. And what happens to the "lucky" child who can blow the largest and most sustained bubble? What does the future hold for the kid?

Actually, chewing gum did not start in our times. The ancient historian, Plutarch, in 100 A. D. wrote about chewing gum. Here, in this new world, the Spanish invaders found the Aztecs chewing chicle. A U. S. patent on chewing gum was granted in 1869.

Gum chewing is described as a harmless habit that relaxes the nerves and is beneficial to the teeth. At least, the gum companies claim that. But what can they claim for the bubble variety of gum?

There is value of swimming contests, soap box derbies, and BB gun tournaments. There's even some fun in freckle counting and Mark Twain made frog hopping famous. But bubble gum!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Artificial Limbs

EVERY physician has had the unpleasant duty of informing a patient that he must lose an arm or leg. The victim naturally is upset and, at the moment, thoughts of the future flash thru his mind such as "Will I be able to walk?" "How will my friends take it?" or "It this the end?"

An artifical limb never takes the place of the original. It does a good job of imitation but cannot reproduce all of the functions of the live extremity. This is especially true of prosthetic devices of the hand and arm because touch and grasp are so hard to duplicate. The situation is different in the lower extremities because their primary duty is weight bearing and locomotion.

Nevertheless the modern prosthesis should encourage every amputee. It is well known that man's full working capacity rarely is used. For this reason the one who has lost an arm or leg is still able to get along. The loss may appear to be a serious misfortune but the mishap often leads to a happier and more enjoyable life because the victim learns to accept his fate. Futhermore, those who are willing to learn can be rehabilitated sufficiently to earn a profitable living. Unfortunately, many give up too soon and as a result become dependent upon others and waste away in sheer idleness.

When amputation becomes necessary the victim usually asks where the limb is to be severed. Sometimes he becomes dictatorial and will not consent to the operation if removal at a high level is recommended. He does not understand that the surgeon bases his decision on the fact that there are certain places where an artificial limb fits better.

The next problem for the amputee arises after the wound has healed. The best prosthesis in the world will be of little value if the stump is not in good condition. Before the leg can be fitted the tissues will have to shrink. Nature takes care of this process but it can be hastened by bandaging the parts once or twice a day with an elastic bandage. This procedure prevents such complications as wrinkles, creases, sores, and excessive flesh. Exercise also is important. Massage is not advised because irritation of tender nerves may follow. It is wise to wait at least six weeks after amputation before measurements for the device are taken. These factors may make the difference between walking easily in a normal fashion or sloppy and with pain and strain.

• — • — •

The selection of the artificial limb is not always easy. They are made of different kinds of material including wood, fiber, and plastic. In addition, many of the salesmen are amputees themselves and each is able to demonstrate how well he can get about with the particular leg he is selling. All too often, the newcomer is convinced, when he sees the performance, that "this is the limb for me." It is wise to remember that these men have been practicing for years and are adept at using the prosthesis. But because each case is an individual problem; there is no general rule and most physicians suggest a device that works best in most cases. Beyond that the afflicted person takes over and may be forced to change to another type at a later date if the one selected proves unsatisfactory.

Korean Posts Manned By Second-Rate Officers; Sen. McKellar Threatens Congressman Cannon With Gavel; Harry Vaughan Pulls Wires For Political Crony

Says JACK ANDERSON

(EDITOR'S NOTE—While Drew Pearson is a brief vacation, his column will be written by members of his staff).

WASHINGTON — Our boys in Korea are entitled to the Army's best combat officers, whose leadership may mean the difference between life and death. Yet it is common talk in the Pentagon that some key battle posts are manned by second-rate officers.

There seems to be a reluctance on the Army's part to send its first team to Korea. Though the Army has plenty of crack officers, the Korean command went to Lieut. Gen. Walton Walker who happened to be the highest-ranking officer unded MacArthur and thereby inherited the job.

Walker served successfully during the last war under the late Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. However, Walker's fellow generals don't think much of him as a great field commander.

One general summed up the common opinion of Walker bluntly: "Walker is a methodical, plodding, Regular Army plug horse who suddenly found himself a lieutenant general."

The impression is that while Walker is not a bad general, he is not a particularly good one. Yet the G.I.'s at the front are entitled to the best commanding general we've got.

Walker's chief of staff is Col. Eugene Landrum, who commanded the 90th Division when it landed in France in June, 1944. However, he made such a poor showing that he was relieved of his command within two months and shipped back to the states. Later, when most of the wartime generals were demoted one rank, Landrum was dropped two ranks, from major general to colonel. Yet he now holds the crucial post as Walker's chief of staff in Korea — because, like Walker, Landrum happened to be in line for the job.

Back in Japan, the G-2 section is General MacArthur's eyes and ears. Its job is to gather and analyze military intelligence, so vital in time of war. Yet the G-2 chief, in charge of this important listening post, is Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby, a strutting heel-clicker who has been accused by subordinates of doctoring the intelligence reports to please rather than inform MacArthur. Born in Prussia, Willoughby's real name is Von Tschepe-Wiedenbach, and his principal qualification is the fact that he served under MacArthur on Bataan. This is the estimate of fellow generals.

NOTE—Like the Army, the Marines also sent a subordinate to Korea. Instead of Maj. Gen. Graves Erskine accompanying his troops, he was given a diplomatic assignment in Latin America and the next in command, Brig. Gen. Edward Craig, went to Korea. The reason was that the Army divisions are commanded by brigadier generals, and the Marines didn't want to embarrass the Army by sending over a major general.

Explosive McKellar

The full story hasn't been told how 81-year-old Sen. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee tried to bop 71-year-old Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri over the head with a gavel.

It happened behind closed doors, while Senate and House conferees were trying to iron out differences in the appropriations bill. This brought McKellar, the Senate Appropriations chairman, and Cannon, the House Appropriations chairman, into violent disagreement.

With an explosive snort, McKellar accused Cannon of "making slurring references." Then the aged Tennessean began spouting expletives, which an eyewitness later reported "almost peeled the paint off the walls."

This was too much for Cannon who announced he wouldn't take such abuse "from any man" and started after McKellar. Simultaneously, the sputtering Senator from Tennessee picked up his gavel which he had been using to rap the table and tried to rap Cannon. However, colleagues separated them before they could do any damage to each other.

Washington Pipeline

General MacArthur was considering coming back to the United States just as the Korean war broke out. He was interested in an offer of a top job at Remington Rand. . . . Before the end of the year, President Truman plans to set up a special board to keep an eye on prices and a new agency to take over the vital job of civilian defense. . . . Many top mobsters have been getting careless with their income-tax returns. They have been reporting ridiculously small incomes and lumping it all under such general terms as "self-speculation.". . . and bodyguard, is now quietly working for the Interior Department. . . . Mike Reilly, FDR's famous friend Tariff Commissioner Edgar Brossard has been cooling his heels two months, waiting for President Truman to decide whether to reappoint him. Brossard doesn't always agree with the President, but he has been a capable public servant.

Pulling Strings

Whether you're a five per center angling for government contracts or a reserve officer trying to get out of a combat unit, it still pays to have an inside track with Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, the irrepressible White House military aide.

For example, here is how Vaughan is pulling strings inside the Pentagon for Robert C. Smith of Columbia, Mo., a reserve Army lieutenant, who wants to transfer from the Field Artillery to the Army's legal section.

Ordinarily Smith wouldn't stand a ghost of a chance, because the Army isn't taking any new lawyers. However, after the Army had already rejected one transfer request, Smith appealed to a Missouri politician and crony of Vaughan's, William H. Becker.

All it took was a letter to Vaughan, in which Becker explained that Smith had recently graduated from the Missouri University Law School and had "requested transfer to the Judge Advocate General's Corps reserves where he believes he can best serve his country."

White House Memo

Vaughan wasted no time dispatching a White House memo to the Adjutant General's Office requesting "action" on Smith's case. And action is what Smith got. His application was lifted out of normal channels and given the personal attention of the brass hats. An official letter was also rushed to Fifth Army Headquarters in Chicago for required recommendations. Dated August 17, this letter set a deadline of August 31 for the Fifth Army to reply.

"In view of the White House interest in this case," the Pentagon letter stated, "it is requested that Lieutenant Smith's application for transfer . . . . be forwarded to this office for review by the Judge Advocate General."

In other words, the Judge Advocate General, himself, will decide the case—thanks to the President's pal, Harry Vaughan. Meanwhile, the Army has no need for green-behind-the-ears lawyers, but could use some artillery officers with Smith's training.

MATTER OF FACT

The Politics Of Price Control

WASHINGTON.

THE LEVEL of hypocrisy is rarely low in Washington, but it is now reaching a new high water mark. This is best illustrated by the current wrangling between Congress and the Administration in the matter of economic controls. All concerned are aware that rigorous, and painful, controls are going to be necessary. And all concerned are chiefly interested in unloading any unpleasant political consequences on the opposition.

On the one hand, the Truman administration is as usual talking out of both sides of its mouth. Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has now said publicly what he has been saying privately — that defense costs will go up to the $50 billion level in the near future. This Johnson policy means something like total mobilization. And no sensible man has the slightest doubt that if defense spending really goes up to that level, total economic controls, including rationing and price and wage controls, will be absolutely essential.

Yet, while Johnson is attempting to conceal the tragic consequences of his "economy" program by outbidding everybody else on rearmament, the official Administration line on rationing, price and wage controls still is that "the President doesn't want them." Thus the Johnson policy on defense spending and the Truman policy on economic controls neatly cancel each other out.

Unworkable Legislation

This is precisely the sort of messy nonsense which has been causing the political stock of the administration to slump steadily ever since Korea. In the meantime, the conservative coalition in Congress is also indulging in sly political shenanigans. For example, the Wherry-Bricker amendment to the defense production bill is quite obviously designed to "put Truman on the spot" by handing him totally unworkable legislation.

This amendment provides that if the Administration wants to control anything, it will have to control everything. If it becomes desirable to hold meat or steel prices in line, for example, it will also be necessary to freeze the price of Morris chairs or the wages of beanpickers. In the meantime, no administrative machinery is provided to enforce this legislation, which goes further than O. P. A. ever did in war time.

The explanation of this sudden apparent thirst for controls in men like Wherry and Bricker is really very simple. The Administration is to be confronted with the alternative of attempting to enforce the unenforceable, or of having no controls at all. The latter is, of course, the real objective of many who voted for the amendment. But these statesmen will then be able to answer the anguished protest of the hard-pressed voters by saying, "We voted for controls, but Truman won't use them."

This kind of petty political maneuvering is nothing less than tragic in these times. And the tragedy is compounded by the fact that, in the view of those best qualified to judge, this country is perfectly capable of supporting a very high level of defense spending for a very long period, without wrenching the whole economy out of shape.

$35 Billion Level

Even before Korea, the national economy was moving rapidly toward the level of output of $300 billion projected for 1954 by chairman of the economic advisers Leon Keyserling. Indeed, the expansion has been so rapid that the economic advisers have now raised their sights to a fantastic $350 billion level by 1955.

This means that the astonishing fecundity of the national economy should supply enough for all, even with a high percentage of the national product going into guns instead of butter, tanks instead of automobiles. The best estimate of sensible men, who, unlike Johnson, do not have to cover up frantically for past errors, is that defense spending can be held to a level of about 13 per cent even of the present national product of $270,000,000,000.

This sort of spending need by no means spell economic disaster. About

Wage Freeze Possibility May Be Cause Of Strikes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 — The sudden outbreak of strikes in the midst of an international emergency has raised many suspicions as to whether the communists have in inspired these work stoppages.

It is, of course, a known technique of the communists to select key industries and means of transportation as fields for obstruction. But the present wave of strikes cannot be laid at the doorstep of the communists insofar as control of the unions themselves is concerned. The strikes are occurring among unions known not to be communist-controlled.

The question then arises as to whether the officers are leaders of the unions are aware of the tactics that are employed by undercover agents of the communist party. It would be very easy for troublemakers to conceal, under an ardent or zealous devotion to unionism, a loyalty to the communist party line, which commands that strikes be instigated wherever possible in countries that supply materials for war purposes. The strikes in Europe when Marshall Plan supplies were arriving are duplicated in other parts of the world.

Officials here familiar with communist activity say that, so far as they have been able to observe, the officers of the unions known not to be communist-controlled are particularly vigilant and can detect communist activity. The number of unions in America with known communists in positions of control is relatively small.

Labor Unions Cooperating

The labor unions as a whole are cooperating with the authorities here in furnishing information concerning communist agents who appear in their ranks. The trend is toward more and more cooperation with the federal government so that methods of ridding the unions of communists may be applied. The truth is the unions themselves in the last couple years have been doing a splendid job in removing communist agitators from their ranks.

The chief technique of the communists has not necessarily been to elect the officers but to develop factional strength so that, when negotiations with management have progressed to the point where a settlement is possible, monkey wrenches can be thrown into the machinery and yet make it appear that such tactics are motivated by natural causes.

If, then, there are no external factors or influences causing the present strikes, what is back of the work stoppages? The answer is that the sudden turn from a period of relative stability to one of instability, especially with a possible wage-freeze in the offing, has stirred up much unrest inside unions.

Members of Congress little realize what effect the talk of price and wage controls has had throughout the country. It has made a deep impression on union leaders, who don't know whether they had better reopen contracts and get negotiations started at once or whether they should do nothing. The latter course sometimes stimulates rebellious factions to ask for the increases even though the leaders themselves might be content to go along without changes. It is in this area of uncertainty that communist agents could operate effectively and still perhaps escape detection.

Started Long Ago

The principal labor dispute of today—between the railroads and some of the union brotherhoods—began long before the Korean crisis broke. The effort to get for 40 hours the same wages now paid for 48 hours of work is something which some of the rail unions have had under way for a long time. Other unions in industry generally made these demands almost immediately after V-J Day. The rail unions are not expecting to get any such big increase and are willing to compromise. The question, therefore, is one of dollars and cents and costs rather than hours of work. Indeed, the demand is really a device to get higher wages for the 40-hour week and to get increased pay for the overtime.

The White House has been struggling with the issue for a long time. Both sides are sparring for advantage. Demands by the rail unions that the government take over the railroads are being made with the hope that better terms can be gotten from the Truman administration than from the rail executives. It is most unfortunate that presidential boards and mediation agencies have not been sufficiently effective to keep the nation's transportation systems free of serious disputes these last several months. It probably will mean the passage of restrictive legislation by Congress if the public is seriously inconvenienced. Under the stimulus of a war emergency the enactment of such laws is far more likely than would otherwise be the case with congressional elections so close.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Peril Of Inexperience

WE know, from our experience with two general wars, that what altered the picture from defeat to victory was the capacity of the United States to out-produce the rest of the world in its mills and factories. This achievement was the result of many generations of managerial experience in a free economic system in which ability and judgment were recognized in the opportunity to rise.

The American industrial management is still, to a surprising degree, based on a pseudo-apprenticeship system; that is, management rises out of factory ranks and therefore gains its experience not only within a particular industry but by actually doing the tasks which others are called upon to do. The heredity principle, while recognized in ownership, is rarely even considered in management.

Such industrial figures as C. E. Wilson of General Electric, C. E. Wilson of General Motors, K. T. Keller of Chrysler, E. T. Weir of National Steel, Charles Hook of American Rolling Mill, and nearly everybody else in big industry come out of what the Marxist would call the working class, the proletariat. They learned by experience and rose by their own initiative, energy and ingenuity. They are often one-industry men in the sense that their entire experience and careers have been within a single industry, from the bottom to the top.

In World War I, President Wilson called upon Bernard Baruch to mobilize this experience. He organized the war industries board, which was able to place the services of managerial capacity at the disposal of the American people in time of war. It has never been doubted or denied that it was American production which turned the tide of battle in World War I. That production was, however, managed not by civil service appointees, not by rule-ridden bureaucrats, but by management itself. Baruch believed in the voluntary principle and, in effect, had each industry police itself to increase production. It worked. Experience has proved that only those who know how to produce, can produce. In fact, the phrase, "know-how," is a universal acknowledgement of this truth.

In World War II, our problems were infinitely more complex, both from a managerial and a political standpoint. Mr. Roosevelt sought to fight a war while adhering to the Hopkinesque" revolution, which involved huge costs and dislocations. Also, while he mobilized managerial skill in the War Production Board (under several names and within different departments), he placed economic controls in the OPA, a region of doctrinaire confusions.

Nevertheless, under the management of William S. Knudsen of General Motors, managerial skill was mobilized to perform an industrial miracle. And it was done.

Knudsen was typical of American managerial personality. An immigrant from Denmark, he went to work at various jobs until he landed in the automobile industry, working for Henry Ford. He rose to foreman and up into management. He developed the overhead monorail, which is basic in mass production. Going over to General Motors, he became its manegerial head in production and was, with Alfred E. Sloan, Jr., one of the principal factors in the development of that company.

As a factor in war production, he laid the foundations for victory.

Among those who assisted him as executive vice chairman of the War Production Board was Charles E. Wilson of General Electric. A native of New York City, his experience was different from Knudsen's in some particulars. For instance, Knudsen's experience was limited to manufacturing, but Wilson had gone into accounting, production, engineering, manufacturing and marketing. In a word, his experience encompassed the whole works. This is not too unusual among American management, but when such a combination of experience is strengthened by sound judgment, it produces an able man.

Such men as Knudsen, Wilson, and Eberstadt could not fail. In 18 months, they showed the world what the American productive machine could do. And it was that productive machine that eventually defeated the enemy, for without the means they provided, our military men would not even have had the ships for D-Day.

This managerial skill is not being used in our present war. Not a single manager is being employed. The President is trying to operate with civil service bureaucrats, who, whatever their virtues, lack experience, ability and the initiative which is cultivated in industry and killed off in government.

CIA's New Boss Knows The Russians

It is difficult to think of any American better fitted to head the nation's Central Intelligence Agency at this critical moment in history than Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who has just been appointed to the job.

General Smith is a tough soldier and a tireless worker with a razor sharp mind. In three years in Moscow, as U. S. ambassador, he got to know the Russians well and he is probably as familiar with the workings of Premier Stalin's mind as any other American.

A man of broad experience and few illusions, he seems exceptionally well equipped to head an agency whose principal job is to safeguard the United States against surprise attack.

It is extremely unfortunate, however, that the CIA has had so many different heads during the three short years since it was set up by Congress. No agency can be expected to function at its best with such frequent changes in its top command. The FBI, by contrast, has had the same directing head for the past 25 years.

If the CIA is ever to achieve the effectiveness of the FBI—and it is certainly no less important to national security—it must be given a chance to function without constant interruptions. No matter how good a man is, he can't accomplish much if he is booted out as soon as he becomes familiar with the working of the agency he heads.

Biography of Thomas Jefferson will be in 50 volumes. Many present-day politicians could learn something about the facts of government from any one of them.

Blind Voting

Reports from Washington say that some congressmen are concerned about growth of the practice of bringing bills or amendments up for consideration in the House without printed copies available for members to read in advance, and sometimes without even full reading of them on the floor. Everyone has heard the familiar admonition to individuals: "Never sign anything without reading it." That is good advice; it might be good for Congress, too.

Examples have been cited in news stories to show that the House actually has voted on measures neither printed nor read aloud. Members sometimes discover later that they didn't realize what they were voting for, and change their votes. Sometimes they don't discover it in time to change.

The House rules of course provide means for preventing this. The objection of any member can require that a measure be read in full before action is taken. But every member knows that the calendar is loaded with bills which can never be considered because there isn't enough time. Thus the member is always under pressure to help speed the pace, and is reductant to be the one who holds things up by requiring the reading or explanation of a measure.

It is plain that this situation ought not to exist. But how can it be prevented? Congress always gets in a terrific jam as the end of a session nears. Much has been said of the need for reform of the executive branch of the government, because it has grown too big with too little plan. The same might be said of the legislative branch. It, too, needs a thorough overhauling.

Unfavorable weather has cut the Arkansas spinach crop 40 per cent, and Junior wants to know if that is unfavorable.

Undeveloped Markets

A West African deputy to the Consultative Assembly of the Council of Europe, speaking at a recent meeting of the Assembly, dangled before that body the prospective market for European goods which would be found in Africa if the standard of living of the African native were raised. Africa has a population of more than 175 million persons, most of whom live by primitive standards. What a market would be created for all manner of goods and materials if some magic could lift the average African family to a modern house, with furniture and bathroom and gadgets, to possession of an automobile of sorts and a wardrobe scaled to Western living. The picture is almost beyond imagination. If such a thing could come to pass, needless to say there would be a market for America as well as for Europe.

There is a potential market of almost comparable size, and perhaps of something nearer to possibility, in the Western Hemisphere. There are more than a hundred million persons in South America and perhaps fifty million in North America south of the United States border. There are numerous highly developed cities and areas in these regions, yet there also are substantial segments of the population living in primitive style.

In both Africa and South America there are many natural resources from which could be drawn the wealth to pay for something like a modern standard of living. How can the cycle be set in motion, how can a primitive people be set on the path of modern living? That is one of the most fascinating and potentially profitable questions of the present age, and one of the most baffling.

It now seems amazing that only recently the populace was all excited over Ingrid Bergman, et al.

Bubble Gum Follies

The first "world championship" bubble gum blowing contest has been held at Riverview Beach, N. J.

Alas, the times and the customs! That it has come to this—the glorification of this insidious habit of youngsters chewing a wadful of gum and blowing the residuum into a large balloon that eventually bursts amid guffaws.

In this particular contest, finalists from three states competed for the dubious honors. And what happens to the "lucky" child who can blow the largest and most sustained bubble? What does the future hold for the kid?

Actually, chewing gum did not start in our times. The ancient historian, Plutarch, in 100 A. D. wrote about chewing gum. Here, in this new world, the Spanish invaders found the Aztecs chewing chicle. A U. S. patent on chewing gum was granted in 1869.

Gum chewing is described as a harmless habit that relaxes the nerves and is beneficial to the teeth. At least, the gum companies claim that. But what can they claim for the bubble variety of gum?

There is value of swimming contests, soap box derbies, and BB gun tournaments. There's even some fun in freckle counting and Mark Twain made frog hopping famous. But bubble gum!

Artificial Limbs

EVERY physician has had the unpleasant duty of informing a patient that he must lose an arm or leg. The victim naturally is upset and, at the moment, thoughts of the future flash thru his mind such as "Will I be able to walk?" "How will my friends take it?" or "It this the end?"

An artifical limb never takes the place of the original. It does a good job of imitation but cannot reproduce all of the functions of the live extremity. This is especially true of prosthetic devices of the hand and arm because touch and grasp are so hard to duplicate. The situation is different in the lower extremities because their primary duty is weight bearing and locomotion.

Nevertheless the modern prosthesis should encourage every amputee. It is well known that man's full working capacity rarely is used. For this reason the one who has lost an arm or leg is still able to get along. The loss may appear to be a serious misfortune but the mishap often leads to a happier and more enjoyable life because the victim learns to accept his fate. Futhermore, those who are willing to learn can be rehabilitated sufficiently to earn a profitable living. Unfortunately, many give up too soon and as a result become dependent upon others and waste away in sheer idleness.

When amputation becomes necessary the victim usually asks where the limb is to be severed. Sometimes he becomes dictatorial and will not consent to the operation if removal at a high level is recommended. He does not understand that the surgeon bases his decision on the fact that there are certain places where an artificial limb fits better.

The next problem for the amputee arises after the wound has healed. The best prosthesis in the world will be of little value if the stump is not in good condition. Before the leg can be fitted the tissues will have to shrink. Nature takes care of this process but it can be hastened by bandaging the parts once or twice a day with an elastic bandage. This procedure prevents such complications as wrinkles, creases, sores, and excessive flesh. Exercise also is important. Massage is not advised because irritation of tender nerves may follow. It is wise to wait at least six weeks after amputation before measurements for the device are taken. These factors may make the difference between walking easily in a normal fashion or sloppy and with pain and strain.

• — • — •

The selection of the artificial limb is not always easy. They are made of different kinds of material including wood, fiber, and plastic. In addition, many of the salesmen are amputees themselves and each is able to demonstrate how well he can get about with the particular leg he is selling. All too often, the newcomer is convinced, when he sees the performance, that "this is the limb for me." It is wise to remember that these men have been practicing for years and are adept at using the prosthesis. But because each case is an individual problem; there is no general rule and most physicians suggest a device that works best in most cases. Beyond that the afflicted person takes over and may be forced to change to another type at a later date if the one selected proves unsatisfactory.

Korean Posts Manned By Second-Rate Officers; Sen. McKellar Threatens Congressman Cannon With Gavel; Harry Vaughan Pulls Wires For Political Crony

Says JACK ANDERSON

(EDITOR'S NOTE—While Drew Pearson is a brief vacation, his column will be written by members of his staff).

WASHINGTON — Our boys in Korea are entitled to the Army's best combat officers, whose leadership may mean the difference between life and death. Yet it is common talk in the Pentagon that some key battle posts are manned by second-rate officers.

There seems to be a reluctance on the Army's part to send its first team to Korea. Though the Army has plenty of crack officers, the Korean command went to Lieut. Gen. Walton Walker who happened to be the highest-ranking officer unded MacArthur and thereby inherited the job.

Walker served successfully during the last war under the late Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. However, Walker's fellow generals don't think much of him as a great field commander.

One general summed up the common opinion of Walker bluntly: "Walker is a methodical, plodding, Regular Army plug horse who suddenly found himself a lieutenant general."

The impression is that while Walker is not a bad general, he is not a particularly good one. Yet the G.I.'s at the front are entitled to the best commanding general we've got.

Walker's chief of staff is Col. Eugene Landrum, who commanded the 90th Division when it landed in France in June, 1944. However, he made such a poor showing that he was relieved of his command within two months and shipped back to the states. Later, when most of the wartime generals were demoted one rank, Landrum was dropped two ranks, from major general to colonel. Yet he now holds the crucial post as Walker's chief of staff in Korea — because, like Walker, Landrum happened to be in line for the job.

Back in Japan, the G-2 section is General MacArthur's eyes and ears. Its job is to gather and analyze military intelligence, so vital in time of war. Yet the G-2 chief, in charge of this important listening post, is Maj. Gen. Charles Willoughby, a strutting heel-clicker who has been accused by subordinates of doctoring the intelligence reports to please rather than inform MacArthur. Born in Prussia, Willoughby's real name is Von Tschepe-Wiedenbach, and his principal qualification is the fact that he served under MacArthur on Bataan. This is the estimate of fellow generals.

NOTE—Like the Army, the Marines also sent a subordinate to Korea. Instead of Maj. Gen. Graves Erskine accompanying his troops, he was given a diplomatic assignment in Latin America and the next in command, Brig. Gen. Edward Craig, went to Korea. The reason was that the Army divisions are commanded by brigadier generals, and the Marines didn't want to embarrass the Army by sending over a major general.

Explosive McKellar

The full story hasn't been told how 81-year-old Sen. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee tried to bop 71-year-old Congressman Clarence Cannon of Missouri over the head with a gavel.

It happened behind closed doors, while Senate and House conferees were trying to iron out differences in the appropriations bill. This brought McKellar, the Senate Appropriations chairman, and Cannon, the House Appropriations chairman, into violent disagreement.

With an explosive snort, McKellar accused Cannon of "making slurring references." Then the aged Tennessean began spouting expletives, which an eyewitness later reported "almost peeled the paint off the walls."

This was too much for Cannon who announced he wouldn't take such abuse "from any man" and started after McKellar. Simultaneously, the sputtering Senator from Tennessee picked up his gavel which he had been using to rap the table and tried to rap Cannon. However, colleagues separated them before they could do any damage to each other.

Pulling Strings

Whether you're a five per center angling for government contracts or a reserve officer trying to get out of a combat unit, it still pays to have an inside track with Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, the irrepressible White House military aide.

For example, here is how Vaughan is pulling strings inside the Pentagon for Robert C. Smith of Columbia, Mo., a reserve Army lieutenant, who wants to transfer from the Field Artillery to the Army's legal section.

Ordinarily Smith wouldn't stand a ghost of a chance, because the Army isn't taking any new lawyers. However, after the Army had already rejected one transfer request, Smith appealed to a Missouri politician and crony of Vaughan's, William H. Becker.

All it took was a letter to Vaughan, in which Becker explained that Smith had recently graduated from the Missouri University Law School and had "requested transfer to the Judge Advocate General's Corps reserves where he believes he can best serve his country."

White House Memo

Vaughan wasted no time dispatching a White House memo to the Adjutant General's Office requesting "action" on Smith's case. And action is what Smith got. His application was lifted out of normal channels and given the personal attention of the brass hats. An official letter was also rushed to Fifth Army Headquarters in Chicago for required recommendations. Dated August 17, this letter set a deadline of August 31 for the Fifth Army to reply.

"In view of the White House interest in this case," the Pentagon letter stated, "it is requested that Lieutenant Smith's application for transfer . . . . be forwarded to this office for review by the Judge Advocate General."

In other words, the Judge Advocate General, himself, will decide the case—thanks to the President's pal, Harry Vaughan. Meanwhile, the Army has no need for green-behind-the-ears lawyers, but could use some artillery officers with Smith's training.

MATTER OF FACT

WASHINGTON.

THE LEVEL of hypocrisy is rarely low in Washington, but it is now reaching a new high water mark. This is best illustrated by the current wrangling between Congress and the Administration in the matter of economic controls. All concerned are aware that rigorous, and painful, controls are going to be necessary. And all concerned are chiefly interested in unloading any unpleasant political consequences on the opposition.

On the one hand, the Truman administration is as usual talking out of both sides of its mouth. Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has now said publicly what he has been saying privately — that defense costs will go up to the $50 billion level in the near future. This Johnson policy means something like total mobilization. And no sensible man has the slightest doubt that if defense spending really goes up to that level, total economic controls, including rationing and price and wage controls, will be absolutely essential.

Yet, while Johnson is attempting to conceal the tragic consequences of his "economy" program by outbidding everybody else on rearmament, the official Administration line on rationing, price and wage controls still is that "the President doesn't want them." Thus the Johnson policy on defense spending and the Truman policy on economic controls neatly cancel each other out.

Unworkable Legislation

This is precisely the sort of messy nonsense which has been causing the political stock of the administration to slump steadily ever since Korea. In the meantime, the conservative coalition in Congress is also indulging in sly political shenanigans. For example, the Wherry-Bricker amendment to the defense production bill is quite obviously designed to "put Truman on the spot" by handing him totally unworkable legislation.

This amendment provides that if the Administration wants to control anything, it will have to control everything. If it becomes desirable to hold meat or steel prices in line, for example, it will also be necessary to freeze the price of Morris chairs or the wages of beanpickers. In the meantime, no administrative machinery is provided to enforce this legislation, which goes further than O. P. A. ever did in war time.

The explanation of this sudden apparent thirst for controls in men like Wherry and Bricker is really very simple. The Administration is to be confronted with the alternative of attempting to enforce the unenforceable, or of having no controls at all. The latter is, of course, the real objective of many who voted for the amendment. But these statesmen will then be able to answer the anguished protest of the hard-pressed voters by saying, "We voted for controls, but Truman won't use them."

This kind of petty political maneuvering is nothing less than tragic in these times. And the tragedy is compounded by the fact that, in the view of those best qualified to judge, this country is perfectly capable of supporting a very high level of defense spending for a very long period, without wrenching the whole economy out of shape.

$35 Billion Level

Even before Korea, the national economy was moving rapidly toward the level of output of $300 billion projected for 1954 by chairman of the economic advisers Leon Keyserling. Indeed, the expansion has been so rapid that the economic advisers have now raised their sights to a fantastic $350 billion level by 1955.

This means that the astonishing fecundity of the national economy should supply enough for all, even with a high percentage of the national product going into guns instead of butter, tanks instead of automobiles. The best estimate of sensible men, who, unlike Johnson, do not have to cover up franticall for past errors, is that defense spending can be held to a level of about 13 per cent even of the present national product of $270,000,000,000.

This sort of spending need by no means spell economic disaster. About

Wage Freeze Possibility May Be Cause Of Strikes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 — The sudden outbreak of strikes in the midst of an international emergency has raised many suspicions as to whether the communists have in inspired these work stoppages.

It is, of course, a known technique of the communists to select key industries and means of transportation as fields for obstruction. But the present wave of strikes cannot be laid at the doorstep of the communists insofar as control of the unions themselves is concerned. The strikes are occurring among unions known not to be communist-controlled.

The question then arises as to whether the officers are leaders of the unions are aware of the tactics that are employed by undercover agents of the communist party. It would be very easy for trouble-makers to conceal, under an ardent or zealous devotion to unionism, a loyalty to the communist party line, which commands that strikes be instigated wherever possible in countries that supply materials for war purposes. The strikes in Europe when Marshall Plan supplies were arriving are duplicated in other parts of the world.

Officials here familiar with communist activity say that, so far as they have been able to observe, the officers of the unions known not to be communist-controlled are particularly vigilant and can detect communist activity. The number of unions in America with known communists in positions of control is relatively small.

Labor Unions Cooperating

The labor unions as a whole are cooperating with the authorities here in furnishing information concerning communist agents who appear in their ranks. The trend is toward more and more cooperation with the federal government so that methods of ridding the unions of communists may be applied. The truth is the unions themselves in the last couple years have been doing a splendid job in removing communist agitators from their ranks.

The chief technique of the communists has not necessarily been to elect the officers but to develop factional strength so that, when negotiations with management have progressed to the point where a settlement is possible, monkey wrenches can be thrown into the machinery and yet make it appear that such tactics are motivated by natural causes.

If, then, there are no external factors or influences causing the present strikes, what is back of the work stoppages? The answer is that the sudden turn from a period of relative stability to one of instability, especially with a possible wage-freeze in the offing, has stirred up much unrest inside unions.

Members of Congress little realize what effect the talk of price and wage controls has had throughout the country. It has made a deep impression on union leaders, who don't know whether they had better reopen contracts and get negotiations started at once or whether they should do nothing. The latter course sometimes stimulates rebellious factions to ask for the increases even though the leaders themselves might be content to go along without changes. It is in this area of uncertainty that communist agents could operate effectively and still perhaps escape detection.

Started Long Ago

The principal labor dispute of today—between the railroads and some of the union brotherhoods—began long before the Korean crisis broke. The effort to get for 40 hours the same wages now paid for 48 hours of work is something which some of the rail unions have had under way for a long time. Other unions in industry generally made these demands almost immediately after V-J Day. The rail unions are not expecting to get any such big increase and are willing to compromise. The question, therefore, is one of dollars and cents and costs rather than hours of work. Indeed, the demand is really a device to get higher wages for the 40-hour week and to get increased pay for the overtime.

The White House has been struggling with the issue for a long time. Both sides are sparring for advantage. Demands by the rail unions that the government take over the railroads are being made with the hope that better terms can be gotten from the Truman administration than from the rail executives. It is most unfortunate that presidential boards and mediation agencies have not been sufficiently effective to keep the nation's transportation systems free of serious disputes these last several months. It probably will mean the passage of restrictive legislation by Congress if the public is seriously inconvenienced. Under the stimulus of a war emergency the enactment of such laws is far more likely than would otherwise be the case with congressional elections so close.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Peril Of Inexperience

WE know, from our experience with two general wars, that what altered the picture from defeat to victory was the capacity of the United States to out-produce the rest of the world in its mills and factories. This achievement was the result of many generations of managerial experience in a free economic system in which ability and judgment were recognized in the opportunity to rise.

The American industrial management is still, to a surprising degree, based on a pseudo-apprenticeship system; that is, management rises out of factory ranks and therefore gains its experience not only within a particular industry but by actually doing the tasks which others are called upon to do. The heredity principle, while recognized in ownership, is rarely even considered in management.

Such industrial figures as C. E. Wilson of General Electric, C. E. Wilson of General Motors, K. T. Keller of Chrysler, E. T. Weir of National Steel, Charles Hook of American Rolling Mill, and nearly everybody else in big industry come out of what the Marxist would call the working class, the proletariat. They learned by experience and rose by their own initiative, energy and ingenuity. They are often one-industry men in the sense that their entire experience and careers have been within a single industry, from the bottom to the top.

In World War I, President Wilson called upon Bernard Baruch to mobilize this experience. He organized the war industries board, which was able to place the services of managerial capacity at the disposal of the American people in time of war. It has never been doubted or denied that it was American production which turned the tide of battle in World War I. That production was, however, managed not by civil service appointees, not by rule-ridden bureaucrats, but by management itself. Baruch believed in the voluntary principle and, in effect, had each industry police itself to increase production. It worked. Experience has proved that only those who know how to produce, can produce. In fact, the phrase, "know-how," is a universal acknowledgement of this truth.

In World War II, our problems were infinitely more complex, both from a managerial and a political standpoint. Mr. Roosevelt sought to fight a war while adhering to the Hopkinesque" revolution, which involved huge costs and dislocations. Also, while he mobilized managerial skill in the War Production Board (under several names and within different departments), he placed economic controls in the OPA, a region of doctrinaire confusions.

Nevertheless, under the management of William S. Knudsen of General Motors, managerial skill was mobilized to perform an industrial miracle. And it was done.

Knudsen was typical of American managerial personality. An immigrant from Denmark, he went to work at various jobs until he landed in the automobile industry, working for Henry Ford. He rose to foreman and up into management. He developed the overhead monorail, which is basic in mass production. Going over to General Motors, he became its manegerial head in production and was, with Alfred E. Sloan, Jr., one of the principal factors in the development of that company.

As a factor in war production, he laid the foundations for victory.

Among those who assisted him as executive vice chairman of the War Production Board was Charles E. Wilson of General Electric. A native of New York City, his experience was different from Knudsen's in some particulars. For instance, Knudsen's experience was limited to manufacturing, but Wilson had gone into accounting, production, engineering, manufacturing and marketing. In a word, his experience encompassed the whole works. This is not too unusual among American management, but when such a combination of experience is strengthened by sound judgment, it produces an able man.

Such men as Knudsen, Wilson, and Eberstadt could not fail. In 18 months, they showed the world what the American productive machine could do. And it was that productive machine that eventually defeated the enemy, for without the means they provided, our military men would not even have had the ships for D-Day.

This managerial skill is not being used in our present war. Not a single manager is being employed. The President is trying to operate with civil service bureaucrats, who, whatever their virtues, lack experiense, ability and the initiative which is cultivated in industry and killed off in government.

Soviets Expand German Army

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 24 (AP) — The Russians were reported today to be rapidly expending their East German police army while the Western Powers debated West Germany's bid to set up an armed force to meet it.

Allied officials said training camps for the East German police, a jack-booted, dark-uniformed force drilled on military lines, have been increased from 11 to 50 in less than six months.

The Russian occupation army alone is more powerful than anything the Western Powers could muster against it in Germany now. Allied officials said the Russians have 270,000 men,. making up 20 combat divisions, on hand there. The police army supporting force is estimated at 50,000. The West has only about five combat divisions in Germany. Communist preponderance in German-based air-strength, armor and supplies is reported to be on about the same scale.

The 50,000 German police troops were described as a cadre or nucleus for the construction of a much larger army which would take orders from Moscow.

SOLDIERS RECEIVE COMMUNION—Amreican soldiers receive holy communion during Catholic services a half-mile behind the front lines somewhere in Korea.

Reds Prepare

a South Korean spokesman told Associated Press Correspondent William Shinn that in one action the South Koreans have killed 500 reds and taken 145 prisoner—including the commander of a red company.

The spokesman quoted this commander as saying only about 20 bullets had been issued to soldiers in his company and that many were armed with "firecrackers."

"They (the reds) are looking for a chance to surrender," the spokesman said of the communists in that sector.

The communist division in the south, identified as the Seventh, pushed forward in three columns of troops and trucks under a storm of American bombs and rockets towards U. S. 25th Division defenses around Masan. That town is 27 miles by air and 41 by road west of the all-important defense port of Pusan.

Lane, Mahoney Swap Charges

[By The Associated Press]

Gov. Lane and George P. Mahoney, two chief Democratic opponents for the nomination for governor, continued to pound away at money matters Thursday.

Mahoney contended that Maryland has an expanding per capita state debt that is 28 per cent higher than the U. S. average.

"At the end of the last year of Gov. Lane's spending and debt piling," Mahoney stated, "our state per capita debt in Maryland climbed to the all time high of $31.81. This is nearly double the debt that our state was carrying per person when Mr. Lane took office.

"In 1946 our per capita indebtedness stood at $15.87 and was then considerably below the national average. Today our per capita debt of $31.81 per person compares with a national average that stands at but $24.73."

Mahoney attributed this increase to "mismanagement, inefficiency and waste" by the Lane administration.

Lane countered, also in a statement from his headquarters, that talk "of how expensive my administration has been is entirely beside the point."

The Governor pointed to his school program as one of the most important issues before the voters in the primary election Sept. 18.

Cats frequently change position and lick themselves incessantly just prior to a storm, because the air is then overcharged with the electric fluid to which cats are extremely sensitive.

Dog Nears Return From Unscheduled 11,000-Mile Flight

GLENDALE, Calif., Aug. 24. (AP)—"Duke", a two-year-old German shepherd, returns tonight from a 11,000-mile air flight that was strictly unscheduled.

The Byron G. O'Hara family recently took Duke along on an air trip to San Francisco. On the return flight, the dog's crate somehow got on the wrong plane. The family returned home with no dog.

O'Hara, an airways pilot, started checking. He finally located "Duke" on Guam, just about ready to take a plane for Manila.

Tommies To Sail For Korea Today

HONG KONG, Aug. 24 (AP)—Two British infantry battalions totaling 1,500 men are sailing from this British colony tomorrow to reinforce United Nations troops in Korea. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the U. N. commander, assured them of a warm welcome.

More than 25,000 men from a dozen nations—mostly infantrymen—are expected eventually to fight alongside American and South Korean divisions against the Communist North Korean invaders.

Fifty soldiers loaded signal equipment, kits and arms of the First Battalion of this Middlesex Regiment and the First Battalion of the Argyle and Sutherland Regiment on trucks for transfer to the aircraft carrier Unicorn.

Under normal cruising conditions, the 1,500-mile trip north would take about three days.

MANILA, Aug. 24 (AP)—United Nations forces in Korea soon will be reinforced by 1,200 volunteers—every member of the Tenth Battalion Combat Team of the Philippine army.

Lt. Col. Mariano Azurin, who will lead the unit in action, addressed his men today in the presence of newsmen.

He told them that any who felt family obligations or other reasons should keep them from fighting in Korea for the United Nations could transfer to other Philippine outfits without prejudice.

There were no transfers.

Bibles-For-Japan Plan Endorsed By Gov. Lane

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 24 (AP) — Gov. Lane today endorsed a project, initiated by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, to send 10,000,000 Bibles to the Japanese people.

The Governor signed first in the Maryland section of a "good will" book containing names of the contributors to the plan. The American Bible Society will bind the signature pages and display them permanently in Japan as a token of friendship from the American people.

Although the society so far has distributed a total of 2,789,956 Bibles among the Japanese, authorities say this quantity is insufficient to meet the needs.

Bomber Collision Death Toll Rises To Three

VICTORVILLE, Calif., Aug. 24 (AP)—The body of an Air Force flier was found in the desert today, increasing to three the number of airmen killed when two B-26 bombers collided and crashed last night, the Air Force reported.

A fourth was critically injured and was taken to March Air Force Base hospital near Riverside.

The fliers were members of a reserve unit attached to Long Beach municipal air field that was called up Aug. 10 and immediately ordered to the air base here for training.

Soviets Expand German Army

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 24 (AP) — The Russians were reported today to be rapidly expending their East German police army while the Western Powers debated West Germany's bid to set up an armed force to meet it.

Allied officials said training camps for the East German police, a jack-booted, dark-uniformed force drilled on military lines, have been increased from 11 to 50 in less than six months.

The Russian occupation army alone is more powerful than anything the Western Powers could muster against it in Germany now. Allied officials said the Russians have 270,000 men,, making up 20 combat divisions, on hand there. The police army supporting force is estimated at 50,000. The West has only about five combat divisions in Germany. Communist preponderance in German-based air-strength, armor and supplies is reported to be on about the same scale.

The 50,000 German police troops were described as a cadre or nucleus for the construction of a much larger army which would take orders from Moscow.

Reds Prepare

a South Korean spokesman told Associated Press Correspondent William Shinn that in one action the South Koreans have killed 500 reds and taken 145 prisoner—including the commander of a red company.

The spokesman quoted this commander as saying only about 20 bullets had been issued to soldiers in his company and that many were armed with "firecrackers."

"They (the reds) are looking for a chance to surrender," the spokesman said of the communists in that sector.

The communist division in the south, identified as the Seventh, pushed forward in three columns of troops and trucks under a storm of American bombs and rockets towards U. S. 25th Division defenses around Masan. That town is 27 miles by air and 41 by road west of the all-important defense port of Pusan.

Lane, Mahoney Swap Charges

[By The Associated Press]

Gov. Lane and George P. Mahoney, two chief Democratic opponents for the nomination for governor, continued to pound away at money matters Thursday.

Mahoney contended that Maryland has an expanding per capita state debt that is 28 per cent higher than the U. S. average.

"At the end of the last year of Gov. Lane's spending and debt piling," Mahoney stated, "our state per capita debt in Maryland climbed to the all time high of $31.81. This is nearly double the debt that our state was carrying per person when Mr. Lane took office.

"In 1946 our per capita indebtedness stood at $15.87 and was then considerably below the national average. Today our per capita debt of $31.81 per person compares with a national average that stands at but $24.73."

Mahoney attributed this increase to "mismanagement, inefficiency and waste" by the Lane administration.

Lane countered, also in a statement from his headquarters, that talk "of how expensive my administration has been is entirely beside the point."

Dog Nears Return From Unscheduled 11,000-Mile Flight

GLENDALE, Calif., Aug. 24. (AP)—"Duke", a two-year-old German shepherd, returns tonight from a 11,000-mile air flight that was strictly unscheduled.

The Byron G. O'Hara family recently took Duke along on an air trip to San Francisco. On the return flight, the dog's crate somehow got on the wrong plane. The family returned home with no dog.

O'Hara, an airways pilot, started checking. He finally located "Duke" on Guam, just about ready to take a plane for Manila.

Tommies To Sail For Korea Today

HONG KONG, Aug. 24 (AP)—Two British infantry battalions totaling 1,500 men are sailing from this British colony tomorrow to reinforce United Nations troops in Korea. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the U. N. commander, assured them of a warm welcome.

More than 25,000 men from a dozen nations—mostly infantrymen—are expected eventually to fight alongside American and South Korean divisions against the Communist North Korean invaders.

Fifty soldiers loaded signal equipment, kits and arms of the First Battalion of this Middlesex Regiment and the First Battalion of the Argyle and Sutherland Regiment on trucks for transfer to the aircraft carrier Unicorn.

Under normal cruising conditions, the 1,500-mile trip north would take about three days.

MANILA, Aug. 24 (AP)—United Nations forces in Korea soon will be reinforced by 1,200 volunteers—every member of the Tenth Battalion Combat Team of the Philippine army.

Lt. Col. Mariano Azurin, who will lead the unit in action, addressed his men today in the presence of newsmen.

He told them that any who felt family obligations or other reasons should keep them from fighting in Korea for the United Nations could transfer to other Philippine outfits without prejudice.

There were no transfers.

Bibles-For-Japan Plan Endorsed By Gov. Lane

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 24 (AP) — Gov. Lane today endorsed a project, initiated by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, to send 10,000,000 Bibles to the Japanese people.

The Governor signed first in the Maryland section of a "good will" book containing names of the contributors to the plan. The American Bible Society will bind the signature pages and display them permanently in Japan as a token of friendship from the American people.

Although the society so far has distributed a total of 2,789,956 Bibles among the Japanese, authorities say this quantity is insufficient to meet the needs.

Bomber Collision Death Toll Rises To Three

VICTORVILLE, Calif., Aug. 24 (AP)—The body of an Air Force flier was found in the desert today, increasing to three the number of airmen killed when two B-26 bombers collided and crashed last night, the Air Force reported.

A fourth was critically injured and was taken to March Air Force Base hospital near Riverside.

The fliers were members of a reserve unit attached to Long Beach municipal air field that was called up Aug. 10 and immediately ordered to the air base here for training.

GRAY FLANNEL OUTFIT NECESSARY THIS YEAR IF YOU WANT TO KEEP IN STEP WITH THE LATEST STYLE

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

This is the year when you have to have a gray flannel outfit if you want to keep step with style.

This time-honored fabric has been a "must" in the wardrobe of every well-dressed man for generations, but this fall the girls have taken it over, lock, stock and barrel.

You'll see flannel suits in every shade of gray, from misty light tones to the almost-black charcoal gray, newest and most fashionable of the lot. There's a banker's gray, also, which approximates the old-fashioned oxford gray. There's a smoke gray and a fog gray, and any other gray you can think up.

With this gray-background, vivid accessories are important—and a girl may shoot the works on bright colors, changing the whole appearance every day, if she likes, with a different blouse, scarf and pair of gloves. A clear sunshine yellow is a favorite color teammate with gray, but tangerine, orange and all the flame shades are in high favor.

One reason for the sweeping popularity of gray this year is that it may be worn effectively with practically any color shoes, handbag, and gloves—brown, black, red or what you please.

They're even showing strapless informal dinner dresses of gray flannel this season, worn on the street, with matching cover-up jackets. Flannel cardigans with rib-knit closings are high style for campus wear, gray flannel shorts, pedal pushers, pleated skirts and slacks are top favorites for casual wear among women of all ages.

It's true that on the fashion front the prospect is gray.

Russia To Be Confronted With Two Indicative Reports On Korean War

By PIERRE J. HUSS

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(INS)—Russia will be confronted with two additional indicative reports on Korean fighting from General Douglas MacArthur before Soviet Delegate Jakob Malik's term as Security Council president expires Aug. 31.

The most important of these two is expected to offer evidence on the supply of Soviet tanks, weapons, planes and ammunition—in addition to military advisors—to the North Korean communists since the start of 1950.

This evidence, at the moment in the process of verification by MacArthur's unified command, is aimed at shattering Malik's claim in the Security Council recently that Russian war material captured from the North Koreans was "sold" or left behind when the Soviet occupation troops evacuated the region above the 38th parallel in 1949.

At the same time, it is understood on reliable authority that the U. N. Commission on Korea has devoted much effort to examining the weapons captured from North Koreans and is preparing an extensive report for the General Assembly.

This report will include also results of the commission's investigations into atrocities committed against U. N. forces by the North Koreans. It will be forwarded to Lake Success in the next 10 days.

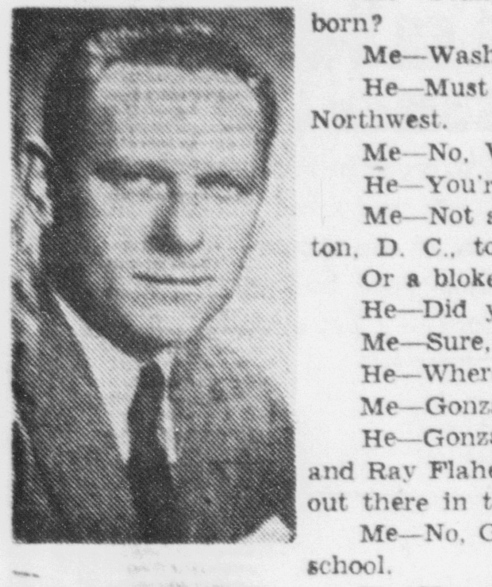
My Home Town

By BOB CONSIDINE

IF YOU LIVE outside of Washington, D. C., nobody ever wants to believe you were born there. I know. I was born in Washington. But since moving away I've been a party to approximately 13,001 conversations that run something like this:

He—Where you from, Mac?

Me—Washington.



BOB CONSIDINE

He—Yeah, I heard. But where were you born?

Me—Washington.

He—Must be great out there in the Pacific Northwest.

Me—No, Washington, D. C.

He—You're kidding!

Me—Not at all. People get born in Washington, D. C., too.

Or a bloke says:

He—Did you ever go to school?

Me—Sure, Many times

He—Where?

Me—Gonzaga.

He—Gonzaga? That's where Bing Crosby and Ray Flaherty went to school. Must be great out there in that Pacific Northwest.

Me—No, Gonzaga in Washington, D. C. Fine school.

He—You didn't go to college, did you?

Me—Sure. George Washington.

He—Really. How did you like St. Louis?

• — • — •

And so on. It's quite amazing. Lately, to save time, I say that I was born in Osawatomie, Kans., and attended Upsala. Everybody believes it immediately. Accepts it.

• — • — •

I was born on the right side of the tracks in Washington. Unfortunately, the best people lived on the left side of the tracks. Citizenship and I joined forces at George Washington University Hospital. Maternity ward. Thirty years later I had advanced 28 feet in life. I had a job at the Washington Times-Herald, just across the alley from the hospital. This is still considered an A. A. U. record for the slow broad jump.

Some people remember that I was a tennis champion of Washington during one of Dooly Mitchell's 5-year slumps. Some people have even more elephantine memories. Especially a cab driver I flagged down in front of the Times-Herald one night.

"You know any of them newspaper guys?" the fellow said, while his head kept revolving—as only the heads of Washington cab drivers revolve.

"Yeah."

"Know that fellow Considine?"

"In a way . . . ."

He shook his head reflectively, then said:

"I knew that bum when he didn't have shoes."

• — • — •

So did I.

• — • — •

I've written a million words about Washington. But one story I've wanted to write for a long time, and have never been able to pin down securely, is one that goes this way:

When Winston Churchill came to Washington around Christmas time, 1941, he and F. D. R. used to sit up late at night over a drink, doping out the war. On one of the nights the talk turned to Abraham Lincoln and the trouble of the Civil War President. Mr. Churchill mentioned the Lincoln Memorial . . . how beautiful it must be . . . and envied Mr. Roosevelt's having been inside it.

Mr. Roosevelt, according to the story I've never been able to pin down, took a reflective nip and said, not without sorrow, that he had never been in the Memorial. The steps were, for paralytic F. D. R. an insurmountable obstacle. Then, with sudden determination, the President is supposed to have said, "Let's go there now."

In the dead of the night, the two top men of the world drove to the Lincoln Memorial, followed by a car of Secret Service men. And in the darkness of the night, two of the Secret Service men carried the President of the United States up the marble steps to stand, at Churchill's side, in the shadow of the Great Emancipator.

Terribly touching, if true.

• — • — •

One of these days, if prodded sufficiently by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, I'll do a book about the Times-Herald. I don't know any paper in the United States, including the Denver Post and the late, great N. Y. World, that created stories that top those of the Times-Herald. Most of them would center around Eleanor Patterson, one of the most dynamic and—in so many ways that never got into print—kindest woman I've ever met.

And shrewdest . . . .

Not long after I arrived in New York, after a distinguished career on Mrs. Patterson's paper—I was sports editor for nearly three weeks—Mrs. Pateerson called me. She was very angry at her brother, the late great Capt. Joe Patterson, because of an editorial that had appeared in his newspaper.

"I'm going to get even with Joe," she, who loved her brother so much, told me. "I'm going to do a full page answer to that editorial, and I want you to write it for me."

Well, I worked pretty hard on it. I worked for a month, and then sent the 20-page article to her. Three weeks passed, silently. So I called Mrs. Patterson.

"Bob, I've been ashamed to get in touch with you," she said. "I lost your story before I got around to reading it. Do you have a carbon?"

I had, and rushed it to Washington. Another three weeks went by. And, once again, I was on the phone. Had she read it?

"I read it," Mrs. Patterson said, "and I want to tell you that it's one of the finest articles I ever read in my life."

"Gee, that's fine," I said, with the wit that has made me the toast of a continent (Antarctica). "When's it going to run?"

"It's not going to run, Bob," she said.

I made gurgling noises for a time and then asked why.

"I made up with Joe," she said, a bit wistfully.

I guess I groaned, for she quickly added, "But I know you worked hard on this, and I want to pay you. What do you want?"

"I don't want anything," I said distantly, "If you're not running it, well, what's the difference. Besides, I can't talk dough with an old friend. So skip it."

"I know how I'll do this," she cut in. "What did you make from your last piece in Cosmopolitan?"

"I made seven hundred and fifty bucks, Mrs. Patterson," I answered. "But that hasn't anything to do with this. I don't want anything . . . Just charge it off to experience."

Two days later I got a letter from Mrs. Patterson. Enclosed was a check for $500, and attached to the check was a little note in her handwriting. It read:

"Dear Bob. I called Cosmopolitan."

SECRETS OF CHARM

THE man who started the rumor about the difficulty a woman has in making up her mind would be powerfully embarrassed if he went shopping with members of the campus crowd about now. He'd find them reaching as fast as they can for exactly what a nation-wide poll of school girls told the designers last April that they would be wanting this fall.

Destination: College

Playing center position is a suit that travels, goes to town, to the big game and doubles for campus wear. It is so simple in design that it can be dressed up or down for the occasion and so softly tailored that it will defy all fads now and four years from now. It is cut in a monotone or small patterned tweed, flannel or gabardine. It is fashioned into a straight skirt and fitted or belted jacket.

Sneaking around left end for importance are the separates. Just as you planned them, the skirts hang straight with a kick pleat or flare for ease. Belts are a regular attachment and pockets are concealed to avoid bulk under sweaters. The fabrics are dark flannels, bright corduroys, monotone or loud plaid, checked tweeds, and authentic tartans. And, reversible fabrics made in wrap-around styles to give you two for the price of one.

For wear with these are tuck-in type sweataers with a classic finish and jersey blouses with the new bowed or scooped-out necklines. As toppers there are "little boy" jackets, blazers or weskits in fabrics that match or contrast with the skirts. And there are tempting possibilities in dyed-to-match and coordinate separates. Any way you team them, you'll find yourself with an amazingly flexible work-a-day wardrobe.

Weekend Separates

For weekends, there are an impressive number of combinations to be created from one velveteen or taffeta skirt with a change of evening sweaters and luxurious blouses—and one of those brand new tartan "smoking" jackets worn with matching cummerbund and casual nonchalance.

Since casualness is what the girls ordered in everything, even the off-campus dresses are uncluttered in light-weight jersey, gabardine, knits and cottons in shirtwaist and jumper styles.

And to show how smart in the head as well as in looks these girls are, there's a warm, fleecy great coat hanging plumb or snugly belted in a color that's companionable to an entire wardrobe. How can one coat do all this? Here's a sample: Coat, burnt brown; suit, banker's grey; separate skirt, amber; sweater, gold; dress, red; weskit, tattersall. Result? Bets down on the winning side

Neuritis Pains, Stomach Disturbances, Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn, Constipation, Certain Nervous Disorders When Due to Lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin in Your System!

HADACOL One of the Greatest Blessings of the Times:

Just a Few of Thousands Upon Thousands of Interesting Records of Folks With Such Deficiencies Who Have Been Helped

Mrs. C. C. Keller, 1629½ Frederick Avenue, St. Joseph, Missouri, says HADACOL really has put a stop to her neuritis pains. She was in a very bad condition with aches and pains and unable to sleep and was forced to give up her position as a practical nurse. She had severe pains in wrists and stiffness in her hips, being almost unable to walk. Now after taking one bottle of HADACOL, she is able to do her own housework. She most enthusiastically recommends HADACOL to all sufferers from neuritis pains.

Floyd Mabe, 1401A South 7th Street, St. Louis, Missouri: "For some time after a wartime injury I had been troubled with neuritis pains in my legs and could not work. Nothing seemed to help me until I tried HADACOL. After taking a half bottle, I seemed to feel better. My wife told me it was only my imagination, but I continued to take HADACOL and up to the present have taken 13 bottles. Now I feel fine with no more pains in my legs." (HADACOL is so effective because it relieves THE REAL CAUSE of neuritis aches when due to such deficiencies. Why don't you give HADACOL a chance to help you?)

Link Robinson (a steel worker for over 20 years), 519 Lindsey, Newport, Kentucky: "When your stomach is in bad shape as mine, couldn't eat, gas pains, stomach bloating and nervousness, then your body doesn't get the proper foods it needs. My boss told me about HADACOL and I started taking it immediately. After the second bottle I could tell a definite improvement. Now I can eat anything I want to. Best of all I haven't got those terrific gas pains and stomach bloating."

Mrs. John Geary, 840 Ursuline Street, New Orleans, Louisiana: "I had such a nervous stomach I was unable to eat regularly. Lots of times I was unable to hold any food on my stomach. Then I heard about HADACOL. After the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now my stomach doesn't trouble me at all. I eat anything I want. HADACOL is wonderful. You can see that, if it did so much for me after suffering so." (A big improvement is often noticed within a few days' time. One of the many advantages of HADACOL is that continued use helps prevent such stomach distress from returning. Don't continue to suffer. Start taking HADACOL today!)

Mrs. L. Crifasi, 327 N. 14th Street, Springfield, Illinois: "I am elated with the wonderful results obtained by taking HADACOL. I had emotional indigestion, which is stomach distress and makes a person feel down and out. HADACOL seemed to be prepared for my ailment, for it made a new woman of me."

W. E. Hoxworth, a skilled maintenance man in Waco, Texas: "I almost had to give up my job because of suffering from stomach distress. I couldn't hold my food, as no food agreed with me. After hearing about HADACOL and completing a second bottle, I began to feel better and regain the weight I lost, and suffered no more indigestion. I now take HADACOL regularly to help stay well." (Why don't you try HADACOL?)

Mrs. J. Scieszinski, 514 Kruger, Ottumwa, Iowa: "My daughter, Marilyn Sue, is five years old and for some time lacked pep, had a poor appetite, was generally run-down. Since giving her HADACOL, we have noticed wonderful results. She has a much better appetite, eats everything on the table and doesn't seem tired like she used to. Incidentally, she likes to take her HADACOL, too." (Kiddies sure do like HADACOL.)

Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc—the Man Responsible for the Great New HADACOL

Now! Thanks to the tireless efforts in scientific research of Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc—eminent statesman of Louisiana and creator of this great new HADACOL nutritional formula — it's at last possible to relieve the REAL CAUSE of such ailments as neuritis pains, stomach distress, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, insomnia, certain nervous disorders and a general run-down condition due to lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Iron and Niacin.

Senator LeBlanc has just completed a modern $250,000 manufacturing plant and a similar one is well under way so that this wonderful HADACOL will always be available to the public.

What the Great HADACOL Does . . .

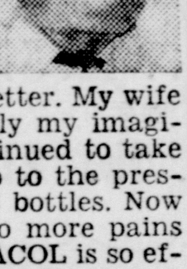
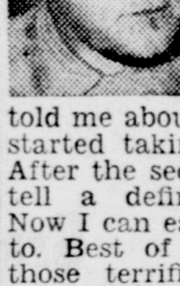
(HADACOL is so effective because it relieves THE REAL CAUSE of neuritis aches when due to such deficiencies. Why don't you give HADACOL a chance to help you?)

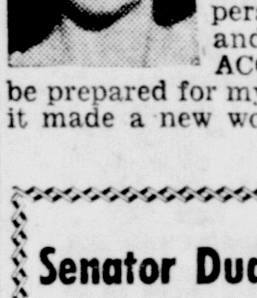


Link Robinson (a steel worker for over 20 years), 519 Lindsey, Newport, Kentucky: "When your stomach is in bad shape as mine, couldn't eat, gas pains, stomach bloating and nervousness, then your body doesn't get the proper foods it needs. My boss told me about HADACOL and I started taking it immediately. After the second bottle I could tell a definite improvement. Now I can eat anything I want to. Best of all I haven't got those terrific gas pains and stomach bloating."



Mrs. John Geary, 840 Ursuline Street, New Orleans, Louisiana: "I had such a nervous stomach I was unable to eat regularly. Lots of times I was unable to hold any food on my stomach. Then I heard about HADACOL. After the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now my stomach doesn't trouble me at all. I eat anything I want. HADACOL is wonderful. You can see that, if it did so much for me after suffering so." (A big improvement is often noticed within a few days' time. One of the many advantages of HADACOL is that continued use helps prevent such stomach distress from returning. Don't continue to suffer. Start taking HADACOL today!)

Mrs. L. Crifasi, 327 N. 14th Street, Springfield, Illinois: "I am elated with the wonderful results obtained by taking HADACOL. I had emotional indigestion, which is stomach distress and makes a person feel down and out. HADACOL seemed to be prepared for my ailment, for it made a new woman of me."



W. E. Hoxworth, a skilled maintenance man in Waco, Texas: "I almost had to give up my job because of suffering from stomach distress. I couldn't hold my food, as no food agreed with me. After hearing about HADACOL and completing a second bottle, I began to feel better and regain the weight I lost, and suffered no more indigestion. I now take HADACOL regularly to help stay well." (Why don't you try HADACOL?)

Mrs. J. Scieszinski, 514 Kruger, Ottumwa, Iowa: "My daughter, Marilyn Sue, is five years old and for some time lacked pep, had a poor appetite, was generally run-down. Since giving her HADACOL, we have noticed wonderful results. She has a much better appetite, eats everything on the table and doesn't seem tired like she used to. Incidentally, she likes to take her HADACOL, too." (Kiddies sure do like HADACOL.)

LAST NIGHT at the "21" Club, I sat spielbound as the owner of an advertising agency sounded off on world conditions in general and the proposed hike in income taxes in particular. To hear him tell it, as he wept into his imported beer, the Internal Revenue Department was going to pauperize everybody and his brother, and heck, there would be no incentive for a smart fellow to work.

Billy Rose

As this prophet of penury continued to argue it was all over but the starving, I couldn't help but think of Sidney Zollicoffer Mitchell, the fellow who had $18,000,000 and considered himself a poor man.

Back in 1929, this gent with the curious middle monicker was probably the richest man in the world—and if he wasn't, he could afford to match pennies with whoever was. Thanks to thirty enterprising years, during which he had organized Electric Bond and Share, American Power and Light, American Gas and Electric, and National Power and Light, he had trunkfuls of blue-chip securities which The Wall Street Journal estimated were worth over a billion and a half.

He lived king-size—a mansion in New York, a plantation in the South, and an estate on Long Island which featured one of the most elaborate sunken gardens in the world.

Then came 1929 and Black Friday on Wall Street when sixteen million shares were tossed overboard between 10 and 3. And a couple of years later a solemn auditor walked into Mitchell's office and informed him that his billion and a half had shrunk to a measly eighteen million.

Well, to you and me eighteen million simoleons means the promised land with an ice-cream parlor on every corner, but to Sidney Z., it was like being halfway up the hill to the poorhouse. "The country is going to the bow-wows," he announced to everyone who would listen, and shortly thereafter he nailed shut the mansion on his estate and moved into the gardener's cottage. And the following Spring, figuring even that was too rich for his blood and bankroll, he put the estate up for sale.

In the years which followed, he lived quietly and thriftly, and though he never got down to selling apples on street corners it's a cinch he didn't buy many.

One February night six years ago, the multi-millionaire died, still convinced that every wolf in the Western hemisphere was snarling at his door. He left the measly eighteen million intact.

All of which, I contend — the ad agency executive notwithstanding—only goes to prove that money is relative, and that a man's relatives are apt to wind up with his money if he gets the notion that he's poorer than his bankbook says he is.

Or, to put it another way, as George S. Kauffman once did, "One man's Mede is another man's Persian."

Hot And Cold Wars Blamed For Increased Alcoholism

MADISON, Wis.—(INS)—Hot and cold wars were blamed today for the 350,000 increase in American addicted drinkers during the past ten years.

Dr. E. M. Jellinek, Fort Worth, Texas, reported to a summer session of alcohol studies at the University of Wisconsin in Madison that the country now has 950,000 confirmed alcoholics compared to 600,000 in 1941.

He pointed to the increase in alcoholism among women as the most significant factor in this trend and explained:

"The war put women in a male environment and gave them their own income. There were also wholesale movements from one place to another, and anxieties and fears resulting from worry about men overseas."

Dr. Jellinek, who is director of the Yale Institute of Alcoholic Studies in the southwest, said he believes most of these women were moderate drinkers in the early 1940s and "only now are blossoming as full-blown alcoholics."

Reds Direct Attack

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—A captured North Korean soldier said in a radio interview yesterday that he had seen Russian officers directing attacks of North Korean military forces.

The prisoner, identified as 27-year-old Sun Wu Haw, spoke through an interpreter in a transcribed interview carried over the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Asked by MBS Correspondent Pat Michaels if "you have ever seen any Russian officers with your forces?" the prisoner replied:

"Yes, I've seen Russian officers at the radio directing attacks."

A MILLION THINGS
CLEANS WITHOUT SUDS

Merit praise from your family for your own special touches! For example, the next time you prepar a casserole combination, place the meat cubes and vegetables in individual casseroles on top of biscuit dough and overlap to give a diamond shaped effect. With this meal-in-one dish, you'll serve little else—perhaps more hot biscuits, a salad and dessert.

Here's a tip in buying meat for your casserole. Your best buy are cubes cut from less tender cuts of meat. For beef casseroles, ask your meat dealer to cut cubes from flank, plate, chuck, or brisket. Shoulder cuts from lamb and veal are other suggested selections. Leftover meats or ready-to-serve meats are also frequently used in casseroles.

Surprise vegetables aid in creating new interest in casseroles. Try adding pimiento or green pepper strips to your combination. Peas and whole kernel corn are two other appealing last minute casserole ingredients.

Cooking Liquids

In preparing a casserole using fresh meat cubes, first, brown the meat thoroughly in hot, fat. The meat may or may not be floured, as desired. Cover with liquid, then closely cover the utensil and let the meat simmer slowly until tender—from 2 to 2½ hours. The cooking liquid may be tomato juice, milk, sour cream or vegetable liquid. (If your are including vegetables, you will probably want to cook the meat in water or a combination of water and vegetable liquid.) Add the vegetables to the meat just long enough before the end of cooking time so they will be tender.

You'll never run out of ideas for making your casseroles different. Along with a choice of meat and vegetables you have a choice of casserole toppings. Biscuit dough cut into diamonds is quite clever, then on occasion perhaps you'll want to center the casserole with biscuit doughnuts, tucking sprigs of parsley inside the "hole" right before serving. Other toppings are pastry crust of cornbread crusts or whipped potatoes. Crushed potato chips or Chinese noodles also lend a satisfying crunchiness to a casserole.

Beef and Vegetable Casserole

1½ pound beef for stew; Salt and pepper to season; ¼ cup enriched flour; 3 tablespoons lard or drippings; Water to cover; 12 small onions; 6 small carrots, sliced; 2 cups cooked peas.

Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown in fat; cover with water and simmer 2 to 2½ hours or until nearly tender. Add onions and carrots to meat and cook 20 minutes. Add peas to meat-vegetable mixture. Make biscuit dough as follows:

Biscuits

2 cups sifted enriched flour; 1 tablespoon baking powder; ¾ teaspoon salt; 4 to 6 tablespoons lard; ⅓ to ½ cup milk.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in lard until mixture has fine even crumb. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly-floured surface and knead for ½ minute. Pat or roll ½inch thick. Line individual casseroles with biscuit dough, leaving two corners to overlap. Fill with meat and vegetable mixture and fold biscuit dough over top. Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) for 15 to 20 minutes or until biscuits are browned.

5 to 6 servings.

When making muffins to go with summer salads, have milk and egg at room temperature for best results. This is especially important when melted shortening is used because cold milk will solidify shortening.

Coffee Treats For Television Fans

When your favorite television programs are over, good coffee should always be on tap for family and friends to serve with something "special" as a fitting finale to a perfect evening. Any one of the coffee-flavored desserts featured will be just right for late evening refreshments. Easy to prepare and impressive for any occasion are these desserts that combine modern cooking with old-fashioned goodness.

You can serve one or many with fresh, flavorful coffee in a flash. Just measure one teaspoon of soluble coffee (more or less rounded according to strength desired) in a cup, and add freshly boiling water and stir. To make six cups of good coffee, just pour one quart of boiling water on 6 teaspoons of soluble coffee and stir to assure a brew of even strength.

Coffee and Cream Cake is a delicious accompaniment for coffee-flavored ice cream, made simply and quickly by blending 1 tablespoon of soluble coffee with one package of ice cream mix. This is a neat trick that wins compliments every time. For an extra special evening, surprise your guests with Marshmallow Supreme, a simple dessert with a sophisticated flavor of fresh coffee.

COFFEE AND CREAM CAKE

Make your favorite plain cake mix recipe and then use:

COFFEE CREAM FILLING

6 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons soluble coffee
1 cup scalded milk
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon butter

Combine first 4 ingredients in a small pan. Stir in milk. Cook until thickened. Place over hot water, cook about 15 minutes. Beat egg yolk slightly, add a little of the hot mixture and return to pan. Cook 2 minutes. Add butter, cool thoroughly.

COFFEE ICING

1 tablespoon butter
1 egg yolk
2 teaspoons soluble coffee
1 tablespoon milk
1¼ cups sifted confectioners' sugar

Mix butter and egg yolk. Add sifted confectioners' sugar which has been mixed with soluble coffee. Gradually add milk, beating all the while, until a smooth, creamy consistency is reached. If necessary, add more milk so icing will spread easily.

Put layers together with Cream Filling and frost top of cake with Icing.

MARSHMALLOW SUPREME

½ lb. marshmallows
½ cup sherry
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
⅓ cup sugar
1⅔ cups undiluted evaporated milk
2 teaspoons soluble coffee
⅓ cup hot water
1 tablespoon sliced, toasted almonds

Cut marshmallows in quarters and let them stand overnight in sherry. In top of a double-boiler, dissolve gelatin in cold water. Cook for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Dissolve soluble coffee in hot water. Add to the milk mixture. Fold in marshmallows. Pour into one quart mold rinsed with cold water and chill. Unmold, garnish with whipped cream, cherries and almonds.

Yield: 6-8 servings.

Raisin Bread Sandwiches

Baker's raisin bread adds variety to summer sandwiches. Taste-tempting fillings for raisin bread are: cottage cheese and marmalade, or peanut butter and honey.

Remember Brown 'N' Serve rolls as a quick hot bread to go with cold suppers, chilled summer soups like borscht and jellied consommes, garden salads, molded gelatin main dishes. Pre-baked Brown 'N' Serve rolls keep their fresh quality several days when kept in the refrigerator. When wanted, bake only as many as needed. The best temperature is a moderately hot oven (425° degrees F.). In seven to ten minutes the rolls turn golden brown and appetizingly hot. Because both plain and sweet rolls are available in the Brown 'N' Serves, you can have a variety of rolls in your bread basket with practically no work at all. Enriched Brown 'N'Serve rolls provide the same economical six-way nourishment as plain enriched bread.

Color, Zest And Spice---That's California Cooking

Californians are known to boast about their sunny weather, which is sometimes disappointing to the visitor. Yet visitors rarely complain about the Golden State's food, which Californians take for granted. California's cookery does not lag behind any section of the country in variety and all around excellence.

California's native fruits and vegetables are of the highest quality, and are used extensively in original and elaborate salads. The best known outside California is the Caesar Salad, although numerous equally fine salads are made locally and are still to be "discovered." Many of their salads contain cooked ingredients. Some use cheese, mashed or diced avocado, grapefruit, olives, figs, pears or prunes, which give them meaty main dish character. Dry mustard, which is grown in California, is the main seasoning of many salad recipes.

Their fish and seafood, most of which is caught off their own long coastline, is prominent on menus. Caliornians learned tips on cooking fish and seafood from the best teachers—the Chinese and Japanese who settled there in such abundant numbers. Mustard is the secret of many of California's excellent fish and seafood recipes.

Southern California, with its predominantly Latin American origin and orientation, is well versed in Mexican cooking. Newcomers who may never have heard of Enchiladas, Tacos or Tostados, soon come to appreciate, and cook, these and many other spicy dishes. Chili powder, that excellent blend of spices, is well known to the Southern California cook.

San Francisco, believe it or not, has the distinction of being the place where Chop Suey was invented! This so-called "national dish of China" was concocted by a Chinese restaurateur during the gold rush of '49. A group of tough and hungry miners forced him to open his restaurant late one night, so he threw together the leftovers from his Chinese patrons and told the miners it was Chop Suey, which in Cantonese means "beggar's hash."

In Chinese cookery, soy sauce and a loose paste of dry mustard and water provide the seasoning punch.

Outdoor dining has long been a California specialty. Barbecue parties often feature elaborate spreads with Dad donning the chef's apron and borrowing the spice shelf.

Spice Tips

California's fruits make delightful palate partners with chicken, and since there's a good supply of chicken on hand, it's wise to make the most of it. Ideal for summer meals is chicken salad, perked up with a pinch of dry mustard. It's especially eye appealing when served as a summer salad plate with sliced avocado and orange sections. Delicious with paprika or Mustard French Dressing. These California fruits take nicely to spice, particularly mustard. And avocado makes a wonderful salad. Simply mash an avocado, and season to taste with onion salt, garlic salt, a dash of lemon juice. For variation, substitute a dash of cayenne or chili powder. This is wonderful served on a lettuce leaf as a salad, used as a dip, or spread on crackers.

A Mustard French Dressing adds more flavor to salads, too. Mustard is as essential to salad dressings as paprika. Or for an interesting variation you might try a dash of chili or curry powder in French Dressing, or a dash of nutmeg, mace or allspice over those famous California fruit salads.

Particularly nice for summer meals is salmon, simple to make and serve cold with delicate mustard mayonnaise. For one cup of mayonnaise, use 2 tablespoons dry mustard mixed with 2 tablespoons cider vinegar. Salmon's delicious boiled or baked. For boiled salmon, simply add 6-8 peppercorns to the water used for boiling. Californians have a way with crab meat, too. Deviled Crab Meat tastes better when seaosned with dry mustard, paprika and a dash of nutmeg. Mustard Butter is delicious, too, on Boiled Haddock. Simply blend some dry mustard into the butter. Any sauce for shellfish will have more zip if a pinch of dry mustard's added, or when baking fish try spreading the cut surface with dry mustard.

Barbecues are as western as can be. Flavorsome with spices, barbecue sauces go so well with salmon, crab, lobster, beef, lamb, chicken. For barbecued chicken, broil chicken as usual, and while cooking baste with a spicy barbecue sauce made with shortening, vinegar, dash Worcestershire Sauce, and dry mustard, of course. For extra zip, add a few grains cayenne. Mustard's the seasoning for Baked Ham out California way. A mixture of brown sugar, oil 1½ tablespoons dry mustard, and some black pepper add extra zip to baked ham. Lamb, too, tastes spicier if seasoned with dry mustard. For spiced up veal steaks, before braising, pound with a mixture of 1½ teaspoons dry mustard, 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons flour. Mustard also adds flavor if mixed with the horseradish to be served, with braised short ribs of beef.

Macaroni goes with mustard, too. When you're making macaroni and cheese, try adding ½ teaspoon of dry mustard for each 2 cups of cheese sauce. Spinach, too, tastes better this way! To melted butter, add some garlic salt, a pinch of dry mustard, and a dash of vinegar. Heat together and then add to the hot chopped spinach. Buttered green beans have a more unusual flavor if seasoned with a little dry mustard mixed with chopped onions and minced parsley.

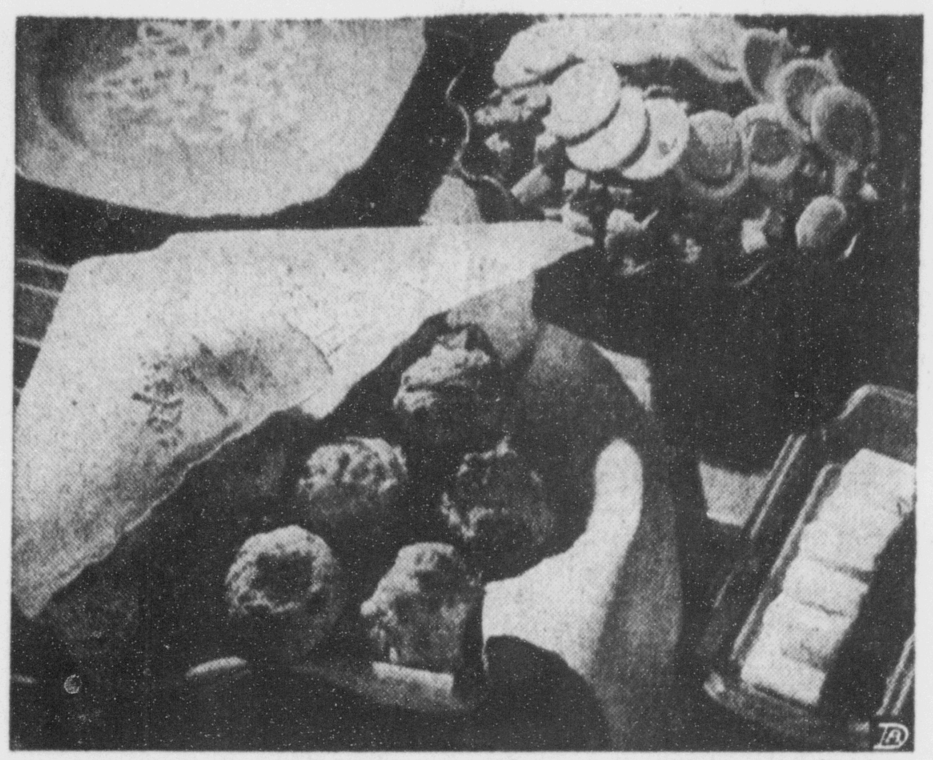
Biscuit And Salad Luncheon



Whether the weather blows hot or cold, there is always sunshine in a pleasant meal. The sunshine in this luncheon is the basket of crisp, hot biscuits served with chilled chicken salad.

Perhaps you've already discovered that flaky biscuits make as perfect a bread with chicken salad as they do with roasted or stewed chicken. Biscuits have a way with other salads, too. In less than ten minutes one can stir up a batch of drop biscuits that are full of good nourishment in every bite and that add a bit of Southern charm to the bread basket.

With a salad main dish, most hungry folks will eat three drop biscuits, or more. This means they will get an extra-generous portion of B-vitamins, iron, protein and food energy needed in summer as well as in winter. Because of their food value as well as their good taste, enriched breads of all kinds belong in practically every meal.

If you like, drop the biscuit batter into muffin cups rather than on a baking sheet. This makes shapely little biscuits. However they are baked, serve the biscuits hot with butter or margarine. Other spreads, such as honey, fruit jams, jellies or peanut butter are good, too. Sweet spreads are a good way to include extra calories in the diet for slimsters and growing children.

DROP BISCUITS

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a thick batter, stirring only until flour is well moistened. Drop by spoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 8 to 10 minutes.

Makes about 18 biscuits.

Cookie Sandwich Dessert

Tempting summer desserts can be made quickly and easily by placing a small scoop of ice cream between two baker's cookies, sandwich style. Some tasty combinations are: baker's ginger cookies with vanilla ice cream; or chocolate or butter cookies with either vanilla or chocolate ice cream sandwiched between them. These cookie ice cream sandwiches are popular with children for afternoon snacks, and they offer a quick solution to the refreshment problem at television parties.

Here Are Tips To Help New Cooks

One of the first problems to confront the new cook is the preparation of meats. Many a bride has heard experienced cooks say that roasts are the easiest of all meats to prepare. Cheered by that knowledge, she sets out blithely to cook her first roast. If luck is with her, the roast emerges from the oven beautifully browned and cooked to just the right doneness.

All too often, though, that first roast is overcooked to the point of being dry and tasteless. Or the first slice shows that it must be returned to the oven for additional cooking—while dinner waits.

What is the answer to the problem of knowing when a roast is cooked to exactly the right stage? The sure-fire way is to use a roast meat thermometer. It will show when any kind of meat is cooked to the desired rare, medium or well-done stage. There'll be no question of the roast being cooked all the way through, because the thermometer takes the temperature inside the meat.

What's more, it doesn't take a natural-born mechanic to know how to use a meat thermometer made of non-breakable stainless steel. Designed with a pointed stem, the thermometer can be inserted without even the necessity of making a preliminary hole with a skewer. It has a round, dial-type face which shows the temperatures needed for cooking various kinds of meat.

The simple directions for roasting meat with the thermometer are:

1. Wipe meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, if desired.

2. Place roast, fat side up, on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Do not add flour or water and do not cover.

3. Insert the pointed stem of the meat thermometer into the center of the thickest part of the roast. (If the stem is inserted at a slight angle, it will be easier to read.)

4. Beef, lamb, veal and smoked pork should be roasted in a slow oven (325 degrees F.). Fresh pork is best when roasted at 350 degrees F.

5. Roast until the pointer on the thermometer indicates the desired degree of doneness for the kind of meat being roasted. Remove from oven and serve.

THE BEST WAY TO WASH DISHES
By Hand or by Machine

From Maine to California women spend up to two hours every day on "the meanest job of all"—washing dishes. In 30 years of married life the dishes stack up a pile twice as high as the Empire State building, an estimated 340 tons of plates, cups, glasses, preparation dishes, pots and pans, not counting silverware. With a job of that size, efficiency saves a housewife countless steps and time.

There are almost as many ways of washing dishes as there are housewives — from splashing the dishes with hot water at one extreme to placing them in an automatic electric dishwasher at the other. For the majority of women who wash them in a dish pan of hot water, Hotpoint home economists make these recommendations for greatest ease and speed.

First, segregate glasses, cups and saucers, and silverware. Place the garbage pail on a stool and use a rubber scraper to remove food from plates. Rinse sticky dishes and cups under the faucet. In the dish pan use a sudsy cleanser in powder or liquid form. These new products drain the water off without leaving the dishes spotted. Do not use too much soap or sudser since longer rinsing will be required.

The order you wash the dishes in is not too important but most women start with the glasses and silverware and wind up with the cooking utensils. This cuts down the number of water changes necessary. Rubber gloves are a big help not only in saving your hands, but also in permitting you to use hotter water than your bare hands could stand. Not only should dishes look clean when you are through, but also they should be exposed to sufficient suds to be actually clean. The dish cloth is usually more effective than a dish mop for washing. A brush can be helpful not only on pots and pans, but in removing adamant food matter from the dishes. When the dishes have been placed in the rinsing rack, hot water can be sprayed over them with a faucet hose attachment or poured over them with a teakettle. If you are doing a very small number of dishes, it is handier to hold them directly under the hot water faucet. Dishes should be left in the racks long enough to drain well for best results.

Silverware should not be left too long in the pan of heated water. A few pieces at a time should be given short soaking and then wiped off with a dish cloth.

While many detergent users let the dishes dry in the racks, glasses and silverware should be dried with a towel. A good supply of towels should be on hand for these items and for times when you want to dry all the dishes by hand to get them out of the way.

Experience shows that cleaning pots and pans encrusted with grease or food matter is the biggest time killer a woman faces. This is a tough problem to solve but best tips are to have a good scraper on hand, wash these utensils as soon after use as possible or, if you must leave them till later, put hot water in them to soak. Also watch that food does not boil over on them while cooking.

The above suggestions represent a brief consensus on how to cut down the time involved in dishwashing by hand but to lop up to an hour and a half from the job, many women have been considering the purchase of an automatic dishwasher. Reports from several thousand owners sent to Hotpoint, largest dishwasher producer, indicate that these machines require less than one half hour daily, since women merely place the dishes in them and start the machine.

There are several types of automatic dishwashers, but the best known and the most automatic have a rack that slides out when the front is opened leaving the top of the appliance as free working surface for stacking dishes. The racks hold 60 dishes, cups, saucers, pots, pans and glasses plus silverware. These are washed, rinsed and electrically dried at the turn of a dial.

Women who use dishwashers reverse the ordinary hand routine and place the pots and pans in the dishwasher immediately after use to let the machine wash them while the family is eating. The racks are loaded with the dinnerware five to ten minutes after dessert dishes have been cleared. The appliance takes over when the dial is set and 30 minutes later the dishes are dry and can be put away. Some women leave the dishes stored overnight in the machine until ready to use them again next morning. With a large group, the appetizer and dinner dishes can be put in the machine to wash while dessert is served. This leaves only the final course dishes and coffee cups and saucers to be put in the racks before the housewife can rejoin her guests.

The preparation of pots, pans and dishware for a dishwasher is similar to preparation for hand washing which means brushing off all loose foreign matter and for greasy ones, running them under hot water.

For fine china and stemware, a good dishwasher is neither kinder nor harder than hand washing. Where the machine has heated forced air for drying, a point to watch when shopping for a dishwasher, glasses and silverware will dry spotless and sparkling.

Because good dishwashers use water at 150 degrees, which is hotter than the hands can stand, they do a more thorough washing job than can be done by hand.

Before you purchase any dishwasher, you should discuss installation with your dealer or contractor. The best models all require plumbing but with the increased popularity of this modern work-saving appliance plumbers are experienced in installation.

French Toast Cheesewich

A grilled sandwich is often welcome with cold accompaniments. Dip cheese sandwiches in a combination of beaten eggs, milk, and salt, and brown on both sides in hot fat.

Enriched bread from your favorite bakeshop makes short work of preparing and serving summer meals. Sandwich meals are high in flavor and informal hospitality. A variety of fillings may be made beforehand and stored in the refrigerator. They can be spread between slices of buttered enriched bread just before time to serve. Cut in varity of shapes — triangles, fingers, or squares to make the sandwich platter interesting. Garnish with radish roses, fresh green onions, carrot sticks and stuffed olives.

Doughnut Sundae French Toasted

Did you know that the ever-popular breakfast doughnut can be made into an appetizing dinnertime dessert? Split doughnuts in half horizontally and dip them in a mixture of beaten egg, milk, and cinnamon. Next, brown on both sides in hot fat. Finally, place a ball, of ice cream between the toasted doughnut halves, and serve with maple syrup. These French toasted doughnut sundaes also make delicious refreshments to serve at children's parties or when friends drop in for a visit.

Freezer Picnic Lunches

"Spur of the moment" picnics are never a problem with families who have home freezers. At a convenient time, prepare, label, and store in the freezer separate picnic cartons of assorted sandwiches with fillings such as peanut butter, Cheddar, American or cream cheese, sliced or ground meat, fish or chicken, which lend themselves well to freezer storing. Then when someone suggests an outing, remove the carton of sandwiches, a baker's cake or pie, and other foods from the freezer, and be off to the picnic.

Put Sunshine In Your Meals

Whether the weather blows hot or cold, there is always sunshine in a pleasant meal. The sunshine in this luncheon is the basket of crisp, hot biscuits served with chilled chicken salad.

Perhaps you've already discovered that flaky biscuits make as perfect a bread with chicken salad as they do with roasted or stewed chicken. Biscuits have a way with other salads, too. In less than ten minutes one can stir up a batch of drop biscuits that are full of good nourishment in every bite and that add a bit of Southern charms to the bread basket.

With a salad main dish, most hungry folks will eat three drop biscuits or more. This means they will get an extra-generous portion of B-vitamins, iron, protein and food energy needed in summer as well as in winter. Because of their food value as well as their good taste, enriched breads of all kinds belong in practically every meal.

If you like, drop the biscuit batter into muffin cups rather than on a baking sheet. This makes shapely little biscuits. However they are baked, serve the biscuts hot with butter or margarine. Other spreads, such as honey, fruit jams, jellies or peanut butter are good, too. Sweet spreads are a good way to include extra calories in the diet for slimsters and growing children.

Drop Biscuits

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk.

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a thick batter, stirring only until flour is well moistened. Drop by spoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 8 to 10 minutes.

Makes about 18 biscuits.

Jelly Roll Sundae

Everyone's favorite — the jelly roll — takes on party airs when dressed up in the latest spring fashion as an ice cream sundae. To perform this trick, place a slice of brick vanilla or strawberry ice cream between two slices of bakers' jelly roll, and top each serving with crushed strawberries. A jelly roll ice cream sundae not only is easy to make, but it's a real treat both for family meals and parties, as well as a welcome refreshment for bridge and canasta players.

Breakfast Sandwiches

Put new zip into tomorrow's breakfast by surprising the family with grilled apricot sandwiches. Spread slices of enriched bread with apricot jam, sprinkle with cinnamon, top with a second slice of enriched bread, and brush outsides of sandwiches with butter or margarine. Grill sandwiches slowly in frying pan until delicately brown on both sides. These taste-tempting breakfast sandwiches are not only economical, but also provide needed energy and nourishment to start an active day.

Sponge Cake Dessert

Sponge cake from the neighborhood bakery or food store can be turned into a superbly different dessert in a jiffy with a rich, colorful topping. To make fold into stiffly beaten whipped cream crushed peanut brittle, bananas, strawberries, or other fruit and spread on generous slices of cake. Serve this easily-prepared dessert to family or guests and listen for praises all around.

This means they will get an extra-generous portion of B-vitamins, iron, protein and food energy needed in summer as well as in winter. Because of their food value as well as their good taste, enriched breads of all kinds belong in practically every meal.

If you like, drop the biscuit batter into muffin cups rather than on a baking sheet. This makes shapely little biscuits. However they are baked, serve the biscuts hot with butter or margarine. Other spreads, such as honey, fruit jams, jellies or peanut butter are good, too. Sweet spreads are a good way to include extra calories in the diet for slimsters and growing children.

Drop Biscuits

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk.

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add milk to make a thick batter, stirring only until flour is well moistened. Drop by spoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 8 to 10 minutes.

Makes about 18 biscuits.

Jelly Roll Sundae

Everyone's favorite — the jelly roll — takes on party airs when dressed up in the latest spring fashion as an ice cream sundae. To perform this trick, place a slice of brick vanilla or strawberry ice cream between two slices of bakers' jelly roll, and top each serving with crushed strawberries. A jelly roll ice cream sundae not only is easy to make, but it's a real treat both for family meals and parties, as well as a welcome refreshment for bridge and canasta players.

Breakfast Sandwiches

Put new zip into tomorrow's breakfast by surprising the family with grilled apricot sandwiches. Spread slices of enriched bread with apricot jam, sprinkle with cinnamon, top with a second slice of enriched bread, and brush outsides of sandwiches with butter or margarine. Grill sandwiches slowly in frying pan until delicately brown on both sides. These taste-tempting breakfast sandwiches are not only economical, but also provide needed energy and nourishment to start an active day.

Sponge Cake Dessert

Sponge cake from the neighborhood bakery or food store can be turned into a superbly different dessert in a jiffy with a rich, colorful topping. To make fold into stiffly beaten whipped cream crushed peanut brittle, bananas, strawberries, or other fruit and spread on generous slices of cake. Serve this easily-prepared dessert to family or guests and listen for praises all around.

"Fighting School Teachers" Build Nucleus Of South Korean Air Force

By STAN SWINTON

A FORWARD FIGHTING STRIP IN KOREA, (AP) — The "fighting school teachers"—fighter pilots who interrupt their classes several times a day to roar down on enemy positions three minutes flying time away —are building the nucleus of a new South Korean air force here.

Officially, this is the Korean air force advisory group. Actually, it is just about the most fabulous group of Air Force fighters in Korea. It is led by Maj. Dean Hess, who has flown "75 or 80—gee, I've lost count" missions himself in three weeks.

Hess, who has a wife and two children back in Marietta, Ohio, is a scholar who flies the United Nations flag over his headquarters and holds a master's degree from Ohio State in diplomatic history.

"He is the most outstanding close support pilot in the Korean war," an infantry general said of Hess.

But Hess' burning interest is in the school where 62 bright-eyed South Koreans from 19 to 23 years of age this week started South Korea on the road to air power.

Typical is Son Kyoung Wook.

"Korea must learn to defend herself," Son said. We do not have the money or time to build up a big navy or buy expensive weapons. It is quicker to get an air force. This is very important—if it were not we would be on the front line with rifles."

The others "are more eager than I am. We all feel the same," said Son.

"These are bright boys," said T/Sgt. John J. Dawson, Wheeling, W. Va., who was teaching a roomful of students about basic aircraft types.

"In the breaks between classes they never relax — they keep on studying and asking questions," he said.

The school is operating almost without equipment. Capt. Jack Werner, Atlantic City, N. J., who has flown 29 combat missions in Korea, took three engines from crashed American planes. They are used to show the students how airplane engines work.

With the officer pilots so busy on combat missions, enlisted men like Sgt. William T. Parker, Tyrone, Pa., teach many of the classes.

"We should have 12 cadets ready to go to America for flight training before long," said Hess.

American airmen here chipped in their post exchange rations—cigarets and candy. T/Sgt. Stanfors Simon, San Francisco, went over and distributed them to each wounded South Korean in a nearby hospital.

There's a sign on the wall—"Remember to treat all Koreans, including kitchen police, democratically."

The dark 32-year-old Hess, who looks something like Gregory Peck and talks like a university professor, is the man who has mixed fighting, education and democracy in the middle of this tough war.

He flew 63 missions in World War II and volunteered for combat again when the Korean war broke out. He is a legend—but he would rather talk European diplomatic history than tell about his exploits.

Once Hess shot up hundreds of North Koreans crossing a river. He related:

"It was a gory mess. With the North Koreans you have a feeling of killing people who are not human beings at all. But you keep wondering if they have forced some poor refugee to move with them and you are hitting them."

Hess has been recommended for a Distinguished Service Cross by an infantry division. He doesn't know about it yet. Nor of the personal letter of thanks written his commanding general by Maj. Gen. William B. Kean, commander of the 25th Division.

That's for the day when a Yak fighter jumped Hess when his ammunition was gone. Instead of running for safety with his F-51, Hess let the Yak get on his tail so his wingman would have a chance to shoot the red plane down.

Hess doesn't talk much about things like that. He'd rather tell you about his hopes of getting a professorship teaching diplomatic history when the Korea war is over.

Permits Granted

Of the total of 622 applications for occupancy permits made to the city engineer's office since February 1, 1945 were granted by that office, according to the annual report to the Mayor and Council submitted by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer.

Of the remaining, 206 were referred to the Board of Zoning Appeals which denied 35, and 13 were dismissed or withdrawn.

Rizer pointed out that all permits were not for new businesses but the majority for businesses changing locations.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950, 99 applications were filed, 59 granted and 40 referred to the board which granted 31 and denied nine.

Ruler-To-Be Of Part Of Nigeria Works As "Steam Boy" In Factory

NEW YORK—(INS)—Jaws dropped in a New York garment factory when it was disclosed that the "steam-boy" known as Eze was the ruler-to-be of an African domain.

Louis Bloom, partner in the G and G pleating firm told his 60 workers about it today after Ezewuna Anyanwu Ogueri left his employe after five weeks. Bloom was somewhat wistful about the departure of the young man who some day will rule part of Nigeria, a British colony in West Africa with a population of some 20 million.

Bloom said, "It's funny, but he was the only one of my employes who called me mister. To everyone else I'm Louis."

Louis said he first hired Eze without knowing his background. Then when the youth said he was leaving, he explained:

"I think, Mr. Bloom, that you don't know who I am. I am from Nigeria.". . . and he told something of his past.

Abe Levine, manager of the firm, told International News Service that Eze was one of the politest and best workers on the payroll.

"And as democratic as they come," he added.

Eze wore ordinary civilian clothes while working in the garment factory.

He was what they called a "steam boy." On a small truck he pushed patterns to a steam oven. He also loaded waste for the elevators and often swept the floors.

His visit to this country had been devoid of publicity. On coming to the United States, it was learned, he first attended Bethune-Cookman College, at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Last June, Eze was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree at Adelphi College, Garden City, L. I.

Then he took a summer job at G and G.

Eze lives alone in an apartment in Bellrose, L. I. He is about to go to South America for a vacation. In the fall he will attend a college in Massachusetts, working toward a Ph.D.

Ruler-To-Be Of Part Of Nigeria Works As "Steam Boy" In Factory

NEW YORK—(INS)—Jaws dropped in a New York garment factory when it was disclosed that the "steam-boy" known as Eze was the ruler-to-be of an African domain.

Louis Bloom, partner in the G and G pleating firm told his 60 workers about it today after Ezewuna Anyanwu Ogueri left his employe after five weeks. Bloom was somewhat wistful about the departure of the young man who some day will rule part of Nigeria, a British colony in West Africa with a population of some 20 million.

Bloom said, "It's funny, but he was the only one of my employes who called me mister. To everyone else I'm Louis."

Louis said he first hired Eze without knowing his background. Then when the youth said he was leaving, he explained:

"I think, Mr. Bloom, that you don't know who I am. I am from Nigeria.". . . and he told something of his past.

Abe Levine, manager of the firm, told International News Service that Eze was one of the politest and best workers on the payroll.

"And as democratic as they come," he added.

Eze wore ordinary civilian clothes while working in the garment factory.

He was what they called a "steam boy." On a small truck he pushed patterns to a steam oven. He also loaded waste for the elevators and often swept the floors.

His visit to this country had been devoid of publicity. On coming to the United States, it was learned, he first attended Bethune-Cookman College, at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Last June, Eze was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree at Adelphi College, Garden City, L. I.

Then he took a summer job at G and G.

Eze lives alone in an apartment in Bellrose, L. I. He is about to go to South America for a vacation. In the fall he will attend a college in Massachusetts, working toward a Ph.D.

Decision Likely Within Few Days On Car Purchase

Arguments Completed In Circuit Court

A decision in the case involving the purchase of a new car for the sheriff's office by the Allegany County Commissioners is expected within the next few days.

Arguments on the case were completed yesterday morning and Associate Judge George Henderson took the matter under advisement.

The Fletcher Motor Sales Company filed suit August 7 asking an injunction against the commissioners after the county had ordered a new car from the Frantz Oldsmobile Company. The Fletcher firm was the low bidder on the county's advertisement for a medium priced automobile.

The commissioners awarded the bid to the Frantz company even though its offer was $154.15 more than the one by the Fletcher company. A trade-in of $1,425 was offered by the Frantz firm while the Fletcher firm offered a $1,530 trade-in on the 1948 car owned by the county.

Getty Claims Power

Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Holmes voted to buy the Frantz company's Oldsmobile while Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson objected.

The Fletcher company is the local Kaiser-Frazer dealer.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, told the court yesterday morning the board has discretionary powers in awarding bids.

Getty said the board took into consideration the future market value of the cars, the fact that the Oldsmobile is an eight cylinder and the Kaiser is a six cylinder vehicle.

Getty also said that the advertisement for bids stated the county wanted to purchase a machine in the medium price field. There was no mention of how many cylinders, the wheelbase or other specifications, Getty added.

All bids on supplies and equipment are varied and the advertisements by the county are stated in general terms, Getty said.

No Question of Fraud

In cases where the county asks for bids on building additions or new structures the advertisements are specific and in that case the low bidders get the job, he added.

Thomas B. Finan, attorney for the plaintiff, said that there is no question of fraud or collusion in the case, but there is the question of a precedent being set in awarding bids to other than the lowest bidder when all conditions are met.

Finan cited a Baltimore case in which the Court of Appeals held that the city had to accept the lowest bid in awarding a contract for garbage removal.

The whole question at yesterday morning's hearing revolved around the interpretation of statutes under which municipalities and governmental units handle bids.

Commissioners Holmes and Wilkinson and James G. Stevenson, clerk to the commissioners, were spectators at yesterday's hearing.

McMullen Road Work Begun

The $700,000 repairs to the McMullen Highway from Cresaptown towards Rawlings has been started by the State Roads Commission with the Cumberland Contracting Company doing the work, according to G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the SRC.

The major work will be done just north of Barton's Dairy, and it includes widening the roadway from 21 to 24 feet, elimination of several hilltops and realigning of the road in several places.

All of the surfacing and patching will be done with concrete.

Democratic candidates, Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., Attorney General Hall Hammond and Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, will make campaign appearances in Allegany and Garrett counties next Monday and Tuesday.

The candidates will arrive in Cumberland late Monday afternoon, and after a radio talk at 7:15 p. m. by Gov. Lane, the party will attend a county-wide rally at the South End Democratic Club, Virginia Avenue, at 7:45.

Tuesday morning the party will go to Garrett County to hold a meeting at the Casselman Hotel, Grantsville, at 10:30 a. m.

Fifth Case Of Polio Reported Here

The fifth case of infantile paralysis reported this month in Cumberland and immediate vicinity was that of Mrs. Alma June Cramer, 30, of 866 Maryland Avenue, who was admitted to Allegany Hospital on Sunday.

Mrs. Cramer is a clerk in a local store.

More than 250,000 operations are performed for appendectomies in the United States every year.

Coronary thrombosis (formation of a blood clot in the coronary artery) claims 200,000 American lives a year.

Sewage Permit Letters Mailed

Leters are being mailed by the Health Department to 140 persons in the county who have applied for permits to build septic tanks, notifying them that plans must be approved before any sewage disposal system is installed.

This was reported yesterday by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, deputy state health officer.

Dr. Frantz said letters also will be sent in the near future to all plumbers and contractors who install such tanks for home owners, outlining correct installation methods.

Copies of the state laws regulating septic tanks will be enclosed in the letters, as well as a reminder that home owners must obtain Health Department permits for such work.

After septic tanks are installed, trenches may not be filled in until the Health Department has inspected them and issued a completion certificate, Dr. Frantz warned.

Any person convicted of violating state laws pertaining to sewage disposal systems may be fined from $25 to $100 for each violation.

The Health Department is making every effort to keep sewage off public property and out of ditches along highways, Dr. Frantz said.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24 (INS) — Dore Schary will keep the fiction character "Joe Smith" alive on the screen in one picture annually at MGM with a different actor playing the role each time—a brand new idea and a good one. So far, Robert Young has played the typical American in "Joe Smith, American" followed by James Whitmore in "The Next Voice You Hear."

Says Dore, "Joe Smith is just an American, a man with the typical problems and leading the same life as the man next door to you. He is a symbol of what is warm, real and human in our every day life."

In no way a series—each "Joe Smith" picture gets a new set of characters in different circumstances but their problems and triumphs will be as American as pot roast and pancakes.

Bill is jumping to take the job on Broadway and has been tearing through front offices at Paramount and Columbia (he's under contract both places) begging his bosses for permission.

After his smash in "Sunset Boulevard," Paramount, particularly, may may have other ideas. But if he can't accept, it's going to break the guy's heart.

Lucky invitation holders to Adrian's fashion show-supper last year thought it couldn't be topped. But Tuesday night's guests got another thrill when Adrian and Janet hosted another clothes' spree followed by cocktails and supper.

Fashion wise, Adrian's collection is all to the Spanish, contrived to make our belles look like dashing senoritas.

The men came along with their wives, same as last year. Among those getting an eyeful were the Gary Coopers, Doris Duke, Roz Russell and Freddie Brisson, Loretta and Tom Lewis, Sarah Churchill, the Charles Vidors and the Richard Sales.

It was a frost-bitten Clark Gable that Clarence Brown hauled out of bed at 2 o'clock in the morning to report first-hand how the sneak preview on "To Please a Lady" had pleased the audience!

"That's wonderful," wheezed King Gable, "but I've got something to tell you: I walked five minutes to get to the only telephone in this place, my shirt tail is flapping in the wind, and it's snowing here!"

He wasn't kidding. The next morning, the MGM troupe making "Across the Wide Missouri," 30 miles outside Durango, Colorado, awakened to an inch of snow on the ground — and in August, yet!

Richard Tregakis, famed INS correspondent, has sold his latest story, "The Flying Jeeps" to Columbia — a war thriller with the same punch as his "Guadalcanal Diary".

The "Flying Jeeps" of the title, are the Cub planes which operate as the "eyes" of the artillery over enemy territory. Harry Conn moves the the locale to Korea to bring it up-to-date and says "no cast" so far.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24 (INS) — Dore Schary will keep the fiction character "Joe Smith" alive on the screen in one picture annually at MGM with a different actor playing the role each time—a brand new idea and a good one. So far, Robert Young has played the typical American in "Joe Smith, American" followed by James Whitmore in "The Next Voice You Hear."

Says Dore, "Joe Smith is just an American, a man with the typical problems and leading the same life as the man next door to you. He is a symbol of what is warm, real and human in our every day life."

In no way a series—each "Joe Smith" picture gets a new set of characters in different circumstances but their problems and triumphs will be as American as pot roast and pancakes.

Henry Fonda goes into a New York hospital—and soon—for an operation. The star elected to replace him in "Mister Roberts" is our own William Holden!

Bill is jumping to take the job on Broadway and has been tearing through front offices at Paramount and Columbia (he's under contract both places) begging his bosses for permission.

After his smash in "Sunset Boulevard," Paramount, particularly, may may have other ideas. But if he can't accept, it's going to break the guy's heart.

Lucky invitation holders to Adrian's fashion show-supper last year thought it couldn't be topped. But Tuesday night's guests got another thrill when Adrian and Janet hosted another clothes' spree followed by cocktails and supper.

Fashion wise, Adrian's collection is all to the Spanish, contrived to make our belles look like dashing senoritas.

The men came along with their wives, same as last year. Among those getting an eyeful were the Gary Coopers, Doris Duke, Roz Russell and Freddie Brisson, Loretta and Tom Lewis, Sarah Churchill, the Charles Vidors and the Richard Sales.

It was a frost-bitten Clark Gable that Clarence Brown hauled out of bed at 2 o'clock in the morning to report first-hand how the sneak preview on "To Please a Lady" had pleased the audience!

"That's wonderful," wheezed King Gable, "but I've got something to tell you: I walked five minutes to get to the only telephone in this place, my shirt tail is flapping in the wind, and it's snowing here!"

He wasn't kidding. The next morning, the MGM troupe making "Across the Wide Missouri," 30 miles outside Durango, Colorado, awakened to an inch of snow on the ground — and in August, yet!

Meanwhile, another suit asking $25,000 damages has been filed by a Keyser couple in Mineral County Court against a Washington, Pa., trucking firm.

United States Netmen Open Defense Of Davis Cup Today

Ted Schroeder And Brown To Battle Aussies

McGregor And Sedgm Oppose Americans In First Singles Tests

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24 (INS)—A refrigerator salesman and a fledgling lawyer—Ted Schroeder and Tom Brown—will carry America's fearful Davis Cup hopes into tomorrow's opening two singles matches against youthful Ken McGregor and Frank Sedgman of the challenging Australians.

Brown opposes the 22-year-old Sedgman in the final match and Schroeder faces the 20-year-old McGregor in the second match. On Sunday, they will switch singles foes, with Brown playing McGregor in one match and the two aces, Schroeder and Sedgman, meeting in the other.

Pairings for Saturday's lone doubles match, subject to change up to an hour before starting time, will be Schroeder and Gardnar Mulloy against Sedgman and Jack Bromwich.

The U. S. is rated a slight favorite to retain the cup it won from the Aussies in 1946, but the Australians' non-playing captain Harry Hopman scored well strategically today.

Hopman's theory on winning the best-three-out-of-five business is based on the sheer necessity for an Australian victory in the doubles. This one triumph must be secured for the Aussies, since they can hardly hope to win three singles out of four.

Thus Hopman will use his crack team of Bromwich and Sedgman in the doubles and has substituted McGregor for the more experienced Bromwich in singles to insure that his old lion will be fresh and ready for the doubles.

To counter this, America's captain Alrick Man, Jr., has broken up his customery doubles team of Bill Talbert and Mulloy—who have lost four straight major titles to the Aussies—and is throwing Schroeder in with Mulloy. Man wants the doubles too.

In singles, Hopman's hope is that Sedgman will prove too much for Brown tomorrow and that the young McGregor will catch the erratic Brown in one of his woeful moments on Sunday. Two victories over Brown, plus a win in the doubles, would give Australia the cup.

The Aussie players do not figure seriously to beat Schroeder, who has never lost a set in Davis Cup play.

In the American plans, on the other hand, Brown must win one of his two matches—either that, or Schroeder must win twice and the U. S. must take the doubles.

Yankees Score In Little Loop

Idle Pirates Tie Red Sox For Lead

Manager Al Paye's Yankees upset the Red Sox in a Little League game last night at Penn Avenue Field, dropping the latter into a first place tie with the Pirates who were idle. The score was 12-7.

The big blow of the battle was Ronnie Lewis' grand slam homer in the 4th inning for the Yankees. Wayne Long of the Red Sox belted a four-bagger with one aboard in the 4th frame.

George Hale and Clarence Lewis worked on the mound for the the Yankees and fanned 12 batsmen between them. The Sox used three pitchers, Sullivan, Billmeyer and Shipway who struck out 10.

The Red Sox-Yankees game set for today has been postponed to Saturday at 10 a. m. at Penn Avenue Field.

BOSOX WIN IN 9TH

BOSTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—A ninth inning two out homer by Junior Stephens with the bases loaded gave the Boston Red Sox their 10th straight win today with a 6-2 decision over the St. Louis Browns.

It was a heartbreaking setback for Ned Garver.

Garver, who had pulled himself out of two deep holes previously, saw the tying run come in when Shortstop Tommy Upton juggled Billy Goodman's grounder. Then Stephens lashed his grand slammer, which gave him a total of 28 homers and 124 RBI's to date this season. Box:

The Fabulous "Babe"

Waingold Top Owner

By C. V. BURNS

When Mrs. Mildred "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias comes here Sunday to appear in an exhibition golf match at the Cumberland Country Club it will mark her second visit to Cumberland.

Sixteen years ago "Babe" Didrikson and her All-American basketball team played the local Knights of Pythias at the State Armory and won by the score of 28-22.

"Babe" played 17 minutes and scored three field goals.

The game was staged Saturday, January 20, 1934. On the preceding night, the All-Americans defeated the Moose cagers in Hagerstown.

(Mrs. Zaharias, incidentally, will play an exhibition at Hagerstown before her visit here Sunday).

K. of P. players who were in the game against the "Babe" were Paul Holtzman, Paul Butts, Lawrence Shaffer, Dick Johnson and Wilbur Huffman.

L. H. "Red" Chaney, now of 420 Goethe street, was manager of the Pythians and Johnson was player-coach. Joe Ervin of Baltimore referred the game.

At that time the "Babe" was known as the "Wonder Girl From Texas" because she excelled not only in basketball but track and field, swimming, golf, tennis and baseball.

In 1932, Miss Didrikson starred in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles. She won the 80 meter hurdles and tossed the javelin 143 feet, 4 inches.

The previous year, the "Babe" hung up an All-American record for women in the baseball throw by heaving the horsehide 296 feet at Jersey City, N. J.

Since 1944, Mrs. Zaharias, now the wife of George Zaharias, former heavyweight wrestler, has captured at least one important golf title annually.

She won the National Amateur, All-American and Trans-Mississippi in 1946 and in 1947 was the first American golfer to win the 24th annual British Amateur. In 1948 she won the U. S. Open, in 1949 the Eastern Open and another All-American title this year at Tam O'Shanter, Chicago.

These facts and figures tend to show why Mrs. Zaharias deserves the title of the "world's greatest woman athlete."

A native of Port Arthur, Texas, Mrs. Zaharias was born June 26, 1913.

Goggin, Furgol, Harman Lead In Canadian Open

MONTREAL, Aug. 24 (AP)—Two United States professionals and one from Quebec shot five under par 67's today to share the first round lead in the Canadian Open Golf Championship.

The veteran Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., and Ed Furgol, the lame-armed pro from Royal Oak, Mich., carried the American banner to the front. Len Harman of Knowlten, Quebec, was the home favorite who kept pace with them over the par 72 Royal Montreal Course.

Meanwhile, the tournament favorite, Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, West Va., fell five strokes off the pace by registering an even par 72.

The U. S. leading money winner was under par with a 35 going out but his putting soured on the backside and he took a 37.

Harman made his remarkable score—the best he ever did in major competition—the hard way. He took an even par 36 going out and then fired five birdies and four pars to give the back nine its worst trouncing of the day, a 31.

Yale Coach Quits

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 24 (AP)—The resignation of Allen (Skip) Walz, Yale crew coach the past four seasons, was announced today by Robert A. Hall, the university's athletic director.

Walz's successor is expected to be named soon.

Stranahan Goes To Semi-Finals In Amateur Golf

Opposes Ward Today, Knowles, Urzetta Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24 (AP) — Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Bob Knowles of Brookline, Mass., John Ward of Clay, N. Y., and Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N. Y., shot their way into the semi-final round of the golden anniversary National Amateur Golf Tourney today.

Shranahan, already holder of the British amateur title, thus moved a step closer to his ambition of winning the two major amateur titles in one season. It is a trick that hasn't been done since Lawson Little of Cleveland and California, did it in the mid-thirties.

Sixteen players started their days work on the 6,655 yard layout of the Minneapolis Golf Club in a howling windstorm in the morning. Only the four were left after the finish of two rounds on the par 35-36—71 course under a blazing sun.

In tomorrow's 36-hole semi-finals, Stranahan will play Ward, a Syracuse lawyer, who was hardly known outside his own area until this week. Urzetta, who has played consistent sub-par golf all week, takes on Knowles.

The successor to Charles Coe of Oklahoma City will be crowned after another 36-hole session on Saturday.

Stranahan, who never had reached the U. S. semi-finals before, despite two victories in the British tourney, said just before his afternoon conquest of Richard Kinchla of Newtonville, Mass., 5 and 4, that he had changed two parts of his game for this tourney.

"I play now against par, no matter what my opponent does and I stroke my putts instead of trying to scoop them into the holes."

Knowles halted Tom Veech of Milwaukee and Notre Dame in the quarter-finals, 3 and 2, and Clay knocked off Bill Shields of Albany, N. Y., 2 and 1. Urzetta measured Bud Holscher of Pacific Palisades, Calif., 2 up after the 19-year-old coast player was two up after the first two holes.

Kinchla eliminated Loren Krugel of Mankata, Minn., 1 up, in the morning round.

The Toledo muscle man put out Willie Barber of Woodland Hills, Calif., 5 and 4, in the morning round in a match during which the Californian inadvertently played a "foreign" ball out of the rough on the eleventh. Barber had to forfeit the hole.

In the morning Veech stopped Harold Paddock, of Aurora, Ohio, 2 and 1, and Knowles took care of Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Texas, 3 and 1. It was Paddock who yesterday ended the reign of defending champion Charles Coe of Oklahoma City.

Urzetta played sub-par golf in the morning winds to eliminate Raleigh Selby of Kilgore, Texas, 4 and 3.

Ward crushed Gene Vinson of Meridian, Miss., by a 7 and 5 score, in the morning.

Shields ended the fabulous career of Richard Hackett of Rome, Ga., in the morning. The Georgian, who got into the tourney on Sunday as a substitute for Bob McCoy of Atlanta, lost by a 2 and 1 score.

Barnstormers Given Orders By Chandler

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler today issued orders that players may participate in exhibition games this year only between Oct. 9 and Nov. 7.

He also said schedules and itineraries of barnstorming players must be submitted to him for approval.

No more than three players of any one club will be allowed on the same team, and "in no exhibition game may more than three players out of the joint membership of the two world series' teams appear."

ROE, HATTEN SCORE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Dodgers took both games of a twi-night doubleheader here tonight as southpaws Preacher Roe and Joe Hatten limited the Reds to a total of 16 hits and three runs. In the opener Roe chalked up his second consecutive shutout. Hatten's performance in the final game was his first start since June 29. Box:

Wellersburg Snaps 11-Game Winning String Of Klondyke

Gene Fritz Throttles Pen-Mar Leaders, 3-2

Wellersburg cracked the 11-game winning streak of the Klondyke Colts in a Pen-Mar Baseball League game played yesterday at Wellersburg. The score was 3-2.

While the defeat was the Colts' first since July 2 it failed to knock them out of first place which they now hold by 2½ games over Wellersburg.

Gene Fritz, of Garrett, Pa., making his first appearance on the rubber for Wellersburg this season, limited the Colts to five hits and fanned five. He won his own game in the 6th inning when he singled home Lloyd Lease who had doubled with the run that broke a 2-2 deadlock.

A diving one-handed catch by Widdows, Wellersburg second sacker, of a liner from Skidmore's bat was the fielding highlight. Cessna led the Pennsylvanians' batting attack with three hits. Horwath banged a double and single and Fritz connected for two singles.

Barrelville edged Flintstone on the latter's field by the score of 7-6. Vern Duckworth went the route for the victors and was touched for 11 hits. Matthew Bridges hammered a triple, double and single and Ken Dolly rapped three singles for Flintstone. A four-run outburst in the 5th enabled Barrelville to come from behind to grab the decision.

Eckhart took Ellerslie into camp at Eckhart, 9-6 with Clarence Felker gaining the nod over Bob See. The winners collected 11 hits, including Enardo Arnone's homer and double and a double and two singles for Charley Muletz in four trips. LaRue had a perfect day at bat for Ellerslie, slapping a homer, double and single and drawing a base on balls. Wolfe obtained a triple, double and single.

The Zihlman-Keyser Ridge game at the latter place was not reported. Scores:

Al Sheetz, F. O. Eagles' ace, beat the Cumberland Outdoor Club, the Rocking Chair Softball League leaders, for the third straight time yesterday by the score of 14-2 as the loop's regular 1950 schdule was concluded.

The Outdoor Club finished in first place with a 21-5 record followed by the Eagles with 20-8 and B.P.O. Elks with 16-10. The Moose lead the Elks 14-12 to 12-14 in the battle for the 4th place playoff spot and these teams will play until one is eliminated.

Sheetz's win yesterday was his 11th against two losses. Minnick and DeLuca topped the F.O.E. hitters with three safeties each. Doyle George and Aman of the Eagles and Hixenbaugh and Johnson of the ODC had two hits apiece. Jim Morrison, losing pitcher, issued eight walks.

Johnny Yaider and "Bub" Porter belted triples as the Goodfellowship Club downed the Amvets, 7-4, to give Hobell his 10th win of the season. The GFC racked up 11 hits.

Cubs And Braves Split Twin Bill

CHICAGO, Aug. (INS) — The Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader with the Boston Braves today, winning the second game, 4 to 3, after dropping the first contest, 11 to 9.

Frank Hiller held the Braves to seven hits in the second game as he won his sixth straight victory and his tenth of the season.

Hank Sauer's two doubles in the late innings sparked the Cubs attack.

Sauer hit two homers, his 20th and 21st, in the opener but the Cubs fell victim to a late Boston attack which produced six runs in the ninth inning to nose out the Chicago team.

Max Surkont was credited with the Braves' triumph in his first start since he came up from Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League a few days ago.

Luis Olmo hit a homer for the winners in the sixth. Box:

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24 (INS) — Philadelphia's super-charged Phillies downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 2, today behind the five-hit hurling of rookie Bubba Church, before a Ladies' Day crowd of 16,789.

The young righthander won his sixth game and the two runs he yielded were unearned.

The league leaders scored three runs in the fourth off rookie Vernon Law. Granny Hamner produced a two-run triple and Mike Goliat singled the shortstop home.

Pittsburgh's two runs came in the fourth on a walk to Tom Saffell, errors by Hamner and Del Ennis and a single by Gus Bell. Box:

Glaze Bags 11th Win Of Season Over Vets

OAKLAND, Aug. 24 — Oakland's Amvets defeated the Kitzmiller Vets in a Mountain Top Baseball League game here today by the score of 4-2.

A three-run rally decided the issue in the 6th inning with an outfield fly scoring what proved to be the winning run.

Bob Glaze marked up his 11th win of the season, letting the visitors down with four hits while fanning six batsmen.

Jim Droppleman tripled in both of Kitzmiller's runs in the third frame. Dick Wolfe accounted for two of the winners' five safeties.

Tigers Salvage Final Of Series From New York

Newhouser Chalks Up 6-3 Win Over Yanks

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (INS)—The Detroit Tigers roared from behind today to salvage the finale of a three-game series with the New York Yankees, 6 to 3, before a crowd of 38,929 at Yankee Stadium.

The Tigers thus escaped from the series with a 2½ game lead in the American League race.

Hal Newhouser granted nine hits but halted the Yanks after the third inning. Prince Hal's worst moment came when Yogi Berra pumped his third homerun in as many days, his 16th of the season and his eighth against Detroit pitching.

Tommy Byrne weakened after shutting out the Tigers for five innings. He gave up two runs in the sixth, but Joe Page gave up the winning single to George Kell in the seventh after Byrne and Fred Sanford had filled the bases on walks.

Eddie Lipon, returning to action after being spiked two weeks ago, paced the Tiger attack with three hits and a walk. Box:

United States Netmen Open Defense Of Davis Cup Today

Ted Schroeder And Brown To Battle Aussies

McGregor And Sedgm Oppose Americans In First Singles Tests

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24 (INS)—A refrigerator salesman and a fledgling lawyer—Ted Schroeder and Tom Brown—will carry America's fearful Davis Cup hopes into tomorrow's opening two singles matches against youthful Ken McGregor and Frank Sedgman of the challenging Australians.

Brown opposes the 22-year-old Sedgman in the final match and Schroeder faces the 20-year-old McGregor in the second match. On Sunday, they will switch singles foes, with Brown playing McGregor in one match and the two aces, Schroeder and Sedgman, meeting in the other.

Pairings for Saturday's lone doubles match, subject to change up to an hour before starting time, will be Schroeder and Gardnar Mulloy against Sedgman and Jack Bromwich.

The U. S. is rated a slight favorite to retain the cup it won from the Aussies in 1946, but the Australians' non-playing captain Harry Hopman scored well strategically today.

Hopman's theory on winning the best-three-out-of-five business is based on the sheer necessity for an Australian victory in the doubles. This one triumph must be secured for the Aussies, since they can hardly hope to win three singles out of four.

Thus Hopman will use his crack team of Bromwich and Sedgman in the doubles and has substituted McGregor for the more experienced Bromwich in singles to insure that his old lion will be fresh and ready for the doubles.

To counter this, America's captain Alrick Man, Jr., has broken up his customery doubles team of Bill Talbert and Mulloy—who have lost four straight major titles to the Aussies—and is throwing Schroeder in with Mulloy. Man wants the doubles too.

In singles, Hopman's hope is that Sedgman will prove too much for Brown tomorrow and that the young McGregor will catch the erratic Brown in one of his woeful moments on Sunday. Two victories over Brown, plus a win in the doubles, would give Australia the cup.

The Aussie players do not figure seriously to beat Schroeder, who has never lost a set in Davis Cup play.

In the American plans, on the other hand, Brown must win one of his two matches—either that, or Schroeder must win twice and the U. S. must take the doubles.

Yankees Score In Little Loop

Idle Pirates Tie Red Sox For Lead

Manager Al Paye's Yankees upset the Red Sox in a Little League game last night at Penn Avenue Field, dropping the latter into a first place tie with the Pirates who were idle. The score was 12-7.

The big blow of the battle was Ronnie Lewis' grand slam homer in the 4th inning for the Yankees. Wayne Long of the Red Sox belted a four-bagger with one aboard in the 4th frame.

George Hale and Clarence Lewis worked on the mound for the the Yankees and fanned 12 batsmen between them. The Sox used three pitchers, Sullivan, Billmeyer and Shipway who struck out 10.

The Red Sox-Yankees game set for today has been postponed to Saturday at 10 a. m. at Penn Avenue Field.

BOSOX WIN IN 9TH

BOSTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—A ninth inning two out homer by Junior Stephens with the bases loaded gave the Boston Red Sox their 10th straight win today with a 6-2 decision over the St. Louis Browns.

It was a heartbreaking setback for Ned Garver.

Garver, who had pulled himself out of two deep holes previously, saw the tying run come in when Shortstop Tommy Upton juggled Billy Goodman's grounder. Then Stephens lashed his grand slammer, which gave him a total of 28 homers and 124 RBI's to date this season. Box:

The Fabulous "Babe"

Waingold Top Owner

By C. V. BURNS

When Mrs. Mildred "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias comes here Sunday to appear in an exhibition golf match at the Cumberland Country Club it will mark her second visit to Cumberland.

Sixteen years ago "Babe" Didrikson and her All-American basketball team played the local Knights of Pythias at the State Armory and won by the score of 28-22.

"Babe" played 17 minutes and scored three field goals.

The game was staged Saturday, January 20, 1934. On the preceding night, the All-Americans defeated the Moose cagers in Hagerstown.

(Mrs. Zaharias, incidentally, will play an exhibition at Hagerstown before her visit here Sunday).

K. of P. players who were in the game against the "Babe" were Paul Holtzman, Paul Butts, Lawrence Shaffer, Dick Johnson and Wilbur Huffman.

L. H. "Red" Chaney, now of 420 Goethe street, was manager of the Pythians and Johnson was player-coach. Joe Ervin of Baltimore referred the game.

At that time the "Babe" was known as the "Wonder Girl From Texas" because she excelled not only in basketball but track and field, swimming, golf, tennis and baseball.

In 1932, Miss Didrikson starred in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles. She won the 80 meter hurdles and tossed the javelin 143 feet, 4 inches.

The previous year, the "Babe" hung up an All-American record for women in the baseball throw by heaving the horsehide 296 feet at Jersey City, N. J.

Since 1944, Mrs. Zaharias, now the wife of George Zaharias, former heavyweight wrestler, has captured at least one important golf title annually.

She won the National Amateur, All-American and Trans-Mississippi in 1946 and in 1947 was the first American golfer to win the 24th annual British Amateur. In 1948 she won the U. S. Open, in 1949 the Eastern Open and another All-American title this year at Tam O'Shanter, Chicago.

These facts and figures tend to show why Mrs. Zaharias deserves the title of the "world's greatest woman athlete."

A native of Port Arthur, Texas, Mrs. Zaharias was born June 26, 1913.

Goggin, Furgol, Harman Lead In Canadian Open

MONTREAL, Aug. 24 (AP)—Two United States professionals and one from Quebec shot five under par 67's today to share the first round lead in the Canadian Open Golf Championship.

The veteran Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., and Ed Furgol, the lame-armed pro from Royal Oak, Mich., carried the American banner to the front. Len Harman of Knowlten, Quebec, was the home favorite who kept pace with them over the par 72 Royal Montreal Course.

Meanwhile, the tournament favorite, Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, West Va., fell five strokes off the pace by registering an even par 72.

The U. S. leading money winner was under par with a 35 going out but his putting soured on the backside and he took a 37.

Harman made his remarkable score—the best he ever did in major competition—the hard way. He took an even par 36 going out and then fired five birdies and four pars to give the back nine its worst trouncing of the day, a 31.

Stranahan Goes To Semi-Finals In Amateur Golf

Opposes Ward Today, Knowles, Urzetta Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 24 (AP) — Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Bob Knowles of Brookline, Mass., John Ward of Clay, N. Y., and Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N. Y., shot their way into the semi-final round of the golden anniversary National Amateur Golf Tourney today.

Shranahan, already holder of the British amateur title, thus moved a step closer to his ambition of winning the two major amateur titles in one season. It is a trick that hasn't been done since Lawson Little of Cleveland and California, did it in the mid-thirties.

Sixteen players started their days work on the 6,655 yard layout of the Minneapolis Golf Club in a howling windstorm in the morning. Only the four were left after the finish of two rounds on the par 35-36—71 course under a blazing sun.

In tomorrow's 36-hole semi-finals, Stranahan will play Ward, a Syracuse lawyer, who was hardly known outside his own area until this week. Urzetta, who has played consistent sub-par golf all week, takes on Knowles.

The successor to Charles Coe of Oklahoma City will be crowned after another 36-hole session on Saturday.

Stranahan, who never had reached the U. S. semi-finals before, despite two victories in the British tourney, said just before his afternoon conquest of Richard Kinchla of Newtonville, Mass., 5 and 4, that he had changed two parts of his game for this tourney.

"I play now against par, no matter what my opponent does and I stroke my putts instead of trying to scoop them into the holes."

Knowles halted Tom Veech of Milwaukee and Notre Dame in the quarter-finals, 3 and 2, and Clay knocked off Bill Shields of Albany, N. Y., 2 and 1. Urzetta measured Bud Holscher of Pacific Palisades, Calif., 2 up after the 19-year-old coast player was two up after the first two holes.

Kinchla eliminated Loren Krugel of Mankata, Minn., 1 up, in the morning round.

The Toledo muscle man put out Willie Barber of Woodland Hills, Calif., 5 and 4, in the morning round in a match during which the Californian inadvertently played a "foreign" ball out of the rough on the eleventh. Barber had to forfeit the hole.

In the morning Veech stopped Harold Paddock, of Aurora, Ohio, 2 and 1, and Knowles took care of Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Texas, 3 and 1. It was Paddock who yesterday ended the reign of defending champion Charles Coe of Oklahoma City.

Urzetta played sub-par golf in the morning winds to eliminate Raleigh Selby of Kilgore, Texas, 4 and 3.

Ward crushed Gene Vinson of Meridian, Miss., by a 7 and 5 score, in the morning.

Shields ended the fabulous career of Richard Hackett of Rome, Ga., in the morning. The Georgian, who got into the tourney on Sunday as a substitute for Bob McCoy of Atlanta, lost by a 2 and 1 score.

Barnstormers Given Orders By Chandler

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler today issued orders that players may participate in exhibition games this year only between Oct. 9 and Nov. 7.

He also said schedules and itineraries of barnstorming players must be submitted to him for approval.

No more than three players of any one club will be allowed on the same team, and "in no exhibition game may more than three players out of the joint membership of the two world series' teams appear."

ROE, HATTEN SCORE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Dodgers took both games of a twi-night doubleheader here tonight as southpaws Preacher Roe and Joe Hatten limited the Reds to a total of 16 hits and three runs. In the opener Roe chalked up his second consecutive shutout. Hatten's performance in the final game was his first start since June 29. Box:

Wellersburg Snaps 11-Game Winning String Of Klondyke

Gene Fritz Throttles Pen-Mar Leaders, 3-2

Wellersburg cracked the 11-game winning streak of the Klondyke Colts in a Pen-Mar Baseball League game played yesterday at Wellersburg. The score was 3-2.

While the defeat was the Colts' first since July 2 it failed to knock them out of first place which they now hold by 2½ games over Wellersburg.

Gene Fritz, of Garrett, Pa., making his first appearance on the rubber for Wellersburg this season, limited the Colts to five hits and fanned five. He won his own game in the 6th inning when he singled home Lloyd Lease who had doubled with the run that broke a 2-2 deadlock.

A diving one-handed catch by Widdows, Wellersburg second sacker, of a liner from Skidmore's bat was the fielding highlight. Cessna led the Pennsylvanians' batting attack with three hits. Horwath banged a double and single and Fritz connected for two singles.

Barrelville edged Flintstone on the latter's field by the score of 7-6. Vern Duckworth went the route for the victors and was touched for 11 hits. Matthew Bridges hammered a triple, double and single and Ken Dolly rapped three singles for Flintstone. A four-run outburst in the 5th enabled Barrelville to come from behind to grab the decision.

Eckhart took Ellerslie into camp at Eckhart, 9-6 with Clarence Felker gaining the nod over Bob See. The winners collected 11 hits, including Enardo Arnone's homer and double and a double and two singles for Charley Muletz in four trips. LaRue had a perfect day at bat for Ellerslie, slapping a homer, double and single and drawing a base on balls. Wolfe obtained a triple, double and single.

The Zihlman-Keyser Ridge game at the latter place was not reported. Scores:

Cubs And Braves Split Twin Bill

CHICAGO, Aug. (INS) — The Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader with the Boston Braves today, winning the second game, 4 to 3, after dropping the first contest, 11 to 9.

Frank Hiller held the Braves to seven hits in the second game as he won his sixth straight victory and his tenth of the season.

Hank Sauer's two doubles in the late innings sparked the Cubs attack.

Sauer hit two homers, his 20th and 21st, in the opener but the Cubs fell victim to a late Boston attack which produced six runs in the ninth inning to nose out the Chicago team.

Max Surkont was credited with the Braves' triumph in his first start since he came up from Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League a few days ago.

Luis Olmo hit a homer for the winners in the sixth. Box:

Tigers Salvage Final Of Series From New York

Newhouser Chalks Up 6-3 Win Over Yanks

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (INS)—The Detroit Tigers roared from behind today to salvage the finale of a three-game series with the New York Yankees, 6 to 3, before a crowd of 38,929 at Yankee Stadium.

The Tigers thus escaped from the series with a 2½ game lead in the American League race.

Hal Newhouser granted nine hits but halted the Yanks after the third inning. Prince Hal's worst moment came when Yogi Berra pumped his third homerun in as many days, his 16th of the season and his eighth against Detroit pitching.

Tommy Byrne weakened after shutting out the Tigers for five innings. He gave up two runs in the sixth, but Joe Page gave up the winning single to George Kell in the seventh after Byrne and Fred Sanford had filled the bases on walks.

Eddie Lipon, returning to action after being spiked two weeks ago, paced the Tiger attack with three hits and a walk. Box:

Shuffler Louis Is Not Worried About His Legs

Says Charles Isn't Cutey Like Walcott

Is Joe Louis the Joe Louis of old? Louis himself says no. But that doesn't worry him as far as his heavyweight title fight with Ezzard Charles Sept. 27 is concerned. Following is the third of four articles on the comeback of the Brown Bomber.

By RAY GRODY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 24 (INS)—Joe Louis doesn't try to pretend that, when he comes out of retirement to fight Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight title in New York Sept. 27, he's going to be the Brown Bomber of ten years ago.

Says Louis:

"I'm not kidding myself or trying to kid anyone else that I'll be the same fighter I was ten years ago, because it's not possible.

"But," he emphasizes, "the heavyweights today aren't the same as they were then either. The big things in my favor are my punching and speed in punching. I know I haven't lost them."

Louis has boxed almost 300 rounds in exhibitions—150 this year alone—and he has learned a few things about himself.

"They're saying that my legs won't hold up," he says. "Well, you must remember I never did go in for much dancing around. I was a shuffler. My work came in punching fast. My legs feel fine, and all during my exhibitions they never felt dead or heavy."

Louis figures he will probably get hit more often than he used to. But he says:

"So what? I'm willing to take a few so I can get in some of my own."

What if Charles elects to stay away, content to bide his time in the hope Joe will tire?

"I don't think he'll do that," Louis replied, "but you can never tell. Charles isn't the "cutey' Joe Walcot is. He boxes more and doesn't move from side to side and do all those other crazy things. No, I think Charles will make a fight of it. I hope so."

Does the Bomber think he and Charles will attract a big gate?

"I don't know how big," said Louis, "but those days of million dollar gates are gone, I guess. I figure Charles and I will do between $400,000 and $500,000. As for broadcast or television of the fight, there won't be any—unless we get a mighty good price."

Palestinian Annexes Atlantic City Race

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 24 (AP)—Isidor Bieber's Palestinian, one of last year's ranking 3-year-olds with victories in the Jersey Stakes and Empire City Handicap, gave proof today that he will be a threat in handicap ranks when he raced to a clear-cut win the Mays Landing purse.

Benefitting from his one prior start this year, Palestinian came from off the pace to hold Mrs. William W. Vaughan's Briar White W. P. Taylor's Play Toy came safe by little less than a length. through along the rail position to be third a head off Briar White. Mrs. William E. Snell's Pension was fourth in the field of eight sprinters to dash the six furlongs.

Palestinian was an odds-on choice with the crowd of 14,294 and paid $3.40, $3.00 and $2.60. Briar White returned $7.00, $4.40 and play toy, $5.80.

The manner in which Palestinian raced to victory indicated that he had completely recovered from the ailment which put him out of action in mid-summer of last year.

The last time we were mixed up in a record crowd with Lefty was the 1948 World Series game that attracted 86,288 persons at Cleveland.

Wagering on the horses continues to show a decline in Maryland.

Bel Air reports betting is off 17.6 per cent for the first four days of the current 10-day session.

This is the third state minor running behind 1949's figures. Hagerstown was off 23 per cent and Cumberland's mutuel handle was 11.2 per cent under last year.

And speaking of thoroughbreds, reminds us that the biggest racing stable now owned by a Cumberlander belongs to George Waingold.

George owns five racers and three of the fillies in his stable were purchased from the highly publicized Audley Farm in Virginia. They are Honey Bunch, Hal's Play and Fittest, the latter a three-year-old that has never started. Fittest, according to Waingold, is the best bred of the quintet and is by Strolling Player.

The other Waingold runners are Sobre Todes and Hit Guy.

During the Ascot and Cranwood Park meetings in Ohio in June and July the Waingold string copped ten races. They're now at Randall Park (North Randall, Ohio) where the 19-day meet ends on September 9.

Clyde Plank is trainer of the Waingold bangtails.

Bill Bennings, Washington turf expert, tells of a horse winning at Charles Town in 1936 and no tickets were sold on him. Neither was a ticket sold on the daily double involving the winner who ran in the 2nd race. The name was Sweep Vestal.

The track paid win bets on the thoroughbred finishing 2nd and also figured the daily double on that basis.

Tracks used to buy a ticket on every horse that runs but this is not done any more.

Cochise Wins Saratoga Cup

Arcaro Is Aboard, Double Brandy 2nd

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP)—Brandywine Stable's Cochise, under a brilliant piece of rating by Eddie Arcaro, scored with ease today in the 70th edition of the Saratoga Cup, over the testing distance of a mile and six furlongs.

The gray son of Boswell-New Pin won by four lengths from C. E. Tutle's Double Brandy in the fair time of 2:57 3/5. But Cochise could have run it in faster time had he been pressed to the limit. Addison Stable's Escador, coupled with Arise, was a tiring third, a length back of Double Brandy, while Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Loser Weeper finished fourth in the field of nine.

Cochise, which was the second choice at $6.30, gave Arcaro his first victory in this ancient weight-for-age classic. It also was Eddie's second winner of the day, and his 23rd at the meeting, increasing his lead here for the riding honors. The lone withdrawal from the cup was Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' filly Adile. Each of the starters carried 126 pounds.

The triumph of Cochise brought a measure of consolation to owner Donald Ross and Trainer Buddy Raines, both of whom recently suffered a jolt through the enforced temporary retirement of Greek Song, one of the season's best 3-year-olds. Cochise earned $11,900.

The large ears of the Nubian ferret are equipped with valves which can be closed when the animal is burrowing in sandy soil, thus protecting the organs.

Shuffler Louis Is Not Worried About His Legs

Says Charles Isn't Cutey Like Walcott

Is Joe Louis the Joe Louis of old? Louis himself says no. But that doesn't worry him as far as his heavyweight title fight with Ezzard Charles Sept. 27 is concerned. Following is the third of four articles on the comeback of the Brown Bomber.

By RAY GRODY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 24 (INS)—Joe Louis doesn't try to pretend that, when he comes out of retirement to fight Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight title in New York Sept. 27, he's going to be the Brown Bomber of ten years ago.

Says Louis:

"I'm not kidding myself or trying to kid anyone else that I'll be the same fighter I was ten years ago, because it's not possible.

"But," he emphasizes, "the heavyweights today aren't the same as they were then either. The big things in my favor are my punching and speed in punching. I know I haven't lost them."

Louis has boxed almost 300 rounds in exhibitions—150 this year alone—and he has learned a few things about himself.

"They're saying that my legs won't hold up," he says. "Well, you must remember I never did go in for much dancing around. I was a shuffler. My work came in punching fast. My legs feel fine, and all during my exhibitions they never felt dead or heavy."

Louis figures he will probably get hit more often than he used to. But he says:

"So what? I'm willing to take a few so I can get in some of my own."

What if Charles elects to stay away, content to bide his time in the hope Joe will tire?

"I don't think he'll do that," Louis replied, "but you can never tell. Charles isn't the "cutey' Joe Walcot is. He boxes more and doesn't move from side to side and do all those other crazy things. No. I think Charles will make a fight of it. I hope so."

Does the Bomber think he and Charles will attract a big gate?

"I don't know how big," said Louis, "but those days of million dollar gates are gone, I guess. I figure Charles and I will do between $400,000 and $500,000. As for broadcast or television of the fight, there won't be any—unless we get a mighty good price."

SALEM, N. H Aug., 24 (AP) — T. I. Morgan's Father Link proved the best of eight sophomores today, opening up a length in the first half mile and scoring a three length victory in today's featured Jocky Guild Purse at Rockingham Park.

Kenilworth Farm's favored Broken Crown made a game bid in the stretch run but had to be content with show position over the challenging Tattenham.

Palestinian Annexes Atlantic City Race

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 24 (AP)—Isidor Bieber's Palestinian, one of last year's ranking 3-year-olds with victories in the Jersey Stakes and Empire City Handicap, gave proof today that he will be a threat in handicap ranks when he raced to a clear-cut win the Mays Landing purse.

Benefitting from his one prior start this year, Palestinian came from off the pace to hold Mrs. William W. Vaughan's Briar White W. P. Taylor's Play Toy came safe by little less than a length. through along the rail position to be third a head off Briar White. Mrs. William E. Snell's Pension was fourth in the field of eight sprinters to dash the six furlongs.

Palestinian was an odds-on choice with the crowd of 14,294 and paid $3.40, $3.00 and $2.60. Briar White returned $7.00, $4.40 and play toy, $5.80.

The manner in which Palestinian raced to victory indicated that he had completely recovered from the ailment which put him out of action in mid-summer of last year.

Wagering on the horses continues to show a decline in Maryland.

Bel Air reports betting is off 17.6 per cent for the first four days of the current 10-day session.

This is the third state minor running behind 1949's figures. Hagerstown was off 23 per cent and Cumberland's mutuel handle was 11.2 per cent under last year.

And speaking of thoroughbreds, reminds us that the biggest racing stable now owned by a Cumberlander belongs to George Waingold.

George owns five racers and three of the fillies in his stable were purchased from the highly publicized Audley Farm in Virginia. They are Honey Bunch, Hal's Play and Fittest, the latter a three-year-old that has never started. Fittest, according to Waingold, is the best bred of the quintet and is by Strolling Player.

The other Waingold runners are Sobre Todes and Hit Guy.

During the Ascot and Cranwood Park meetings in Ohio in June and July the Waingold string copped ten races. They're now at Randall Park (North Randall, Ohio) where the 19-day meet ends on September 9.

Clyde Plank is trainer of the Waingold bangtails.

Bill Bennings, Washington turf expert, tells of a horse winning at Charles Town in 1936 and no tickets were sold on him. Neither was a ticket sold on the daily double involving the winner who ran in the 2nd race. The name was Sweep Vestal.

The track paid win bets on the thoroughbred finishing 2nd and also figured the daily double on that basis.

Tracks used to buy a ticket on every horse that runs but this is not done any more.

Cochise Wins Saratoga Cup

Arcaro Is Aboard, Double Brandy 2nd

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP)—Brandywine Stable's Cochise, under a brilliant piece of rating by Eddie Arcaro, scored with ease today in the 70th edition of the Saratoga Cup, over the testing distance of a mile and six furlongs.

The gray son of Boswell-New Pin won by four lengths from C. E. Tutle's Double Brandy in the fair time of 2:57 3/5. But Cochise could have run it in faster time had he been pressed to the limit. Addison Stable's Escador, coupled with Arise, was a tiring third, a length back of Double Brandy, while Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Loser Weeper finished fourth in the field of nine.

Cochise, which was the second choice at $6.30, gave Arcaro his first victory in this ancient weight-for-age classic. It also was Eddie's second winner of the day, and his 23rd at the meeting, increasing his lead here for the riding honors. The lone withdrawal from the cup was Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' filly Adile. Each of the starters carried 126 pounds.

The triumph of Cochise brought a measure of consolation to owner Donald Ross and Trainer Buddy Raines, both of whom recently suffered a jolt through the enforced temporary retirement of Greek Song, one of the season's best 3-year-olds. Cochise earned $11,900.

The large ears of the Nubian ferret are equipped with valves which can be closed when the animal is burrowing in sandy soil, thus protecting the organs.

Sneak To Nightmare

A musical bridge, as if everyone didn't know, consists of a few bars of music interspersed between: "All right, Spade, reach!" and the girl at the corner wondering why Mr. Spade hasn't kept his date with her. There's an enormous library of this stuff, much of it ominous, and WOR in New York once devoted a whole program to bridge music.

John Crosby

The commentator on that program explained: "Bridge music—that's what they call the things that are played between the scenes on dramatic programs. They bridge you from—well, from breakfast at a lunch counter to murder in the haunted laundry. Or from the whispering in the pine trees to the discovery that the man she thought was a burglar is really her uncle."

• — • — •

WOR has 6,000 of these highly descriptive musical bridges in its library and, believe me, it runs the gamut. I've been browsing through some of the 6,000 titles which are even more descriptive than the music. Here'e one of the longer ones: "Wistful Yearning, Love is Born and Surges and Surges and Surges: Then in a Pastoral Setting." One of my pets is: "Ye Old English Countryside but Something is Amiss." Then there's: "Mother, I Feel Lonesome in This Big City," which is followed directly by "A Romp Through the Botanical Gardens" where presumably she has found someone to play with.

WOR specializes in murder, so naturaly it has a lusty collection of these bridges. Among the murder bridges are: "There's a Face in the Window;" "Quick! Follow That Car"; "Macabre, Runing Motor"; "Sneak to Nightmare"; "Twas a Long Dark Night and the Wind . . . etc." and—for the really grusome one—"Out of the Dark Valley Came Slimy Crawling Things . . . etc." I love that etc. What sort of etcetera do you suppose the composer had in mind?

• — • — •

Naturally, love is dwelt on extensively. The love bridges include: "Girl Doesn't Get Boy," "Love, Love, Love, With Apologies to Tchaikovsky," "Marital Rifts," or "Why Didn't You Tell Me This When We Were Back in Prairie City?", "I Hate You! I Hate You! I Hate You!" And one called "Pseudo Love, Pseudo Kiss" for young couples who are just monkeying around.

United World Federalists will be happy to know WOR has a bridge entitled "Brotherly Love: Better World," and labor will be delighted to know that it has two bridges devoted to it, entitled respectively "Hard Labor—CIO," and "Hard Labor—AFL". "Hard Labor—AFL" is not as hard as "Hard Labor—CIO" because the music department belongs to the AFL.

The original purpose of bridge music was not so much to change the mood as to change the scene. There are a lot of bridges which are just scene-shifters. WOR has one bridge called "Big City," another called "Bigger City." One of its best all-purpose scene-shifting bridges is entitled simply "From Here to There Without Fireworks." Or WOR can get very specific with "Slow Taxicab in a Traffic Jam" or "Coming Out of Waterfall Music."

• — • — •

Sometimes the bridges mix scene and mood at the same time. "Menacing Humor to Racetrack Background," for example. My particular favorite in this line is one called "Light Confusion—and Then Down the Stairs in a Hurry."

As for mood, the radio dramatist can settle for "Background—Nostalgic" and cary on from there. Or, if he likes music behind his words, he can get "Background Nostalgic—Tender Into Ye Rude Awakening." Ye Rude Awakening, in this case, is simply a sad chord of a sort known in the trade as a stab. You've heard hundreds of stabs if you listen to the radio much. Not all stabs are bad news, though. WOR can also provide you with a hopeful stab called "Things Are Looking Up."

If you pay much attention to mystery stories, you've certainly heard this one: "Sudden Tumultous Departure, Into Motor, Then Abrupt Arrival. Ominous." That's a rather general bridge that can be used for all sorts of occasions. However, WOR has a few highly specialized occasions. My favorite in this category is one called: "Mommie Mommie! Mommie! Daddy's Suitcase is Gone!"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

SIGNAL WITH RIGHT CARD

WHEN YOU give your partner an encouraging signal, by playing on his lead something which he can read as higher than your lowest, it is essential to select the correct card for the purpose. Even the choice between such cards as a 7 and an 8 may be of great importance to your side. If you look forward a wee bit, you may see that on your next turn you will wish to have the other one of those two for a shift signal.

When East saw the heart K lead, he could read easily that West had either four or five hearts, since with six to the A-K he would surely have made a not-vulnerable overcall of 2-Hearts over the 1-Spade. He also knew that the K guaranteed possession of the A, since East himself had the Q. It was therefore important, he felt, to have West score a second heart trick at once, or otherwise South might be able to discard a heart loser on the dummy's clubs.

So East decided to give West an encouraging card, selecting the 8 rather carelessly for the purpose. When West obediently followed with the A, East was in a quandary. With the Q, 7 and 3 left, any one of those would request a third heart lead. The Q would be the natural second play if he had that alone after using the 8, and its use would say that East now had a blank in the suit. The play of the 7 or 3, lower than the 8, would complete a high-low.

In a choice of evils, East chose the 7. That high-low caused a third heart lead, which was ruffed in dummy while South discarded the diamond 9. The contract was assured by that, as South afterward lost only one more trick, to the spade A.

If East had used the heart 7 on the first trick and the 8 on the second, West would have shifted to a diamond. That would have established the setter for East while he had the spade A for an entry.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

A T E Y J T I W W B, Q W A X S W G D: A T E Y J T J W K A S W, Q W A K E A I Y S S—I W K T G V.

Sneak To Nightmare

A musical bridge, as if everyone didn't know, consists of a few bars of music interspersed between: "All right, Spade, reach!" and the girl at the corner wondering why Mr. Spade hasn't kept his date with her. There's an enormous library of this stuff, much of it ominous, and WOR in New York once devoted a whole program to bridge music.

John Crosby

The commentator on that program explained: "Bridge music—that's what they call the things that are played between the scenes on dramatic programs. They bridge you from—well, from breakfast at a lunch counter to murder in the haunted laundry. Or from the whispering in the pine trees to the discovery that the man she thought was a burglar is really her uncle."

•—•—•

WOR has 6,000 of these highly descriptive musical bridges in its library and, believe me, it runs the gamut. I've been browsing through some of the 6,000 titles which are even more descriptive than the music. Here'e one of the longer ones: "Wistful Yearning, Love is Born and Surges and Surges and Surges: Then in a Pastoral Setting." One of my pets is: "Ye Old English Countryside but Something is Amiss." Then there's: "Mother, I Feel Lonesome in This Big City," which is followed directly by "A Romp Through the Botanical Gardens" where presumably she has found someone to play with.

WOR specializes in murder, so naturaly it has a lusty collection of these bridges. Among the murder bridges are: "There's a Face in the Window;" "Quick! Follow That Car"; "Macabre, Runing Motor"; "Sneak to Nightmare"; "Twas a Long Dark Night and the Wind . . . etc." and—for the really gruesome one—"Out of the Dark Valley Came Slimy Crawling Things . . . etc." I love that etc. What sort of etcetera do you suppose the composer had in mind?

Naturally, love is dwelt on extensively. The love bridges include: "Girl Doesn't Get Boy," "Love, Love, Love, With Apologies to Tchaikovsky," "Marital Rifts," or "Why Didn't You Tell Me This When We Were Back in Prairie City?", "I Hate You! I Hate You! I Hate You!" And one called "Pseudo Love, Pseudo Kiss" for young couples who are just monkeying around.

United World Federalists will be happy to know WOR has a bridge entitled "Brotherly Love: Better World," and labor will be delighted to know that it has two bridges devoted to it, entitled respectively "Hard Labor—CIO," and "Hard Labor—AFL". "Hard Labor—AFL" is not as hard as "Hard Labor—CIO" because the music department belongs to the AFL.

The original purpose of bridge music was not so much to change the mood as to change the scene. There are a lot of bridges which are just scene-shifters. WOR has one bridge called "Big City," another called "Bigger City." One of its best all-purpose scene-shifting bridges is entitled simply "From Here to There Without Fireworks." Or WOR can get very specific with "Slow Taxicab in a Traffic Jam" or "Coming Out of Waterfall Music."

Sometimes the bridges mix scene and mood at the same time. "Menacing Humor to Racetrack Background," for example. My particular favorite in this line is one called "Light Confusion—and Then Down the Stairs in a Hurry."

As for mood, the radio dramatist can settle for "Background—Nostalgic" and cary on from there. Or, if he likes music behind his words, he can get "Background Nostalgic—Tender Into Ye Rude Awakening." Ye Rude Awakening, in this case, is simply a sad chord of a sort known in the trade as a stab. You've heard hundreds of stabs if you listen to the radio much. Not all stabs are bad news, though. WOR can also provide you with a hopeful stab called "Things Are Looking Up."

If you pay much attention to mystery stories, you've certainly heard this one: "Sudden Tumultous Departure, Into Motor, Then Abrupt Arrival. Ominous." That's a rather general bridge that can be used for all sorts of occasions. However, WOR has a few highly specialized occasions. My favorite in this category is one called: "Mommie Mommie! Mommie! Daddy's Suitcase is Gone!"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

SIGNAL WITH RIGHT CARD

WHEN YOU give your partner an encouraging signal, by playing on his lead something which he can read as higher than your lowest, it is essential to select the correct card for the purpose. Even the choice between such cards as a 7 and an 8 may be of great importance to your side. If you look forward a wee bit, you may see that on your next turn you will wish to have the other one of those two for a shift signal.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

ATEYJT IWWB, QWA XSWGD: ATEYJT JWKASW, QWA KEA IYSS—IWKTGV.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HE THAT DESPISETH SMALL THINGS WILL PERISH BY LITTLE AND LITTLE—EMERSON.

T.V. WIGGLES USED TO BE A WRESTLER, BUT HE GOT MIXED UP WITH THE UNDERWORLD AND WAS FINALLY KICKED OUT OF THE PROFESSION.
8/25 '50
HE HAD A SECRET HOLD THAT WAS ABSOLUTELY PARALYZING. HE COULD BLACK-OUT A MAN BY SEIZING A CERTAIN NERVE.
HE LEARNED IT FROM AN ORIENTAL WHO HAD USED IT ON T.V. AND SEVERED A NERVE IN WIGGLES' NECK.
AS SPORTS EDITOR, I KNOW THAT MUCH ABOUT HIM BUT NO MORE. SORRY.

Railroad Stocks Hold Firm Despite Threat Of Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP) — The market for railway stocks was only mildly disturbed today by the threat of a nationwide strike.

Some carrier issues dropped back a bit but many either managed to get ahead or finished unchanged. One issue, Nickel Plate, advanced sharply.

Elsewhere price trends were cloudy. Another rich flow of higher or extra dividends helped some shares while many of the market's usual leaders faltered.

The comparative stability of the rail group in the face of a strike threat was linked to widespread expectations that the government would seize the rails to maintain transportation.

Business was not much more active than yesterday. Sales of 1,620,000 shares compared with 1,570,000 Wednesday.

With minor exceptions price changes were limited to 50 cents a share or less.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .1 of one point to 79.4 after reaching the highest point in more than two months yesterday. All three groups—industrials, rails and utilities—showed small declines.

Rails have behaved impressively in recent weeks.

Nickel Plate Railway, often a volatile issue, jumped 3⅝ to 131½. Ahead fractionally were Missouri-Kansas - Texas preferred at 33⅞ Chicago & Eastern Illinois 10¾ and Legih Valley 8⅞.

High-priced Santa Fe lost 1⅞ at 122⅞ and Southern Railway 1⅛ at 40⅛.

Down fractions were N. Y. Central 14¾, Pennsylvania R. R. 18¾, Baltimore & Ohio 12⅛, Chesapeake & Ohio 30¾, and Southern Pacific 60⅜.

Libbey-Owens-Ford staged a solo show with a jump of 7⅝ to 76⅛. The advance followed news of a dividend increase and stockholder approval of a stock split-up plan which was recommended by directors a month ago.

Matter Of Fact

40 per cent of the national output was going to the military during the last war, and the real standard of living actually improved. This miracle cannot be repeated, of course, without a sensible control program. To prevent a ruinous inflation, painful measures will be necessary—very high taxes, tough allocation, commodity credit and farm price measures, almost certainly some selective price, wage, and rationing controls, for which standby administrative machinery should be authorized immediately.

With a sensible control program, the garrison state which this country must become can be that apparent contradiction in terms—a reasonably prosperous and comfortable garrison state. But if the Truman administration continues indefinitely to talk out of both sides of its mouth, while the opposition in Congress slyly maneuvers for political advantage, the economy will go smash, and our garrison state will be very far from comfortable. This now seems rather likely to be our well-deserved fate.

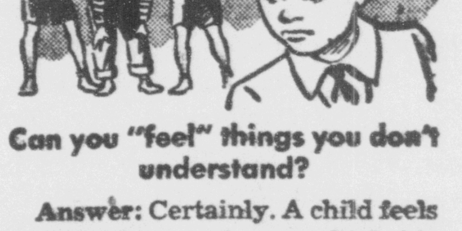
MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

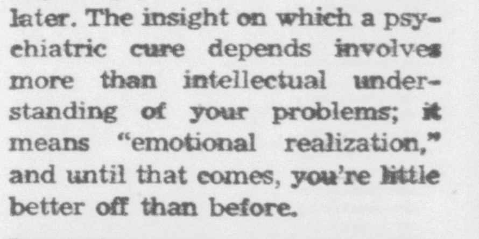
May severe shock leave you "feeling nothing"?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Ralph R. Greenson in the Psychoanalytic Quarterly. Lack of feeling ("apathy") may come as the result of being suddenly deprived of something which you very much want—perhaps through the loss of a loved one; or in certain types of war neuroses in which the victim appears to be faced with annihilation. A similar attitude is characteristic of certain types of insanity, and to a less degree of extreme boredom. What happens is that the conscious mind refuses to respond to any stimuli, from without or within.



Can you "feel" things you don't understand?

Answer: Certainly. A child feels many things to be so which his intelligence cannot grasp clearly and which he could not possibly put into words. And these childish feelings or "impressions"—a feeling of difference from other children, for example—often influence your behavior more than anything you learn intellectually later. The insight on which a psychiatric cure depends involves more than intellectual understanding of your problems; it means "emotional realization," and until that comes, you're little better off than before.



Would marriage survive without formal sanctions?

Answer: Yes, maintains Ralph Linton in his contribution to "The Family," a symposium compiled by R. N. Anshen. "The family is the oldest of human social institutions," and will always exist, though it will tend in the future to consist of one married couple and their children rather than a larger group of blood kin. The way to achieve enduring marriage is to educate people to choose mates more wisely. But a marriage which is fundamentally congenial "needs no formal sanctions or external pressures to insure its continuity."

Railroad Stocks Hold Firm Despite Threat Of Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP) — The market for railway stocks was only mildly disturbed today by the threat of a nationwide strike.

Some carrier issues dropped back a bit but many either managed to get ahead or finished unchanged. One issue, Nickel Plate, advanced sharply.

Elsewhere price trends were cloudy. Another rich flow of higher or extra dividends helped some shares while many of the market's usual leaders faltered.

The comparative stability of the rail group in the face of a strike threat was linked to widespread expectations that the government would seize the rails to maintain transportation.

Business was not much more active than yesterday. Sales of 1,620,000 shares compared with 1,570,000 Wednesday.

With minor exceptions price changes were limited to 50 cents a share or less.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .1 of one point to 79.4 after reaching the highest point in more than two months yesterday. All three groups—industrials, rails and utilities—showed small declines.

Rails have behaved impressively in recent weeks.

Nickel Plate Railway, often a volatile issue, jumped 3⅝ to 131½. Ahead fractionally were Missouri-Kansas - Texas preferred at 33⅞ Chicago & Eastern Illinois 10¾ and Legih Valley 8⅞.

High-priced Santa Fe lost 1⅞ at 122⅞ and Southern Railway 1⅛ at 40⅛.

Down fractions were N. Y. Central 14¾, Pennsylvania R. R. 18¾, Baltimore & Ohio 12⅛, Chesapeake & Ohio 30¾, and Southern Pacific 60⅜.

Libbey-Owens-Ford staged a solo show with a jump of 7⅝ to 76⅛. The advance followed news of a dividend increase and stockholder approval of a stock split-up plan which was recommended by directors a month ago.

Matter Of Fact

40 per cent of the national output was going to the military during the last war, and the real standard of living actually improved. This miracle cannot be repeated, of course, without a sensible control program. To prevent a ruinous inflation, painful measures will be necessary—very high taxes, tough allocation, commodity credit and farm price measures, almost certainly some selective price, wage, and rationing controls, for which standby administrative machinery should be authorized immediately.

With a sensible control program, the garrison state which this country must become can be that apparent contradiction in terms—a reasonably prosperous and comfortable garrison state. But if the Truman administration continues indefinitely to talk out of both sides of its mouth, while the opposition in Congress slyly maneuvers for political advantage, the economy will go smash, and our garrison state will be very far from comfortable. This now seems rather likely to be our well-deserved fate.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

May severe shock leave you "feeling nothing"?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Ralph R. Greenson in the Psychoanalytic Quarterly. Lack of feeling ("apathy") may come as the result of being suddenly deprived of something which you very much want—perhaps through the loss of a loved one; or in certain types of war neuroses in which the victim appears to be faced with annihilation. A similar attitude is characteristic of certain types of insanity, and to a less degree of extreme boredom. What happens is that the conscious mind refuses to respond to any stimuli, from without or within.

Can you "feel" things you don't understand?

Answer: Certainly. A child feels many things to be so which his intelligence cannot grasp clearly and which he could not possibly put into words. And these childish feelings or "impressions"—a feeling of difference from other children, for example—often influence your behavior more than anything you learn intellectually later. The insight on which a psychiatric cure depends involves more than intellectual understanding of your problems; it means "emotional realization," and until that comes, you're little better off than before.

Would marriage survive without formal sanctions?

Answer: Yes, maintains Ralph Linton in his contribution to "The Family," a symposium compiled by R. N. Anshen. "The family is the oldest of human social institutions," and will always exist, though it will tend in the future to consist of one married couple and their children rather than a larger group of blood kin. The way to achieve enduring marriage is to educate people to choose mates more wisely. But a marriage which is fundamentally congenial "needs no formal sanctions or external pressures to insure its continuity."

Funds To Be Continued For Area Projects

Beall Reports That Savage River, Flood Work Will Proceed

Rep. J. Glenn Beall gave assurance last night that appropriations will be continued this year for the Savage River Dam and the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

In a telephone conversation with The Cumberland News, Beall said this means that the Savage River Dam definitely will be completed this year.

Army Engineers will approve for continuance those projects which they consider advantageous, Beall said.

The Savage River and flood control projects fall in that category, he explained.

Beall said House and Senate conferees on the Civil Functions appropriations bill have agreed that all non-essential projects will be curtailed except those that the President deems necessary to the Korean war effort.

No Curtailment

The Frostburg legislator said he has been assured by the appropriations committee that there will be no curtailment in operations of the two area projects.

On Tuesday it was revealed that U. S. Senator Herbert R. O'Conor believed the two projects should be postponed because of the Korean fighting.

Maryland's senior U. S. Senator, Millard E. Tydings, said yesterday, however, that he is in favor of completing both projects.

"In cases where the flood threat is moderate, work could be delayed," Senator Tydings declared. "But in the case of Cumberland, where floods have caused tremendous damage, I think the projects should be classed as emergency and completed as soon as possible."

Appropriations bills which contained provisions for the projects have been pased by both the House and Senate in a different form and are being studied in conference.

Confidence that the area projects will be completed on schedule was expressed last night by C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council.

Confer With Beall

In a call from Washington, Stutzman said he and F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024, conferred with Rep. Beall yesterday.

He said they had been reassured by Rep Beall that the bill passed by the House of Representatives would not affect projects which are already under construction, are necessary or are in distress areas.

Both the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project and the Savage River Dam, he added, meet all of these requirements.

Stutzman said they were assured the action taken by the lawmakers was chiefly directed at work which has not been started, is not essential and is located in other than distress areas.

He said plans for a conference

Tydings Says Projects Must "Take A Test"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — Senator Tydings (D-Md) said tonight that Maryland flood control projects should be classed as emergency work before getting additional federal funds at present.

"No expenditures should be made now for any project not emergency classed," in view of the Korean crisis, he said.

Concerning flood control projects on the Cumberland-Ridgeley and Savage rivers, he said this work would "have to take a test" to determine if it is in the emergency class.

Asked if he considered these projects in the emergency class, he said it would be up to the Army Engineers to determine that.

"We will have to see if these projects will take that test," he said.

Tydings has said he favors postponement of non-defense activities which are not vital to the national welfare.

New S. A. Post Officer Here

Second Lt. Harry Lezcano arrived here from Nashville, Tenn., Wednesday night, to take command of the Salvation Army Outpost, 511 Virginia Avenue, Major Elmer Wall, commander of the Cumberland Salvation Army Corps, announced yesterday.

Lt. Lezcano will succed Lt. Joseph Askey, who has been in charge of the Outpost since February, 1949, and who left here to take command of the Hampton Salvation Army Corps in Baltimore.

The new Outpost commander was trained at the Salvation Army Training College, Atlanta, Ga., and since then he has been in charge of religious affairs at Magness Citadel, Nashville, Tenn.

Major Wall will officiate at a welcome meeting planned Sunday at 8 p. m. at the Outpost.

Retiring Electricians Honored By Fellow Workers

Two retiring Celanese Corporation of America electricians were honored last night at a testimonial dinner given them by their fellow electricians at 7 p. m. in the American Legion Home, Frostburg. J. Walter Byer, center, was presented a watch by Charles E. Morris (left), of the electrical department, and Peter W. Traynor right), received a suitcase. Byer who retired last June has been with the corporation since 1924 and is now manager of the Frostburg AAA. Traynor, who will retire next week, has been with Celanese since 1927 and intends to retire for awhile. Attending the dinner were fellow workers of the two men in the electrical insulation and refrigerating departments. John Rowan served as toastmaster. Harrison C. Givens, Jr., plant manager, and W. J. Elvin, assistant plant engineer, gave brief addresses.

Nine 4-H Youths Participate In Tractor Contest

Gary Teeter Wins For Second Year

Nine county boys, all members of the 4-H Tractor Club, participated in the first Allegany County Tractor Operators' Contest held at the Cumberland Fair yesterday, beginning at 2 p. m., in front of the grandstand.

Gary Teeter, Flintstone, won the contest for the second year in a row after tying James Miltenberg, city, for top honors in the first heat. Teeter defeated Miltenberg in a run-off contest 310 to 325.

Teeter, who will be the county entrant in the state tractor contest at the Timonium Fair, placed third in the state contest last year.

Copping third and fourth place, respectively, yesterday were Norman and James Smith, of Piney Plains.

Joseph Steger, assistant county farm agent, recalled that the Tractor Club was organized in January of this year to give 4-H boys training in tractor maintenance. Only boys 14-years-old or older who had taken this course were eligible to enter the contest yesterday.

The four-part contest began with an examination, given by Steger, of ten questions on the material covered in the maintenance course. Ten points were taken off for each wrong answer.

Secondly, the boys had to inspect their tractors to see that they were in tiptop condition. Points were taken off for sloppy inspection and missed parts.

The driving test consisted of an obstacle course around an S-shaped drive an a 4-front barn and included backing the vehicle into a shed.

The final test was a belting problem in which the tractors were hooked to a pulley providing power to run a feed mill.

Chief judge was Guy Gienger, agricultural engineering specialist from the University of Maryland. He was assisted by representatives from the three local dealers who contributed tractors for the contest.

All scoring was done on a point basis with the lowest scoring contestant winning.

The four top entrants will receive cash awards, Steger added.

Other entrants were David Ferguson, Union Grove; Theodore Pluffenberger, Piney Plains; James Browning, Flinstone; Eldon Long, Oldtown, and Dale Harvey, Frostburg.

Steger said that although the crowd watching the contest, which lasted nearly three hours, was small they seemed to enjoy the action. He hopes the event will become a regular part of the fair.

Four Grand Prizes To Be Offered At City "Fishing Rodeo" Tomorrow

Four grand prizes instead of two will be awarded at Cumberland's second annual "fishing rodeo" to be held Saturday on the banks of Town Creek at the Cardinal Club, Oldtown Road.

This was announced last night by the City Recreation Department, which is sponsoring the event in cooperation with the Cumberland Outdoor Club.

Better Fishing, Inc., a nation-wide organization which originated the idea of fishing rodeos for youngsters, is doubling the number of grand prizes here because of the large number of entries last year.

Over 700 youngsters attended the 1949 rodeo, which was held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club pool in Evitts Creek.

A shipment of 1,000 blue gill fish will arrive here today from the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission and will be stocked in Town Creek at the rodeo site by Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke.

Over 1,000 youngsters, representing all 15 city playgrounds, are expected to take part in tomorrow's event.

Classes Planned

Chartered buses and private cars will leave the playgrounds tomorrow morning between 9:15 and 9:30, and the rodeo will get underway at 10.

Minke and P. O. Weber, general chairman of the event and vice president of the Cumberland Outdoor Club, assisted by other club members, will hold brief classes for each playground group during the morning.

They will give the youngsters tips on fishing as well as a briefing on fish and game laws.

The rodeo event is open to boys and girls up to 16 years of age. Those over 15 must have fishing licenses.

Youngsters will bring their own lunches but five local dairies are donating chocolate milk.

An hour's halt will be called at noon for lunch. Horseshoe pitching, volleyball and other games will be available to provide variety during the day's program.

The rodeo will end at 4 p. m., when prize winners will be announced and awards made by the Outdoor Club judging committee, which consists of Charles Simpson, Ray Long, Lester Davis, Charles Seitz and John McConnell.

Kits Provided

The four Better Fishing grand prizes will be awarded for the largest fish caught by boys and girls under and over 12 years of age.

Better Fishing has also supplied 24 fishing kits to be awarded as special prizes during the day. In addition, prizes have been donated by local merchants.

The two largest fish will be mounted and placed on display in a downtown store window after the rodeo.

Several of the prizes to be offered are now on display at the Sports Shop.

City Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey said the rodeo event will be held rain or shine.

Firms Interested In Sewage Plant

About five engineering firms have indicated they are interested in ubmitting proposals on planning work for the proposed $1,441,000 sewage disposal plant in Cumberland.

This was reported by Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday.

The mayor said two engineers, Gustav J. Requardt of the Baltimore firm of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, and Wilson T. Ballard, Baltimore, who was formerly associated with the State Roads Commission, conferred with him yesterday.

Last month the Mayor and Council voted to accept a government offer of a $56,000 federal loan to finance the cost of preparing contract drawings and specifications for the plant.

The loan has not been advanced as yet, the mayor said.

Chest Approves $87,794 Goal For 1950-51

Campaign Planned During October

A goal of $87,794.34 was set last night for the 1950-51 Cumberland Community Chest campaign which will open here in October.

The action was taken by the Chest's executive committee following a report of the Budget committee headed by R. A. J. Morrison.

Morrison pointed out the Budget committee, while alloting increases to virtually all agencies for the coming year, had given greater amounts to agencies representing the character building parts of the program.

He said it is essential that youth agencies be brought back to a firm footing since it was necessary last year to cut back such allotments.

The committee reported it felt economic conditions this year are better than last, enabling the restoration of normal aid to character building agencies.

Budget Is Approved

The 1950-51 goal, which exceeds by some $4,000 the 1949-50 awards, is allocated to:

Associated Charities, $21,300.
Baby Welfare Society, $2,300.
Boy Scouts, $6,500.
Girl Scouts, $6,600.
Jewish Welfare Society, $300.
Keating Day Nursery, $4,600.
Salvation Army, $12,000.
Travelers Aid Society, $1,525.
YMCA, $17,250.

Accept July Report

During its meetings, the budget group was faced with the necessity of dropping requests totaling $104,716.33 to the $87,794 mark by eliminating all items it felt could be cut and still permit the agencies to function properly.

At the meeting in charge of Earl C. Robertson, president, reports on July operations were approved.

The report showed a balance of $16,873.73 on June 30 with receipts of $3,367.95 for a total of $20,241.68.

July disbursements totaled $6,127.52, leaving a balance of $14,114.16. Total receipts from 1949-50 pledges to August 1 are $70,629.14, or 84 per cent of all pledges.

Yule Plans Progressing

The Mercantile Bureau of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce reported yesterday that preliminary reports on the financing of its anticipated Christmas program are satisfactory.

A survey is being made of all merchants to determine whether the expanded program can be underwritten.

The program will call for a new plan of street decorations and a Christmas parade.

The parade under consideration would be a 45 minute spectacle held November 27 to officially open the Yule season here.

It is the identical parade which is being held in Baltimore, Johnstown and Harrisburg, Pa.

A special feature which would be of interest to Cumberlanders is a giant balloon train, including an engine, tender and two coaches.

Other items planned in the line of march are 10 balloon heads, two couriers, two soldiers, duck, pig, rocket ship, Indian squaw, totem pole, tepee, clown, dragon, elephant, pumpkin house, kangaroo, prehistoric animals and a giant caterpillar.

Some 185 persons are required to stage the parade and hold the inflated figures.

The Weather

It's hard to believe it's August, we've been having such nice weather. Temperatures stayed in the high 70's all day yesterday and the sun was too hot for only a little while in the afternoon. No rain was recorded although the day was humid and despite high temperatures the air felt cool at times. Figures show a low of 65 and 70 respectively at Constitution Park and downtown. High was 80 and 83 in the same order. Today more of the same, partly cloudy, rather warm and humid.

B. And O. Will Halt Operations If Strike Comes

Unions Here Have Not Received Call

BALTIMORE, Aug. 24 (AP)—If the threatened nationwide railroad strike materializes, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will have to cease "all operations" and probably furlough most of its 50,000 employes, President Roy B. White said today.

White commented that "I fervently hope that the strike will not occur — not solely because I represent railroad management but because of the serious effect such action would have in view of conditions with which our country is now confronted."

White said the B. and O. will make no plans to curtail service prior to the 6 a. m. Monday deadline set by the Trainmen's and Conductors' unions.

Officials of both the B. and O. and the Pennsylvania Railroad reported they are moving very heavy volumes of freight. Customers are expected to boost shipments extensively in order to beat the strike deadline.

The Western Maryland Railway has a stand-by agreement with Railroad Brotherhoods under which its trains can be kept operating. But a spokesman said, however, the workers may not honor this agreement in view of the strike call.

Officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors reported here last night that no official word has been received concerning the strike call.

One union official said he presumed the union negotiators had decided the time had come for some action since the dispute is still unsettled after 17 months of negotiations.

Funds To Be Continued For Area Projects

Beall Reports That Savage River, Flood Work Will Proceed

Rep. J. Glenn Beall gave assurance last night that appropriations will be continued this year for the Savage River Dam and the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

In a telephone conversation with The Cumberland News, Beall said this means that the Savage River Dam definitely will be completed this year.

Army Engineers will approve for continuance those projects which they consider advantageous, Beall said.

The Savage River and flood control projects fall in that category, he explained.

Beall said House and Senate conferees on the Civil Functions appropriations bill have agreed that all non-essential projects will be curtailed except those that the President deems necessary to the Korean war effort.

No Curtailment

The Frostburg legislator said he has been assured by the appropriations committee that there will be no curtailment in operations of the two area projects.

On Tuesday it was revealed that U. S. Senator Herbert R. O'Conor believed the two projects should be postponed because of the Korean fighting.

Maryland's senior U. S. Senator, Millard E. Tydings, said yesterday, however, that he is in favor of completing both projects.

"In cases where the flood threat is moderate, work could be delayed," Senator Tydings declared. "But in the case of Cumberland, where floods have caused tremendous damage, I think the projects should be classed as emergency and completed as soon as possible."

Appropriations bills which contained provisions for the projects have been pased by both the House and Senate in a different form and are being studied in conference.

Confidence that the area projects will be completed on schedule was expressed last night by C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council.

Confer With Beall

In a call from Washington, Stutzman said he and F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024, conferred with Rep. Beall yesterday.

He said they had been reassured by Rep Beall that the bill passed by the House of Representatives would not affect projects which are already under construction, are necessary or are in distress areas.

Both the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project and the Savage River Dam, he added, meet all of these requirements.

Stutzman said they were assured the action taken by the lawmakers was chiefly directed at work which has not been started, is not essential and is located in other than distress areas.

He said plans for a conference

Tydings Says Projects Must "Take A Test"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP) — Senator Tydings (D-Md) said tonight that Maryland flood control projects should be classed as emergency work before getting additional federal funds at present.

"No expenditures should be made now for any project not emergency classed," in view of the Korean crisis, he said.

Concerning flood control projects on the Cumberland-Ridgeley and Savage rivers, he said this work would "have to take a test" to determine if it is in the emergency class.

Asked if he considered these projects in the emergency class, he said it would be up to the Army Engineers to determine that.

"We will have to see if these projects will take that test," he said.

Tydings has said he favors postponement of non-defense activities which are not vital to the national welfare.

Nine 4-H Youths Participate In Tractor Contest

Gary Teeter Wins For Second Year

Nine county boys, all members of the 4-H Tractor Club, participated in the first Allegany County Tractor Operators' Contest held at the Cumberland Fair yesterday, beginning at 2 p. m., in front of the grandstand.

Gary Teeter, Flintstone, won the contest for the second year in a row after tying James Miltenberg, city, for top honors in the first heat. Teeter defeated Miltenberg in a run-off contest 310 to 325.

Teeter, who will be the county entrant in the state tractor contest at the Timonium Fair, placed third in the state contest last year.

Copping third and fourth place, respectively, yesterday were Norman and James Smith, of Piney Plains.

Joseph Steger, assistant county farm agent, recalled that the Tractor Club was organized in January of this year to give 4-H boys training in tractor maintenance. Only boys 14-years-old or older who had taken this course were eligible to enter the contest yesterday.

The four-part contest began with an examination, given by Steger, of ten questions on the material covered in the maintenance course. Ten points were taken off for each wrong answer.

Secondly, the boys had to inspect their tractors to see that they were in tiptop condition. Points were taken off for sloppy inspection and missed parts.

The driving test consisted of an obstacle course around an S-shaped drive an a 4-front barn and included backing the vehicle into a shed.

The final test was a belting problem in which the tractors were hooked to a pulley providing power to run a feed mill.

Chief judge was Guy Gienger, agricultural engineering specialist from the University of Maryland. He was assisted by representatives from the three local dealers who contributed tractors for the contest.

All scoring was done on a point basis with the lowest scoring contestant winning.

The four top entrants will receive cash awards, Steger added.

Other entrants were David Ferguson, Union Grove; Theodore Puffenberger, Piney Plains; James Browning, Flinstone; Eldon Long, Oldtown, and Dale Harvey, Frostburg.

Steger said that although the crowd watching the contest, which lasted nearly three hours, was small they seemed to enjoy the action. He hopes the event will become a regular part of the fair.

Four Grand Prizes To Be Offered At City "Fishing Rodeo" Tomorrow

Four grand prizes instead of two will be awarded at Cumberland's second annual "fishing rodeo" to be held Saturday on the banks of Town Creek at the Cardinal Club, Oldtown Road.

This was announced last night by the City Recreation Department, which is sponsoring the event in cooperation with the Cumberland Outdoor Club.

Better Fishing, Inc., a nation-wide organization which originated the idea of fishing rodeos for youngsters, is doubling the number of grand prizes here because of the large number of entries last year.

Over 700 youngsters attended the 1949 rodeo, which was held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club pool in Evitts Creek.

A shipment of 1,000 blue gill fish will arrive here today from the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission and will be stocked in Town Creek at the rodeo site by Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke.

Over 1,000 youngsters, representing all 15 city playgrounds, are expected to take part in tomorrow's event.

Classes Planned

Chartered buses and private cars will leave the playgrounds tomorrow morning between 9:15 and 9:30, and the rodeo will get underway at 10.

Minke and P. O. Weber, general chairman of the event and vice president of the Cumberland Outdoor Club, assisted by other club members, will hold brief classes for each playground group during the morning.

They will give the youngsters tips on fishing as well as a briefing on fish and game laws.

The rodeo event is open to boys and girls up to 16 years of age. Those over 15 must have fishing licenses.

Youngsters will bring their own lunches but five local dairies are donating chocolate milk.

An hour's halt will be called at noon for lunch. Horseshoe pitching, volleyball and other games will be available to provide variety during the day's program.

The rodeo will end at 4 p. m., when prize winners will be announced and awards made by the Outdoor Club judging committee, which consists of Charles Simpson, Ray Long, Lester Davis, Charles Seitz and John McConnell.

Kits Provided

The four Better Fishing grand prizes will be awarded for the largest fish caught by boys and girls under and over 12 years of age.

Better Fishing has also supplied 24 fishing kits to be awarded as special prizes during the day. In addition, prizes have been donated by local merchants.

The two largest fish will be mounted and placed on display in a downtown store window after the rodeo.

Several of the prizes to be offered are now on display at the Sports Shop.

City Recreation Director Edmund F. Hoey said the rodeo event will be held rain or shine.

About five engineering firms have ndicated they are interested in ubmitting proposals on planning work for the proposed $1,441,000 sewage disposal plant in Cumberland.

Chest Approves $87,794 Goal For 1950-51

Campaign Planned During October

A goal of $87,794.34 was set last night for the 1950-51 Cumberland Community Chest campaign which will open here in October.

The action was taken by the Chest's executive committee following a report of the Budget committee headed by R. A. J. Morrison.

Morrison pointed out the Budget committee, while alloting increases to virtually all agencies for the coming year, had given greater amounts to agencies representing the character building parts of the program.

He said it is essential that youth agencies be brought back to a firm footing since it was necessary last year to cut back such allotments.

The committee reported it felt economic conditions this year are better than last, enabling the restoration of normal aid to character building agencies.

Budget Is Approved

The 1950-51 goal, which exceeds by some $4,000 the 1949-50 awards, is allocated to:

Associated Charities, $21,300.
Baby Welfare Society, $2,300.
Boy Scouts, $6,500.
Girl Scouts, $6,600.
Jewish Welfare Society, $300.
Keating Day Nursery, $4,600.
Salvation Army, $12,000.
Travelers Aid Society, $1,525.
YMCA, $17,250.

Accept July Report

During its meetings, the budget group was faced with the necessity of dropping requests totaling $104,716.33 to the $87,794 mark by eliminating all items it felt could be cut and still permit the agencies to function properly.

At the meeting in charge of Earl C. Robertson, president, reports on July operations were approved.

The report showed a balance of $16,873.73 on June 30 with receipts of $3,367.95 for a total of $20,241.68.

July disbursements totaled $6,127.52, leaving a balance of $14,114.16. Total receipts from 1949-50 pledges to August 1 are $70,629.14, or 84 per cent of all pledges.

Yule Plans Progressing

The Mercantile Bureau of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce reported yesterday that preliminary reports on the financing of its anticipated Christmas program are satisfactory.

A survey is being made of all merchants to determine whether the expanded program can be underwritten.

The program will call for a new plan of street decorations and a Christmas parade.

The parade under consideration would be a 45 minute spectacle held November 27 to officially open the Yule season here.

It is the identical parade which is being held in Baltimore, Johnstown and Harrisburg, Pa.

A special feature which would be of interest to Cumberlanders is a giant balloon train, including an engine, tender and two coaches.

Other items planned in the line of march are 10 balloon heads, two couriers, two soldiers, duck, pig, rocket ship, Indian squaw, totem pole, tepee, clown, dragon, elephant, pumpkin house, kangaroo, prehistoric animals and a giant caterpillar.

Some 185 persons are required to stage the parade and hold the inflated figures.

B. And O. Will Halt Operations If Strike Comes

Unions Here Have Not Received Call

BALTIMORE, Aug. 24 (AP)—If the threatened nationwide railroad strike materializes, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will have to cease "all operations" and probably furlough most of its 50,000 employes, President Roy B. White said today.

White commented that "I fervently hope that the strike will not occur — not solely because I represent railroad management but because of the serious effect such action would have in view of conditions with which our country is now confronted."

White said the B. and O. will make no plans to curtail service prior to the 6 a. m. Monday deadline set by the Trainmen's and Conductors' unions.

Officials of both the B. and O. and the Pennsylvania Railroad reported they are moving very heavy volumes of freight. Customers are expected to boost shipments extensively in order to beat the strike deadline.

The Western Maryland Railway has a stand-by agreement with Railroad Brotherhoods under which its trains can be kept operating. But a spokesman said, however, the workers may not honor this agreement in view of the strike call.

Officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors reported here last night that no official word has been received concerning the strike call.

One union official said he presumed the union negotiators had decided the time had come for some action since the dispute is still unsettled after 17 months of negotiations.
